MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as head lines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage is drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find Mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instruments as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

August 23, 24, 26, 27, 28, 29.

Questions and Answers.

reads it seems to apply to the place where the offering is made, and a broker doing business in Yonkers or Mount Vernon could offer any property, even New York property for sale,, while the New York or Buffalo broker could not offer a Sullivan County farm without authorization.

Answer.—(1) He is liable to be brought before a magistrate on a criminal complaint. (2) Any person who is aggrieved. (3) Imprisonment for not more than one year or a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or both fine and imprisonment. (4) It is, in my opinion. (5) In this regard the law appears to me to be loosely drawn, but I am of opinion that the law contemplates and seeks to prevent the offering for sale in cities of the first and second class of property located in such cities. (6) I think it does not affect him. (7) The article in this paper of date August 24, 1901, page 234, sets forth very clearly the practices heretofore in vogue, which this law was intended to repress, and I think it is only such reprehensible practices which are contemplated by the law. A penal statute is to be strictly construed, and its meaning is not to be strained or enlarged so as to make misdemeanants of those who have no intention of committing a crime.—Law Editor.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

A writes B requesting sale price and mortgage of a house B owns. B writes back to A, on the bottom of A's letter, giving the price and the mortgage, but does not sign the same. (1) Would this be considered an authorization under the new law? (2) Also, if a broker had correspondence of a year back from owner of property in which they write him what price they will sell their house for, giving the full particulars, would the broker be compelled under the new law to write again for authorization to offer for sale, (3) or would the letter that he had from the owner some eight or twelve months ago suffice as a proper authorization under the new law? (4) Also, if writing to an owner for particulars, if he simply answered the letter and gives price and mortgage but does not use "I authorize you to sell," is this sufficient authorization?

Answer.—(1) Yes. (2) No. (3) Yes. (4) Yes.—Law Editor.

COMMISSION ON LONG LEASE.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

What is the customary commission in New York City to which a broker is entitled on finding a tenant for a term of ten years, and oblige?

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

A broker closes a lease on a private dwelling for a term of 3 years. No special arrangement having been made, kindly let me know to what commission broker is entitled? He has sent me a bill for 2½% on first year's rental, and 1% on second and third years' rental, which appears excessive and more than is customary.

Answer.—Commission for leasing for a term of three years or more, in the absence of a special agreement, is 1% on gross rental.—Editor Record and Guide.

ADJOINING OWNERS.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

A and B own houses side by side. B's water-leader goes down between the two houses and finally to the ground on A's side of the fence. The houses are built on a down incline, so that water from A's house comes over on B's, though A's house has a water-leader also. If A so disposes, can he compel B to have water-leader removed to B's side of the fence?

Answer.—Yes.—Law Editor.

BROKER'S COMMISSION.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

A, client, signed contract for an exchange of property. B, representing the owner, and who is caretaker of property that had been offered, also signs contract, stating he has full power to effect the exchange for owner, whom he represents. Broker, drawing contract, asks B if he has power of attorney to sign. He answers yes, go ahead. Taking word of B as correct, broker writes attorney in fact in contract, which he signs. Later he states to A, and makes affidavit he has no power of attorney, and has no right to sign any paper. What recourse has broker?

Answer.—He can sue B for his commission.—Law Editor.

REMOVING A TELEPHONE WIRE.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you kindly inform me what course to pursue to remove a telephone or telegraph wire that was attached to a chimney without permission? Am I justified in removing same without looking for the company it belongs to? At present I do not know who put it there, or the company it belongs to.

Answer.—You are justified in removing it without notifying the company it belongs to. Use any means that will accomplish the object.—Law Editor.

BILL TO LICENSE ARCHITECTS.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Let me know if the bill for the licensing and registration of architects, which bill was introduced in Albany last winter, was passed or not?

Answer.—The bill did not pass.—Editor Record and Guide.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as head lines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

Vol. LXVIII. SEPTEMBER 7, 1901. No. 1747.

THE news of the dastardly attack on the life of President McKinley, coming as we are going to press, leaves us no time to do more than express detestation of the crime and our sympathy with its distinguished victim. What influence this event will have on the mind of the business public it would be in bad taste at this moment to conjecture, though we fear the movers of markets will not be affected by any such delicate considerations. All thoughts for the moment ought to be those of sympathy toward the appointed leader of the nation and of maintaining the dignity of the nation itself in a moment of excessive strain on its feelings.

IN spite of the appearance of strength conveyed to the Stock Market by the clever manipulation of the past few weeks, quotations reveal a steady realizing by holders of long stock. Critically examined prices show that much of the gain made by the manipulative tactics of several weeks has been lost, and recent facts add the important point that they cannot stand any organized attack. Of course, the stocks that have been most prominent in speculation suffer most, on the rule that it is the most protrusive head that receives the blow. The immediately effective cause of the break in the Stock Market is the condition of the collateral market for money; the great impelling and moving cause is the over-speculation and expanded values of the spring which have not been thoroughly discounted yet. Previous anticipations of dearer money are being realized. The real pinch will not come until the end of this or the beginning of next month when the interior demand should have reached its maximum. Exchange is at a point which promises some relief through gold imports, but gold only comes on the invitation of high rates for money and ceases its visits directly those rates decline. In times of low values and depressed prices it is always potent for good, but not except relatively in those of expanded values. Still, as was pointed out last week, it would be easy to organize a movement of gold this way, but there is no reason why it should come out of the ordinary course. Europe is watching our market with interest and evidently fears a demand for gold from this side; otherwise the discount rates of the great national banks would not have stood unchanged for weeks, while the condition of their reserves and gold holdings is such as would have ordinarily called for reductions. The Bank of England is stronger now than it has been at any other time in three years, yet its discount rates remains, week after week, at 3 per cent. European trade reports are somewhat more cheerful than they have been of late, but the improvement is no more than should be expected with the emergence from a holiday season into an active one.

WHO is to succeed the late John R. Thomas as architect of the Hall of Records? is a very important question, but its solution is not assisted by the suggestion made this week that his estate has the right to appoint his successor. If such a rule held good, it would apply to private as well as public work, and we cannot conceive either the public or private owners relishing the position that this would put the heirs of a deceased architect in toward their work. It is undoubtedly the fact that the architect selected to complete the task that Mr. Thomas designed and began, should be a man in full sympathy with his aims and who would receive the commission as a behest to fulfil his intention and not merely as a job, obtained in the ordinary way of business. The Board of Estimate who have the appointment of a new architect have it in their power to make or mar a costly and important public building, and it is to be hoped they will aquit themselves faithfully of the duty that is placed upon them; they cannot do this better than by following a concensus of professional opinion which in this matter will not err, however wide of the mark it may be of the legal view of the case.

John Rochester Thomas.

THE death of Mr. John R. Thomas, at the age of fifty-three, calls for something more than was given in these columns last week, because of his general professional merits, and even if his death did not open what threatens to be a very burning question, who is to go on with the Hall of Records, the most costly and important public building now under construction in New York after the Public Library.

Mr. Thomas, it appears from the obituary notices in the daily press, came to New York in 1882. He had been practising architecture before that, since and perhaps before his majority, in Rochester, and had won a good repute by some of his works, and the standing of an expert in prison architecture by one of them, the Elmira reformatory, we believe it was. What determined him to come to New York may have been his success in obtaining, in competition the commission to build the Calvary Baptist Church in West Fifty-seventh street, or possibly he obtained that work only after he had made his migration. At any rate the church was finished early in 1883, for a critical notice of it appeared in these pages in May of that year. The church attracted attention by the unusual extent of its frontage, which is not less than 150 feet, and repaid this attention, upon, the whole by the interest of its design. The chief fault, in the general scheme, was the keeping of the whole front virtually in the same plane, whereas a vigorous protrusion and recession were evidently indicated for expressiveness. None of the detail was exquisitely artistic, but on the other hand, none was downright bad, and the building was upon the whole a credit to its architect.

Practically, as a solution of the problem of an "auditorium church" the building was so successful as to launch its author upon a very successful career. He was probably employed, during the following years, to build more churches than any other architect in the city of his adoption. He once mentioned to the present writer that he had won some incredible number of competitions, it would be risky to give from memory the exact number, during his first year in New York. At first they were mostly churches. There is a fragment of a church in Seventh avenue, above the Park, which shows a better study of detail than the earlier and more pretentious work, and is still worth looking at. And the West Harlem Methodist Church, at the corner of Seventh avenue and 130th street, is another essay in the chronic problem of the auditorium church which is of high interest, of more, indeed, than the costlier edifice in Fifty-seventh street, possibly, in part, by reason of the pecuniary limitations. It is really a good thing, a nearly square plan, with a chapel on the longer side and a parsonage on the other, and the auditorium fairly well expressed on the outside. The tower at the corner ought to be bigger, properly to dominate the pile, and doubtless would have been if the architect had had the money to make it so. But still it does fulfil its function, and with its plain, frank shaft, its effectively deep openings at the base, its corbelled turret, and its steep hood, one is inclined to call this tower Mr. Thomas's most artistic performance. The inappreciative possessors of the church have spoiled it, so far as they could by painting over its honest Croton brick, but in spite of them it is still a welcome sight.

How Mr. Thomas got into the designing of armories we do not know. But his Eighth Regiment Armory, at the corner of Park avenue and 90th street, with the addition on Madison avenue for Squadron A, is very clearly the best thing in the way of military architecture we have to show, and doubtless the most popular and very likely the best of its author's works. This is no small praise when we come to consider the number of able men who have tackled the same problem in New York with less success. The mediaeval expression of a fortress of obsolete methods of war, the crenellations and machicolations and so forth, all this is introduced here artistically and by way of allusion, as it were, rather than by way of fabrication and affectation. And certainly the result is charming of the big, round, red towers and their connecting curtains. The building is one of our chief municipal ornaments. More frankly modern, of less romantic association and of less picturesqueness is the architect's later work, the armory of the Seventy-first at Park avenue and thirty-fourth street, in a monochrome of gray masonry, less attractive than the deep brickwork of the other. But that also is a well-considered design, though nobody would think of calling it charming.

The fact that he got these things to do led many members of his own profession to look upon Mr. Thomas as a "political architect," a designation which he always warmly, and we believe justly resented. He certainly was not in the other ring, the professional "ring," the ring of "culture" and the Beaux Arts, but there is no reason for charging him with conciliating the political ring. His employment to design the Hall of Records came from the fact that he had been the prize winner of the competition for the new City Hall that was not built. It was a "consolation purse," offered at the instigation of Mayor Strong. And as for the original competition in which he won, there never was a fairer. If we remember rightly, Professor Ware and Mr. Hunt and Mr. Kendall were the expert judges, and their award was made unanimously and heartily.

Mr. Thomas really deserves a high degree of credit. There was in him an attractive blend of shrewdness and bonhommie. We are far from pretending that the shrewdness had not at least as much to do with his professional success as the artistic quality of his work, respectable as that was. But, having no great general culture, and without any usual early advantages, his destiny threatened him with descending to the condition of an "architect." That is what would have happened to him if he had not been a good deal of a man. Everybody will agree that he distinctly escaped that doom, and that he is entitled to an honorable place among the architects who have successfully striven to beautify New York. It is too soon to judge his latest work, of which only the first story is yet visible. But from this fragment, and from the drawings, we may feel pretty safe in saying that this also will be one of the ornaments of the city.

IT seems difficult to avoid the conclusion that the world is witnessing at present the disintegration of one of the great English historical parties. From the accounts of some of the English correspondents, one might imagine that as soon as the Boer war is over, and conditions in South Africa again become normal, that the Liberals can close in their broken ranks and resume their former position of effective opposition or administration. But it is very doubtful whether the breach can be so easily and quickly healed. The Liberals are as much divided on the general question of imperial expansion as they are upon the particular instance of the Boer war, and questions connected with national expansion will undoubtedly be for a long time to come the all-important questions in English politics. The truth is that the Liberal party is in very much the same plight as the Tories were after the passage of the reform bill and until the period of Disraeli's leadership. At that time the most important issues were those connected with domestic reform, and the Liberals with their programme of gradually adapting English economic and political policy and institutions to the requirements of freer and more democratic standards were in a much better position to deal with such problems than were the unprogressive Tories of the old school. The conservatives did not really regain their earlier power, until, under Disraeli's leadership, they also took up democratic ideas and proposed reform measures. But while proposing reform measures, they did not desert the historic position of their party as standing more definitely than did their opponents for national self-assertion in foreign affairs and a strong unionist government. The consequence was that during the past ten years they have been much better able to handle the problems of Imperial policy than would the Liberals. Whether the latter can re-organize on any acceptable basis remains to be seen, but the stumbling blocks in their paths are numerous. A party of Liberal imperialists such as Lord Roseberry proposes and is willing to lead would differ in name only from the present conservative party, and would necessarily exclude from its ranks, many of the ablest Liberal statesmen in the country. Yet it seems even more impossible for any party which depends upon popular support to place itself in opposition to the manifest national and colonial policy of the country. It is probable that during the next twenty-five or thirty years, the conservatives will enjoy more than their normal share of power, but precisely how long they will maintain their present supremacy will, of course, depend upon the general prosperity of their policy. If England holds her own in the industrial and colonial rivalry among the European powers their position is secure, but if imperial expansion becomes either excessively costly or comparatively unsuccessful, the Liberals may again have a good chance of assuming and retaining power.

THE publication of the results of the work of the State Board of Equalization raises the usual cry that this city or the four counties of which it is composed, the valuation being by county—is unfairly treated. It is our opinion that this cry is based upon fact, but the answer to any objection we or anyone else may make on behalf of the metropolis, is that the up-country legislators, who are in the majority both in the Legislature and in the State Board of Equalization, are of opinion that New York City should pay most if not all the taxes of the State, and they are working to secure that end. Nothing could illustrate this better than this year's figures, which show that the valuation put upon the real and personal property of the whole state is greater by $225,618,926 than it was last year, and of the increase $145,946,174 is put upon the counties comprising New York City. It is also shown by the fact that notwithstanding the heavy increases in local tax values made immediately following consolidation, the State Board put those for state purposes still higher by a large percentage.

WHILE it is entirely proper for the Health Board to call attention to the hygienic deficiencies of the 42d street tunnel, it will not do to push that method of attack very far. The tunnel is doubtless unhealthy, particularly in summer; but it is not so unhealthy as to offer any very serious threat to the well-being of the people who use it, and it is certainly not unhealthy enough to warrant any interruption of the use of the tunnel on that account. At bottom the question is one of comfort and convenience and not of health. Moreover, it is not simply a matter of ventilating the existing tunnel in some more satisfactory manner; it is quite as much a question of providing adequate transit facilities, present and future, for the unfortunate suburban residents, who depend upon the tunnel for their access to New York. When the improvements are made, they should be made not merely with a view to making the tunnel a sweeter and cleaner place, but also with a view to accommodating all the traffic, which will be developed by the northward growth of the city during the next thirty or forty years. While the Health Board has nothing to do with such problems as these, and while its powers cannot be usefully employed to ameliorating the crying evils of the present situation, still it ought to be possible to prick up the management of the New York Central by some other means. From long-dealings with this corporation the public is convinced that the railroad management is not doing its best to satisfy the perfectly legitimate demands of its suburban passengers, and it is a matter of such vital importance that effective interference on behalf of the interests of the public is justified. Probably the best means would be the appointment by some competent authority of a commission, which could hear fully, and place before the public all accessible evidence as to the problem presented by the improvement of the tunnel, the difficulties in the way, and the possible methods of overcoming them.

To Defeat the Tenement House Law.

PROPERTY OWNERS AND BUILDERS ORGANIZING.

The United Real Estate Owners' Association deserves the support of every member of the real estate and building trades in the work it is doing to test the constitutionality of the objectionable features of the new Tenement House Law. We have already spoken of this matter, but it may not be amiss to remind our readers that the Association has established a bureau for the registration of properties in charge of its Tenement House Committee, at No. 99 Nassau st (the Bennett Building). Members of the Association may there register their property, and at the proper time legal proceedings and injunctions will be instituted in the State and United States Courts to contest the obnoxious provisions of the law. And, be it remembered, every house now erected occupied by three or more families, is affected by this law, for the authorities have no discretion, but must enforce it. To create a fund to defray necessary expenses the charge of registration has been fixed at $5 for each house registered. This is an excellent idea, for if this law is to be set aside, it can be done only by the concerted action of property-owners. That the public are coming to realize this was very clearly shown by the meeting held Thursday night of the Twelfth and Nineteenth Wards' Association, at No. 1591 2d av, when forty-three new members were initiated, and resolutions adopted (for the benefit of all political parties) that the Association would hereafter oppose the election of all candidates who had voted either for the Tenement House Law or for what is euphoniously known as the Bridge grab. In order to make opposition still more effective, the Real Estate Owners' Association has decided to hold a mass meeting on Thursday, September 12th, at 8 o'clock p. m., in the New York Turn Verein Hall, southeast corner of Lexington av and 85th st. The meeting will be attended by members of all the local associations forming the Central Association. Henry Markus, President, will preside, and among the speakers will be William J. Fryer, Adolph Bloch, Francis J. Schnugg, Geo. Bancer and George B. Christman, the Chairman of the Tenement House Committee. The latter gentleman is expected to present figures showing in detail what cost will be entailed upon property-owners by each clause of the Tenement House Law.

In the Bronx.

PREVAILING CONDITIONS, VIEWS OF BROKERS AND OTHERS.

A public work of the utmost importance to the development of the Bronx is the Grand Boulevard and Concourse, the final completion of which has been delayed by the financial condition of the city, and the need of spending vast sums on other great improvements. Louis Risse, Chief of Topographical Bureau, now states that bids for regulating and grading the Boulevard will soon to be advertised for. The Department of Highways have control of the work.

The general improvement of the bridge facilities across the Harlem River, when finally completed, will involve the expenditure by the city of about $25,000,000. The material development of the Bronx is largely due to better bridges. Eventually every important Manhattan thoroughfare extending to the Harlem River will have a bridge connecting to the opposite side of the river. The new Willis Avenue Bridge, opened two weeks ago, to connect 1st av, Manhattan, with Willis av, Bronx, is one of the important links between the two boroughs. This structure, which actually cost $2,000,000, was estimated to cost $1,666,000. The Harlem River Bridge, at 3d av, opened in 1898, was designed to cost $1,500,000. Actually, it cost $4,000,000, with the expenses of the approaches added. The Fourth Avenue Bridge, completed in 1898, was constructed by the New York Central for the use of its passenger traffic. It is the largest four-track bridge in the world, and cost $2,800,000. The Jerome Avenue viaduct bridge, connecting Fort Washington Heights, 7th av and the Southern Bronx, was completed in 1895, and cost $2,750,000. There is a railroad bridge at 2d av constructed in 1895; there is one at Madison av, constructed in 1884; and farther north on the Harlem are the old High Bridge, constructed in 1849, and the Washington Bridge, constructed forty years later. They cost, respectively, $1,000,000 and $3,000,000.

Especially brisk in the matter of building is the upper and eastern sections of the Bronx, where both private and tenement houses are springing up. Small houses, adapted for one and two families, that sell at low prices, or rent proportionately, are just now in demand. Real estate dealers generally hail with delight these small houses, which in their estimation will do much towards giving homes to thousands of people of moderate means in the Bronx.

The new tenement laws practically eliminate from consideration the 25-foot lot as the unit of construction, and the new tenement cannot fall much under a 40-foot frontage, except in the poorest district. Thus the new investment demand to discount the next quarter-century is expected to be confined to the large and more improved type of tenement structure. Insofar as these expectations are realized, the homes of the people and the conditions of the market will be greatly improved.

The many flats and apartments that were built in the Bronx during the past five years were undertaken with the belief that population must flow into that section. On the strength of this numerous Bronx operations were undertaken speculatively with borrowed capital on high valuations. The liquidation that followed as a consequence produced a better situation from the investors' point of view, and this is strengthened by the new tenement restrictions which have prohibited a continuation of building along the old lines of the 25-foot house.

More families continue to forsake their downtown neighbors for better homes and the purer air and ampler room above the Harlem. The material development of the Bronx is also largely aided by the increased transportation facilities. The general improvement of the bridge facilities across the Harlem will, when finally completed, involve the expenditure by the City of New York of about $25,000,000. The new Willis Avenue Bridge opens an important Manhattan thoroughfare. The extension of the "L" road to Fordham, and the opening of the Webster av trolley will benefit a section that has been without proper transportation facilities for some time. The benefits to accrue to this borough from connection with the Rapid Transit system of Manhattan have been too often stated to need repetition now. But for these reasons combined, considerable activity is commencing to be shown north of 177th st, which means that the Bronx is preparing to reap the benefits of the new improvements. The results of a canvass of representative brokers follows:

J. Clarence Davies & Co. report a good demand for small houses, of which there is a scarcity. The demand for lots for high-class dwellings on the westerly side of the Bronx, in the neighborhood of Morris and University Heights is also good. But there is practically no demand for builders' loans. This is attributed to the new building laws.

Williamson & Bryan say that considerable activity is being shown just now. Within the last five years there has been an enormous amount of building going on, and the result is that there have been more apartments than there were tenants to occupy them. Consequently this overproduction in flats produced cheap rents. Building has, however, already subsided, and flats are again in demand. Where a month, and even two months' rent free have been offered to a prospective tenant, they are now down to half a month, and before next spring comes the chances are that even that will be refused.

Thomas Farley also said there was a good demand for small houses that rent from $25.00 to $40.00. Many of those seeking homes in this section come from Brooklyn. The present season's outlook was bright, and will probably show the beginning of a speculative movement in the better class of property.

George F. Johnson & Son said the demand for single dwellings was greater this year that it had been for many years past. Out of 116 houses that they had built only 30 remained unrented. From this they concluded that people seemed to be tired of living in flats, and were trying the experiment of living in small houses.

Martin Walter stated that the new building laws had somewhat retarded operations in Tremont. There was a good demand for first-class flats, and one and two-family houses. "Now," he said, "that the Willis Avenue Bridge has been opened the Bronx is happy. What we are now waiting for is real rapid transit."

W. E. Brooker reported a demand for and scarcity of private dwellings in the Tremont section. Flats there were renting more readily than ever, and the fall renting season was reported to be the best in years. Considerable inquiry was being made for store property on Tremont av.

John Robert Ross said real estate dealing in Fordham had lately been dull, a condition not unexpected. There was considerable demand for two-family houses. The Royal Arcanum of Fordham had purchased a lot on Webster av, and would commence building next month. This sale would establish a value on lots in this section. The extension of the "L" road and the opening of the Webster av trolley had helped considerably to boom this locality, and prospects for the future were exceedingly encouraging.

Thorn & Co.: "We are beginning to feel the benefit of the extension of the L road to Fordham, and the trolley on Webster av. Our renting season has started off very well; in fact, we have not the houses to supply the demand. What we want is more one, two and three-family houses in good locations."

Designating Streets.

The draft ordinance submitted to the Municipal Assembly by the Municipal Art Society to provide for the proper naming of streets, is the following:

An Ordinance authorizing and regulating the designation of the names of streets, avenues and highways in The City of New York.

It is ordained by the Municipal Assembly of the City of New York, as follows:

Section 1. The name of each street in The City of New York shall be designated by a sign stating such name, placed substantially parallel with the direction of the street, at each corner formed by its intersection with any other street, and the Commissioner of Highways is hereby authorized and directed to designate all streets accordingly.

2. Such designation shall be made as follows:

(a) If there be a building erected on the corner lot, by placing such signs on the intersecting street walls of such building, if the owner of such lot or building consent thereto.

(b) If there be no building erected on the corner lot, by signs placed on a suitable post erected at the street corner of the lot, if the owner of such lot consent thereto.

(c) If the owner of any corner lot or building do not consent to the use of his lot or building for such purpose, or if, in the opinion of the Commissioner of Highways, it is impracticable to use the building on such corner lot for such purpose, then on a suitable post, lamp-post, electric light pole or other standard, or structrue, either existing or erected for the purpose, and situated at the intersection of the streets, provided, however, that in such case not more than two such corners need be so designated, which shall be diagonally opposite to each other.

3. In addition to the designation prescribed in the foregoing sections, the Commissioner of Highways is hereby authorized to designate further the streets of the city as follows:

In each street in which is operated a street railway or other transportation line, or in which for other reasons he may deem it desirable to place signs on a suitable post, lamp-post, electric light pole or other standard or structure, either existing or erected for the purpose, and situated on diagonally opposite corners formed by the intersection of such street with any other street. Such signs shall indicate the name of the cross or intersecting street, and shall be placed at about an angle of 45 degrees to the street on which is operated such railway or other transportation line, so as to be legibly read by passengers in an approaching or passing car or other vehicle.

4. All signs shall be of such size and be so placed and of such design as to be easily read by day and, as far as practicable, by night. They may, by any suitable device, indicate both the street designated and the intersecting street, and the street number of the corner building. All designs for signs shall be as few in number as may be consistent with the necessities of different portions of the city, and shall be of as artistic character as possible, having regard to their cost. Such desgns shall be submitted by the Commissioner of Highways to and be approved by the Municipal Art Commission, but this shall not prevent the Commissioner of Highways, if necessary, from erecting temporary signs prior to such approval of the designs therefor.

Dangerous Meddling With the Building Law.

The recent attempt made by the Board of Aldermen to tinker with the Building Law by means of an amendment regarding the use of fireproofed wood is, in principle, a very serious matter. Any action of the kind would be so detrimental to the building trades at large that it should not be tolerated. In saying this we are not, for the moment, giving any consideration to the merits or demerits of the proposed amendment itself. That we will speak of later. We are dealing with the subject on general lines. Viewed in this way, there can be no two opinions about the matter. The Building Law, as we have it, may not be an ideal document. No Legislative enactment is. But the Building Law is the result of expert knowledge, and we know it was formulated only after long discussion and even conflict. It has been accepted by the building trades as part of the general trade conditions with which they have to deal. Its provisions are considered in the making of estimates and contracts, investment of capital, etc. Now, clearly, if this law can be upset at five minutes' notice by an amendment jammed through by a lot of men who naturally are without any special knowledge of the building trade and its conditions, we shall live in a state of chaos and the Building Law will become a nuisance, if not a terror, to everyone who has to work under its provisions.

It is essential to the peace of mind of the trade that our building laws shall have a reasonable measure of permanence, that when adopted they shall remain in force long enough to thoroughly test them under practical everyday conditions. Afterwards, when defects have been discovered, or when additions become clearly desirable, these modifications should all be made after due consideration, by men who know something about what they are doing. It would be far better to have no building law at all, if it is to be the subject of hasty amendment at any time. Not one of the Aldermen who supported the amendment the other day showed the slightest knowledge of the subject that he had in hand. The statements made can be tested one by one and shown to be erroneous. Certainly the step advocated is one that in the interests of public safety should not be taken without a most careful and deliberate consideration.

The entire community has now agreed that all our tall buildings should be absolutely fireproof. Architects and experts have now only one opinion: that no building deserves to be called really fireproof if it contains any large amount of flammable wood. We have had object lessons enough on this point. The public has not yet forgotten the conflagration in the Home Life Insurance Building. There are indeed some persons who have gone so far as to advocate the total abolition of wood from tall buildings. This, of course, is an extreme view, particularly when modern invention has made it possible to use wood of a thoroughly fireproof character. The framers of the Building Law took this standpoint when they decreed that in buildings of more than a given height all wood should be fireproof, if wood were used at all. They did not specify any process of fireproofing. They simply demanded a certain result. We believe it is quite true that at the present moment there is only one system of fireproofing wood that has satisfied the reasonable demands of the Building Department. It is hard to see why this should operate against the use of the special material. If it is the best the world produces, so much the better for public safety. No doubt, in time there may be other fireproof woods, but, pending improvements, no one will believe that it is prudent or desirable to take a backward step and adopt older or more dangerous methods of construction. What we want are fireproof buildings. We are aware, of course, that certain allegations were made by these Aldermen about fireproof wood in general, and the Electric Fireproof Co.'s process in particular, but it is pertinent to ask what do these Aldermen know about the subject? Mighty little, it appears. For instance, it was said that the United States Navy Department had abandoned the use of fireproofed wood. That statement is absolutely without any foundation. It is a pure fabrication, as the following affidavit shows:

AFFIDAVIT NO. 1.

STATE OF NEW YORK,
COUNTY OF NEW YORK,
CITY OF NEW YORK.

Before me, John J. Hughes, Notary Public for the said County and City of New York, personally appeared Max Bachert, to me well known, and who first being sworn, says:

That he is Vice-President of the Electric Fireproofing Company, conducting a business of fireproofing wood, with works at 19th stret and East River, N. Y. That wood fireproofed by this process was adopted by the Navy Department some five years ago, and has been used continuously in ship construction ever since; that within the past three months the Secretary of the Navy has ordered, after the most thorough investigations, that fireproofed wood be continued in use by the Navy for all torpedo boats and torpedo boat destroyers, and for ships not having protective decks; that within the time since its adoption by the Navy this process has been used for fireproofing the woodwork of over 60 United States warships; that in tests made before the Secretary of the Navy and other high naval officials at Washington, with pieces of joiner work taken from the torpedo boat "Winslow," in which the wood had been placed some five years ago, it was found that the wood treated by the "Electric" process retained all its fireproof qualities, and that it did not affect the metal work which had been in contact with it, although the "Winslow" had seen service in the Spanish War in the tropics and had been subjected to all weathers and conditions of active service. That in the month of August, also including some shipments for July and June, there had been shipped to Mare Island Navy Yard, Cal., for use in naval vessels, over 17,000 ft. of yellow pine, over 20,000 ft. of oak, and over 18,000 ft. of poplar, as well as some other woods, all fireproofed by this process for the Government; that there had been shipped within the same time (in July) about 30,000 ft. of white pine to the Brooklyn Navy Yard, fireproofed by this process for use in warships; that there had also been shipped within the same time to Norfolk Navy Yard over 30,000 ft. of yellow pine for warships, all fireproofed. That in addition to the above, many shipments have been made to shipbuilders constructing ships for the Government, as for example, in June and July there was shipped to Cramp's Ship Yard, Philadelphia, over 40,000 ft. of fireproofed ash, and over 73,000 ft. of fireproofed pine. Some of this stock for Cramp, we understand, is for use in a Russian battleship building at their works, we having already supplied the fireproofed wood for a Russian cruiser built by that firm.

We have also within the past month given quotations to the Naval Constructor at the Brooklyn Navy Yard upon his request for large quantities of fireproofed wood.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, this thirtieth day of August, one thousand, nine hundred and one.

AFFIDAVIT NO. 2.

STATE OF NEW YORK,
COUNTY OF NEW YORK,
CITY OF NEW YORK.

Before me, John J. Hughes, Notary Public for the said County and City of New York, personally appeared Max Bachert, to me well known, and who first being sworn, says:

That he is Vice-President of the Electric Fireproofing Company, conducting a business of fireproofing wood, with works at 19th street and East River, N. Y., and that during the past month the Electric Fireproofing Company received an order for fireproofing all the woodwork for the trim and joiner work to be used in a brick building, being an extension to the Storehouse, now being erected at the Naval Training Station, Newport, R. I., and that the wood referred to is now in course of treatment and drying at the company's works, the Government requiring all the woodwork for this building to be fireproofed.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this third day of September, one thousand, nine hundred and one.

JOHN J. HUGHES,
Notary Public, Kings Co. Certificate filed in N. Y. County.

It was also said that fireproofed wood could not be satisfactorily worked, yet below is a letter from one of our largest woodworking companies, which puts the matter in the proper light:

Office of the McConnell Manufacturing Company,
713 Mohawk Building, 160 Fifth Avenue,
New York, Sept. 3, 1901.

Factory, Hornellsville, N. Y.

Mr. M. Bachert, Vice-President Electric Fireproofing Company, 19th Street and East River, New York.

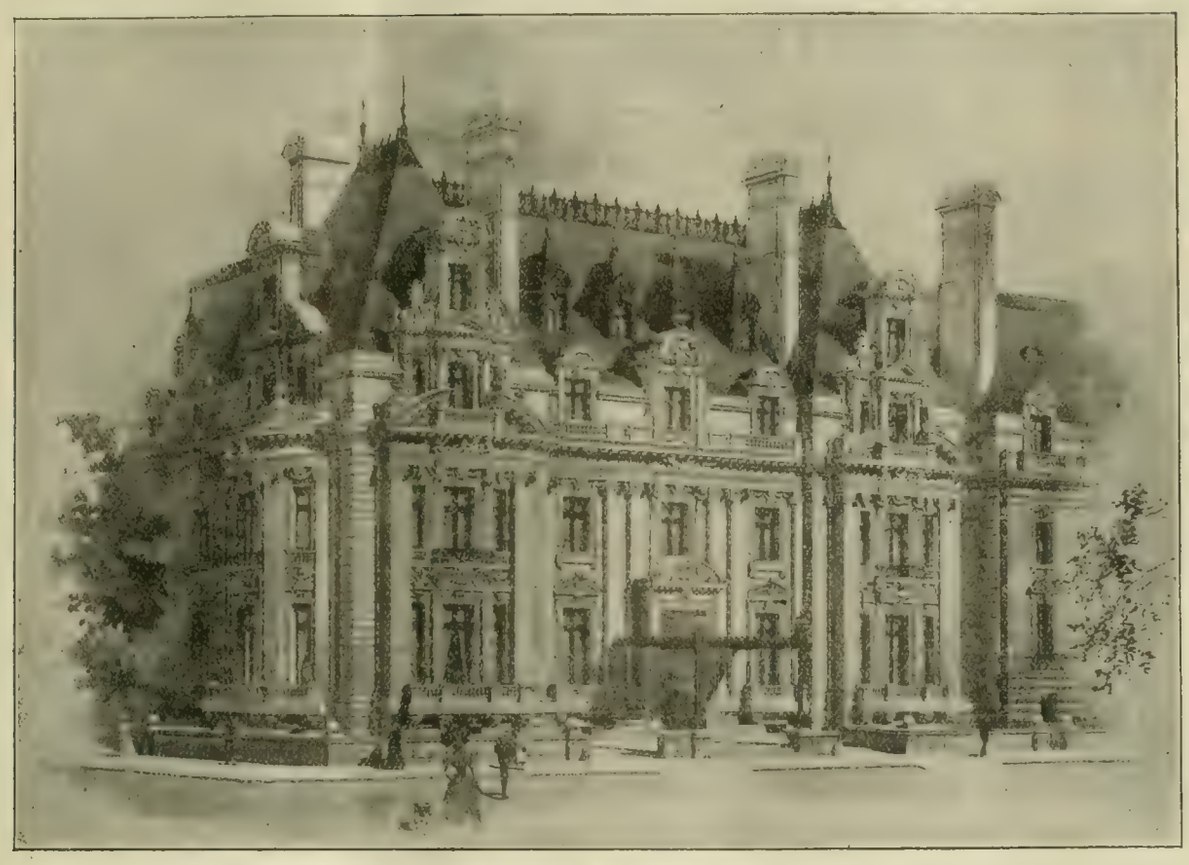
Dear Sir—In connection with the white pine, of which we have talked with you, for fireproofed buildings, we would add, that our experience with your system of fireproofed wood has been entirely satisfactory to ourselves. We have just finished the woodwork in the Atlantic Building, at No. 51 Wall street, which speaks for itself.

We have found the great feature in manufacturing this wood is to have it thoroughly dry, and when once it is dry it will stay where it is put, all mitre joints will stay, and a beautiful finish can be made on this wood, as can be seen at the Atlantic Building; in fact, we consider it in every way superior to untreated wood.



While at first we encountered some difficulty in working the wood, as we progressed with the work many points were overcome, so that we stand willing and anxious to take on any contracts of fireproofed woodwork.

In case you require or desire to do so, you may use us as reference as to the merits of your system. Any work you can throw our way in the fireproof line will be appreciated by,

per C. H. Hallett, Sec'y.

Finally, it was said that fireproofed wood was not durable. That statement is controverted by the experience of the Navy Department with the torpedo boat "Winslow," set forth in the foregoing; but it was controverted more in detail by the following statement on Fireproofed Wood by Mr. Owen Brainard, of the firm of Carrere & Hastings, the architects of the new Public Library, etc.

Mr. Brainard said he had become greatly interested in the Electric process of fireproofing wood. He had not found any other process satisfactory. "I am satisfied," said Mr. Brainard, "that prolonged research and exhaustive experiments have perfected the process. The result is a success, and it has given us practically a new material which should be counted a very great achievement. I examined it thoroughly in the Dun Building, and from that and other investigations and tests, I am convinced that it is now possible to have really fireproof buildings.

"It is important that the office building should be fireproof in every detail. The small extra cost of making the wood fireproof should be no barrier at all in a large and costly structure. Woodwork generally in the modern so-called fireproof buildings is cut down to a very small proportion on account of its flammability. With fireproofed wood there are great possibilities in ornamental effects without increase of cost. I feel sure that it will not be long before it will be used in every building of five stories and over, either by compulsion or by choice." Mr. Brainard declared that he was convinced by watching the effect of constant wear upon a wooden stairway built of fireproofed wood four years ago, that the treatment tended to harden the wood and vastly improve its quality. "The stairway I refer to," continued Mr. Brainard, "leads to a gallery of very rare and costly paintings. The fireproofed wood was ordered by the owner as some protection in case of fire. I knew the wood was fireproof, but I was not quite certain that the steps would stand the wear caused by the constant walking up and down them of the many visitors to view the pictures. I have watched those steps closely during the past four years, and although thousands of people have passed up and down them, they show scarcely any signs of wear, and, moreover, although exposed to changes of atmosphere, they have never warped or shrunk, but every piece of wood is true and firm in its place, as it was when the staircase was first finished. This fact convinces me that in this fireproofed wood the public has a new building material of great value."

It is almost ludicrous to ask who are we to believe, the Navy Department of the United States and other experts, or certain gentlemen who figure in this city as Aldermen engaged in the process of endeavoring to jam through without any great measure of publicity an amendment that concerns the public safety.

The evident great haste evinced by certain members of the Board of Aldermen to rush this amendment through, has called forth considerable criticism from the press, to the effect that other than public interests are at the bottom of it. We quote the New York "Times" of 4th inst., in which that paper says: "The opponents of the amendment charged that there was a 'deal' in the matter." That paper further states in the same article as follows: "It was stated yesterday in the City Hall by officials of various companies that the builders were not back of the amendment, but that certain large building corporations are interested, because with the amendment adopted there would be a saving of hundreds of thousands of dollars in the construction of high buildings put up to be sold."

We believe we are perfectly safe in saying that even the greatest opponent of the present Building Law will object to it being tinkered with in this fashion. It has been said that our Legislative bodies have become mainly public dangers. That would be strictly true of the Board of Aldermen if they are to be allowed to deal with our building laws in the way recently attempted.

To Real Estate Brokers and Agents.

This company has prepared a form of authorization which will enable brokers or agents to comply with the law which requires them to obtain the consent of owners, or the holders of contracts from owners, before offering property.

These authorizations are in convenient book form, and they may be obtained without expense by any broker or agent upon application to the company at either of its principal offices.

Bommer Spring Hinges.

Bommer Spring Hinges and Bommer Ball Bearing Floor Hinges loom up grandly in the Manufacturers' Building of the Pan-American, and are attracting much attention. The exhibit of Bommer Brothers, Nos. 257-271 Classon av, Brooklyn, is one of the best-designed and richest of the hardware exhibits, and shows these well-known goods in all styles and finishes, displayed upon finely contrasting panels set off by a carved mahogany fixture. There is one exceptionally heavy solid mahogany swinging door, 4 feet wide and 8½ feet high and 3 inches thick, hung on 12-inch solid bronze metal double-acting hinges, two double-acting café doors are hung in place of the usual plate glass. There are also two mahogany vestibule doors, one swinging double action, and the other single action, upon bronze metal Bommer Ball Bearing Floor Hinges; these doors have single action café doors in place of panels. The ease and lightness of action of all these doors is especially notable. There are also some mounted floor hinges conveniently placed for handling and examination, and also some regular Bommer Spring Hinges made to take apart, showing the interior steel construction and demonstrating why that easy motion is given to the door for which the Bommer Spring Hinges have become famous.

REVIEW OF THE WEEK.

The contract for the sale of the Orphan Asylum block, on Riverside Drive, West End av, 73d and 74th sts, was signed this week, Charles M. Schwab being the buyer, and the price $860,000. For the past week the identity of the owner has been a matter of much speculation. Now that he has disclosed himself and the price he paid is made public, the question arises, and is creating much discussion, as to how it was arrived at. One owner of a house in the immediate vicinity figuring it at $50,000 for inside lots on the Drive, $75,000 for corners, $20,000 for inside lots on West End av, and $30,000 for corners, and a general average of $25,000 for the remaining street lots. This figuring makes a price for Riverside Drive lots considerably higher than they have sold for before, the highest up to this time being the lot No. 1 Riverside Drive, a wedge-shaped lot, 45.6x85.5x41.4x48.3, sold to Mrs. Prentiss in 1900 for $44,000. The sale is also reported this week of the plot at the south corner of the Drive and 73d st, the only other vacant parcel on the Drive south of 78th st. While it may be true that an offer has been made for the property, it can be authoritatively stated that at this writing no contract has been signed, and the owners do not even know who are the prospective purchasers.

These transactions bring to the fore the importance of this superb thoroughfare as a residential site. Some of the improvements have certainly not met original anticipations, and some people go so far as to suggest that possibly some houses built by speculative builders in the early '90's may come down. This is, perhaps, going too far at present, but in any event the advantages of the Riverside building line are so great that it will bear watching closely by the real estate fraternity. It may be of some interest to note that no less than 38 dwellings have been erected on the Drive and adjoining side streets south of 78th st, all from plans of C. P. H. Gilbert, at a total cost of $2,280,000, and all for private parties for their own occupancy. With the exception of two, they are still in original hands.

A report which gained wide circulation this week, but which is denied by John L. Patterson, is that of the sale of the Marshall O. Roberts plot of nine lots, at the corner of 81st st and Columbus av. The report included the building of an apartment hotel on the plot. As a matter of fact, the five lots fronting on 81st st are restricted to dwellings. Of the other transactions made public the most important is that of the southeast corner of 6th av and 28th st, by a firm of operators; a month ago the northwest corner of the same street was purchased by Mandelbaum & Lewine.

Deeds filed this week show the extraordinary success of the New York Orphan Asylum operation. The Manhattan Island Corporation, formerly the New York Realty Co., took title this week to the asylum block, at Madison and Park avs, 51st and 52d st, for a stated consideration of $1,200,000. They have sold all but four lots running through the block and beginning 75 feet west of Madison av for a consideration of $1,050,500, as indicated by the revenue stamps on the deeds. The corner of Madison av and 51st st, 100.5x100, was sold to John T. and James A. Farley for $275,000. Figuring the eight lots still owned by the company at the same rate as the adjoining lots were sold and adding the $275,000 for the 51st st corner, to which the Messrs. Farley have not yet taken title, they will receive for the block $1,565,500, or a profit of $365,500, and nearly all made before taking title.

Gossip of the Week.

Real Estate Notes.

Charles Galewski has returned to the city after two months' sojourn in the mountains, and is now ready for business.

A petition to secure exemption from the assessment for the East River Park at 76th st will have a hearing by the Board of Public Improvements on Wednesday next, at 2 p. m.

Harry L. Suydam, of the firm of H. L. Suydam & Co., has just returned from the Sawtooth Mountains of Idaho, where he has been touring with saddle and pack-horse for the past two months.

The Department of Highways has again put forward for a month the date of the completion of the plans for an extension of Manhattan viaduct, from 135th st to the Boulevard Lafayette, owing to delay in drawing up the final plans and estimates for submission to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. Chief Engineer Foye says it is not possible to complete plans for such a work in a short time.

William Richtberg, formerly of the firm of Schrag & Richtberg, has opened easily-accessible offices at No. 729 6th av, southwest corner of 42d st, where he will transact a real estate brokerage business, including the placing of mortgage loans and fire, life, plate glass and accident insurance. Mr. Richtberg is an experienced and reliable worker; his office is well equipped and his knowledge of values of centrally-located properties has been acquired by years of intelligent work. His telephone call is 5228 38th St.

Tax Bills.

The Bureau for the Collection of Taxes announces that taxpayers who desire to obtain their bills promptly should make immediate written requisition (blanks may be procured in the borough offices), stating their property by section or ward, block and lot or map number, making copy of same from their bills of last year.

If a taxpayer is assessed for personal tax, the requisition should also request bill for such tax.

Each requisition should be accompanied by an envelope bearing the proper address of the applicant and with return postage prepaid.

In case of any doubt in regard to ward, section, block or lot number, taxpayers should take their deeds to the Department of Taxes and Assessments and have their property located on the maps of that department, and forward to the Deputy Receiver of Taxes, with the requisition a certified momorandum of their property, which will be furnished by the Department of Taxes and Assessments.

Taxpayers in this manner will receive their bills at the earliest possible moment, and avoid any delay caused by waiting on lines, as is required in case of personal application.

The requisition must be addressed and mailed to the Deputy Receiver of Taxes in whatever borough the property is located, as follows:

John J. McDonough, No. 57 Chambers st, Manhattan.

John B. Underhill, corner 3d and Tremont avs, The Bronx.

James B. Bouck, Municipal Building, Brooklyn.

Frederick W. Bleckwenn, corner Jackson av and 5th st, Long Island City, Queens.

Matthew S. Tully, Richmond Building, Richmond Terrace, New Brighton, Richmond.

Questions and Answers.

THE TAX YEAR.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

What period of time is covered by the taxes coming due November, 1901, and known as the 1901 tax? A claims it is for the year 1901; B claims it is for the year from June 1, 1901, to June 1, 1902; C claims it is for one year in advance from November, 1901.

Answer.—A is right. Taxes are for the calendar year in which they are paid, because the fiscal year of the city is the same as the calendar year, that is, from January 1st to December 31st. The Charter recognizes no other year for the city. It empowers the city government to borrow money in any year for the purposes of government pending the collection of the revenue, and makes unpaid taxes of one year arrears and subject to penalties on the first day of the succeeding year.—Editor Record and Guide.

BROKER'S COMMISSION.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Party called on me, stating he wanted a building loan. He said he did not know exactly the amount he wanted, as he expected some money to be paid to him. Eventually he called, and I took him to a lawyer, who examined his plans and asked him what he wanted. He said $18,000, and did not know exactly how he wanted the payments. He asked about the charges; the lawyer told him 2 per cent. and $40 for disbursements. I told him we would make it 3 per cent. to cover all charges. He said he would think it over. Later he called on me and said he could not get along with $18,000, but wanted $20,000. I saw the lawyer, and he said he would loan $20,000. I notified him I could get $20,000. Later he called and said he wanted $21,000. I saw the lawyer and he said he would loan $21,000, and I notified him. Later I wrote him, asking him what he intended to do about the loan, and he wrote me back he had his loan. I went to see the lawyer to inform him we could not get the loan, and to my surprise the lawyer told me he had been in with another broker; said he wanted $24,000; the lawyer told him he would make it and charges would be 3 per cent. (through me he only charges 2 per cent. and $40). He accepted the $24,000 at 3 per cent. and paid the broker besides. I could have got him the $24,000 at 3 per cent. to cover. I got him $18,000, $20,000, $21,000 with any number of payments, which he had not stated how he wanted. When he wanted $24,000, he takes another broker, goes to the lawyer I had him to and accepts at 3 per cent., when I could have got it for 2 per cent. and $40. Am I not entitled to commission on any of the amounts I got him?

Answer.—You are entitled to your commission on $21,000.—Law Editor.

LANDLORD AND TENANT.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

I am living in a flat for the last 20 months. Last March we inquired of the landlord whether we could continue to live in the house for another year and he assured us we could stay as long as we liked. I sometimes paid him rent by check two months in advance and have his receipt for same. He now desires us to vacate. In view of the fact that he accepted two months rent in advance, does that not go to show that a verbal agreement existed between us, and that we were not monthly tenants? I paid two months in advance or sometimes six weeks in advance, as I considered myself bound to pay the full year, and it made no difference to me. Can he force me to vacate before May 1st, 1902?

Answer.—Your lease does not expire until the 1st of May, 1902, and you cannot rightfully be dispossessed until then.—Law Editor.

Material Market.

Iron and Steel.—Structural material is in good demand. Mills report an urgent inquiry for all kinds of finished material, and high premiums are still asked for sheet and tin plate. It is reported, however, that the movement of sheets and bars, ex store, is small, the heavy demand at the mills coming either from large consumers or jobbers who are desirous of replenishing their stock as soon as possible for fear of still higher prices in the near future, though this fear is likely to be lessened by the success with which the U. S. Steel Co. is experiencing in the struggle with the Amalgamated Association.

Lumber.—The Spruce market shows a decided improvement. The wholesalers report a greater number of inquiries for all kinds of stock, while the retail dealers are reported as fairly busy. There is every indication of a good fall trade, and as the "stocking up" process for winter will begin shortly, a still further improvement in the market is looked for in the near future. Hemlock is particularly strong, and while the majority of sales are being made on a $14.50 basis, there is a tendency to advance prices on account of the scarcity of dry stock and the general demand prevailing. Yellow Pine is in good demand. It is freely stated that a rise in prices will soon be made, the cause being the condition of the mills, and the improvement in the consuming market. The Hardwood market continues active in pretty nearly everything. Wholesalers report the trade as buying quite freely, and inquiries for stock plentiful. Poplar is strong, and prices prevailing are as elsewhere quoted. Ash has bettered itself materially in the past month. The demand has increased for good stock, which has done much to keep prices firm; indeed, in some cases transactions were at a trifle higher price than nominal quotations. North Carolina Pine market is in a good condition. Nearly all the mills are well filled with orders, and while prices are still below what the general demand for stock seems to justify, they are, nevertheless, far above the low standard which they reached during the dull times. Cypress continues in active demand, with prices stiff, and it only requires a small augmentation of the call to make prices advance. Shingles are enjoying a moderate share of attention all the time, but the course of business in them runs smoothly, and values are not subject to much fluctuation.

Lath is strong, with prices for Spruce $2.75@3.00.

Brick, Lime and Cement.—Trade in these lines was somewhat quiet this week on account of the holiday, but there is a fair amount of business being done in bricks at full quoted prices. Cement is in good demand, both Portland and Rosendale, but imported cement is dull. Both Maine and State lime are selling fairly well.

Builders' Hardware.—The effect on the hardware trade of the steel strike has been in the difficulty manufacturers have had in obtaining a supply of material sufficient to meet their requirements in making up goods. This, of course, is a serious matter to the trade. It is to be hoped that the indications of an early termination of the strike, which are now so apparent, are not misleading.

Nails.—The demand for wire nails keeps up in good volume. The general tone of the market is firm. Quotations are as follows: To retailers, carloads on dock, $2.53; small lots, at store, $2.60.

At the monthly meeting of the Cut Nail Association last week an advance of .05c. per keg was made in the price of cut nails. Up to the present time some jobbers have made no change in prices from store, while others have announced an advance equal to that of the Association. Quotations for carloads or less than carload lots are based on the advance prices, to which Pittsburgh freight is added: Carload lots on dock, $2.18; less than carload lots on dock, $2.23; from store, $2.18 to $2.30.

Plumbers' Supplies.—The demand for Spelter has picked up considerably, and the market has taken on a firmer tone. The demand for Sheet Zinc is about of average proportion, and prices show no change. Sheet copper manufacturers and dealers report a very fair demand for this article, showing that a considerable amount is going into consumption, especially in connection with architectural work on new buildings. The scarcity of galvanized iron and other sheet metal, owing to the steel strike, has favorably affected the demand from sheet copper cornice makers. Prices remain firm. The pig lead business, while not exactly brisk, may be described as moderately active. Prices remain steady and unchanged.

Glass.—There is nothing new to report in this market, as there has been very little business done since our last. Considerable interest is manifested in the meeting of the National Jobbers' Association at Detroit this week, as it is understood several matters of importance to the window glass trade will be brought up. Nothing further has been learned about the negotiations between the American Company and the Belgians, but it is not unlikely that an important announcement will be made in the near future. It is announced that the glass factories of the Associated Window Glass Company, and those of the Independent Glass Company, will not start making glass until November 1. The factories of the Co-Operative Federation are expected to start about October 15. This will give stocks in manufacturers' and jobbers' hands a chance to be reduced, and will also probably result in higher prices. No new glass is likely to be put on the market much before the first of the year.

Linseed Oil.—Another drop of 5c. per gallon was made in linseed oil yesterday, making the quotations 48c. for Western, and 50c. for city raw, in five-barrel lots, the lowest point reached in years. Within the past month, or, more properly speaking, since Aug. 9, the price has gone down in the neighborhood of 32c. per gallon, which is probably without a parallel in the history of the trade. Everyone in the trade is anxious over the decline.

Paints.—Business has not been very brisk during the week, but compares favorably with the same period last year, and dealers state that the prospects for fall trade are good. The further decline in linseed oil was the most important feature in the trade last week, but as yet prices of mixed paints have not been changed. Consumers have been looking for a reduction, holding that with oil so low, mixers should be able to sell paints cheaper. Dealers state that the principal manufacturers did not advance pirces when oil was at 80c., and it is unfair to expect them to reduce prices now, as oil is not much lower than the average price paid by manufacturers throughout the year. If oil drops below 50c. it is not unlikely that the price of mixed paints will decline 5c. or 10c. a gallon.

The building will be 7-sty and basement, and fireproof throughout. The front will be of brick and limestone. The architects will start at once on the plans, but it will probably be six months before estimates are taken.

The Tenement House Law.

More litigation is threatened to decide points that have arisen under the new Tenement House Law. Encouraged by the success of the builders whose work was stopped because they did not comply with the provision that the first tier of beams should be in position by August 1st, another body of builders propose to take a new question into court. This is whether the Commissioner had the right to refuse to issue permits on plans filed between April 10th and 12th, the last being the day when the new law took effect, excavations having been begun in good faith on or before June 1st in the expectation that permits would be issued in the ordinary course of things. It is stated that eighty-four operations may be affected by this, and co-operation is desired in taking action. Weschler & Burstein, No. 309 Broadway, are the attorneys for these builders, and they have prepared application for a writ of mandamus to compel the Commissioner to issue the permits, and are thus ready to act as soon as the builders are organized.

Of Interest to the Building Trades.

The Cement Masons' Union has made a general demand for 55 cents an hour, and an eight-hour workday, which went into effect Wednesday. Twenty-seven out of thirty-three firms granted the demands, and strikes were ordered against the remaining six.

Bluestone sidewalk slabs of unusual dimensions are being laid in front of the Prudential Insurance Building, now under construction at the corner of Bank and Broad sts., Newark, N. J. On the Broad st front the pavement will be 108 ft. in length, and along Bank st 264 ft. For the entire distance, 374 ft., only 35 stones will be used. The largest will be 12 ft. wide and 21 ft. 7 ins. in length. The length of the longest stone will be 22 ft. 1 in., and the widest will be 12 ft. in breadth.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company proposes to build two double-decked iron steamship piers on the site of the three old wooden piers south of the ferry slips, Jersey City, for the use of the Red Star steamships of the International Navigation Company which now dock here. The work of tearing down the pier at the foot of Grand st has begun.

The Aldermanic Committee on Fire has not held the public hearing ordered on the proposition to put all fireproof buildings on a par in the matter of protection of floors, windows, etc. At Tuesday's meeting of the Board of Aldermen only one member of the committee answered the roll call. There was a big gathering of fireproof men in anticipation of a discussion, but nothing was done.

News, Notes and Notions.

AN ARCHITECT'S SAFE.

A London firm has designed a safe to meet a need for a proper provision in the fitting-up of architects' offices for the safeguarding against destruction by fire or otherwise of important and valuable plans and drawings. This safe, the measurements of which are, outside, 4 feet 4 inches high by 4 feet 4 inches wide by 3 feet 4 inches deep; inside, 3 feet 6 inches high by 3 feet 6 inches wide by 2 feet 4½ inches deep, is fitted internally with fourteen light steel sliding trays, the fronts of which are shaped for readily pulling out and for lifting edges of sheets to sort and select. Each tray is numbered to correspond with the card-cases for clients' names or indices on the right-hand door. The safe is of the best fire-resisting quality, being extra thick all over, and is packed with mineral non-conductors and steam-generating salts. The latter only give off their water of crystallization when subjected to the heat of a fire, thus serving to protect the contents from dry baking. In the design of this safe special precautions have been taken to give the doors a secure seating when shut. This is effected by forming them with projecting tongues all round their edges, and corresponding sunken grooves on the safe. In addition to these, the doors carry patent spring plates, which act like a separate pair of cupboard doors, and form an extra intermediate air space. The value of extra inner doors is well known as an additional precaution in a safe against fire and heat. The price of this safe ranges from £75 ($375) upwards, according to quality.

SENSE AND ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL

Practical people who read the stories about the danger to St. Paul's Cathedral know that when all the scare-talk had been exploded the sensible man would come forward with a solution of the problem that would save the Cathedral and permit progress, whether in the form of "tup'ny" tubes or anything else requisite. This person turns out to be a Charles Reilly, who proposes, as a means of rendering the Cathedral secure against any dangers occasioned by underground railways or sewers, that the building should be supported on the bed of blue clay 35 ft. below the surface. The cost of the underpinning necessary he estimates at £220,000 ($1,100,000). He has recently done the same thing to the hall of one of the City Companies, within 50 ft. of the Stock Exchange itself, when isolated stone piers weighing 300 tons were safely underpinned to a depth of 50 ft. without cracking the plastering in the rooms above.

LEGAL RESPONSIBILITY OF UNIONS.

If press reports are correct, the United States Steel Corporation has taken a step that will, if enforced, put labor unions on a basis of responsibility to some degree equal with the corporations for which their members work. The officers of the corporation have declared that there will be no conferences looking to a settlement of the difficulties until the Amalgamated Association is incorporated. In England, the highest tribunal in the land has recently decided that a labor union, whether registered or not, can be made accountable for any damage resulting from its acts. If the unions in this country can be put on a basis of responsibility, by incorporation or otherwise, and held accountable for damage resulting from their acts, they will soon become more careful. Already it has been found necessary to call out the militia to protect the property of the Steel Corporation and their non-union employes from violence. The strike leaders have pretended to advise against violence, but in declaring the strike they knew they were unchaining human passions over which they had no control. If they are sincere let them prove it by disciplining or expelling any of their members who resort to violence.—Metal Worker.

CONVEYANCES.

Whenever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee they mean as follows:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing a Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed can be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no express covenants, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the Insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

4th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

5th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482, denote that the property is in section 2 block 482.

6th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers, the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

7th.—The letters R. S. mean Revenue Stamp, as R. S. $8.00 means Revenue Stamp $8.00.

Tax on Conveyances executed prior to July 1st, 1901, on $100 to $500, 50c., and for each additional $500 or fraction thereof, 50c.; on Conveyances executed on and after July 1st, 1901, 25c., where consideration exceeds $2,500 and is not more than $3,000, and 25c. for each additional $500 or fraction thereof.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as head lines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage is drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find Mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instruments as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

JUDGMENTS.

In these lists of Judgments the names alphabetically arranged and which are first on each line, are those of the judgment debtor. The letter (D) means judgments for deficiency. (*) means not summoned. (†) signifies that the first name is fictitious, real names being unknown. Judgments entered during the week and satisfied before day of publication, do not appear in this column, but in list of Satisfied Judgments.

Another of the legal steps toward constructing the Brooklyn tunnel extension was taken this week by the application to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, First Department, at a special term, for the appointment of three commissioners to determine and report whether an extension of the rapid transit system should be constructed under the East River to Brooklyn. Justice Patterson presided, the other justices being O'Brien, McLaughlin, and Laughlin. E. M. Shepard appeared on behalf of the Commission, and said that a similar application would be made to the Appellate Division in the Second Department in Brooklyn, in almost identical terms, on September 30. The Court received the papers and reserved decision.

The Brooklyn Heights R. R. Co. is about to erect a new car barn on Av N and East 49th st, to take the place of the one destroyed by fire last spring. The building will be 200x275, and used for Superintendents' offices, quarters for employees, shops, etc.

The following is a statement of the permits granted for new buildings and alterations, and the estimated cost of the same, during August: Brick buildings, 70; frame buildings, 136; total buildings, 206; alterations, 143; total number of permits issued, 349. MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as head lines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

Vol. LXVIII. SEPTEMBER 14, 1901. No. 1748.

President McKinley's death is announced, but still lacks confirmation as we are going to press.

AN anxious week closes with our doubts and fears revived by the latest news from Buffalo, and our desire is more to draw sympathy to the suffering President and attention to his many great and good qualities, than to comment on the commercial probabilities that await his fate. "Tho' I may die the grass will grow," says Tennyson, poetically expressing the necessity of the world's practical work going on no matter what tragedy may be enacting. Admitting this, we must point out that the outlook is obscured by the sad event that is occupying all minds, and the situation, previously not any too good, is made worse by it, a fact that is likely to be intensified by a fatal termination to President McKinley's injuries. Our recent prosperity was in a large measure due to a commercial political programme that had not been completely carried out, but was in wise, tried and safe hands. For some time doubt must exist whether the task will be finished in the same way that it was begun and this doubt must create hesitation, if not obstruction.

IN our own market the ordinary incidents have not been favorable, though these have not had full play owing to the supporting policy that became necessary last week. Where events have been allowed to work they have reduced values, so that at this writing Stock Market prices are, as a rule, lower than they were made by the break of a week ago. Higher rates for money and further crop damage have been the main secondary unfavorable features, but against them may be set the union of banking interests and the Treasury to hold the situation in hand as much as possible and to make the decline in prices as small and slow as possible. An encouraging offset may also be found in the surprising continuance of large railroad earnings. The circumstances, however, call for considerable further liquidation, and it is needless to say what the effect of that will be on prices. Europe sends us her sympathy heartily, but is no aid in sustaining values; on the contrary her influences, like those at home, are directed against them. Not only is she a seller in this market, but her banks show a disposition to obstruct and delay a westward flow of gold, though it looks as if that cannot be delayed much longer, if it cannot be said to have already begun through the transmissions from Australia to San Francisco. There is no change in the European commercial situation. Business is still a little better than it was in the summer, but statistics relating to labor and wages show that the contraction of industrial activity that began a year ago is very considerable and working out its logical effect on pay.

THOSE whose business is the insurance against loss from or the extinction and prevention of fire are naturally the severest critics of modern processes of fireproof construction. One of these gentlemen opened an address before the Engineers' Club of Philadelphia with the amusing and sweeping remark: "There is but one fireproof building in Philadelphia; that is the powder magazine, and it is empty." This reminds us of the ideal fireproof building once described to us by a high authority on fire prevention, which, though made up of bricks and mortar and piled in stories, could have been best described by the word mausoleum, or magazine, as the Philadelphia gentleman has it. From the point of veiw of the fire expert, to be fireproof a building must contain nothing flammable, or anything subject to easy injury by fire such as glass—in short a tomb, which, like a tomb to continue fireproof, must be sealed up when its contents are stored. This, however, is not the reasonable or practical definition of fireproof construction. Buildings used for business and residence must have light and as much of it as can be obtained with reasonable safety. The necessary openings for this purpose render it or its contents liable to attacks of fire from the outside, as was the case of the Home Life Building, and the nature of the furniture and goods generally placed in buildings provides the materials for injury to or destruction of the building itself, material flammability or combustibility being simply a matter of intensity. So far as the constructor is concerned he has fully discharged his duty when he has made a building of itself impervious to fire. The rest he may fairly leave to the prudence of the occupants, and the vigilance of the Fire Department. Those who doubt the sufficiency of the modern construction are fond of pointing out the cases where fireproof buildings have been brought down by the element against which they were supposed to be impregnable, but if they chose they could cite many more instances where fireproof construction held conflagrations within very small limits or interposed to prevent the spread of fire among buildings of old construction and thus averted great calamities.

Real Estate Corporations Again.

THE Record and Guide has of late freely made the prediction that the existing tendency in the directions of corporate ownership of New York real estate would continue to prevail until it worked important changes in the methods whereby large blocks of metropolitan real estate were owned and managed. Some people have interpreted this prediction to mean that these large corporations would force the small operator to the wall; but as a matter of fact nothing further from our meaning. The tendency in the direction of joint ownership is not concerned with the accumulation of large numbers of small properties. It has arisen entirely because larger and larger capital is required to conduct the more expensive class of building and speculative operations in this market. There still remains an abundance of room for smaller capitalists to deal successful in real estate, and the frequency with which the names of these smaller operators have appeared in the real estate news of the past few months is a sufficient indication that they are as much alive to their opportunities as ever. It so happens that these small operators have a much larger field for their trading just at present than the small builder; but the turn of the latter will come within a few years. Indeed, if, as seems possible, the Bronx is to be improved chiefly with one and two-family dwellings, the builder with only a limited capital will have a better chance to operate than he has had at any time since the early years of the West Side movement.

Another aspect or consequence of the increasing importance of real estate corporations has been making difficulties for one of our correspondents. He objects to the statement of the Record and Guide that large proprietary real estate trusts would be the outcome of the existing movement on the ground that there is not sufficient margin between the profits to be derived from real estate and the ordinary interest on capital to justify the formation of large proprietary corporations. Such companies would have to pay five per cent on its capital stock, as well as at least four per cent on the mortgage bonds, which it would sell to the public, and the real estate owner, who, unless he is a shrewd and skillful dealer, can get more than five per cent on his property is doing well. It is a fact of common knowledge that a number of large office buildings yield not more than four per cent and sometimes less. What margin, then, is there for the intermediation of a proprietary company that must pay salaries to its officers, and incur a number of expenses, with which the ordinary owner of real estate can entirely dispense?

The answer to this question is sufficiently simple. If small capitalists care to invest in real estate at present, when they are obliged to earn their five per cent by overlooking their property, and attending to many wearisome details, they would surely be willing to accept a half a per cent less, in order to get rid of the bother and anxiety of such management, and in a large corporation a half of one per cent on the capital invested ought abundantly to cover all expenses. It must be remembered, of course, that such proprietary corporations or trusts would be in the nature of fiduciary institutions. They would not pretend to offer large returns to the holders of their securities. What they would offer would be a safe investment, and as large a rate of interest as is obtained from dividend-paying railroad shares. Such securities would not, indeed, have the speculative chance of large returns, which always gives an increased value to railway shares, but on the other hand, they would be in the way of profiting from the slow but certain increase in the value of New York real estate. It should be added that the success of any attempt to distribute real estate values in this city among a large number of small holders must depend more than upon anything else upon the ability and financial standing of their managers. The officials must be both expert judges of the value of New York real estate, and at the same time as worthy to inspire confidence in small investors as the president of a trust company or a savings bank. Its operations must be conservative and must not go very far in the direction of speculative transactions. It is needless to say that no proprietary corporation of just this character has yet appeared but it seems to be a possible and legitimate outcome of existing tendencies, and it will be surprising if some such development does not take place within the next few years.

ON another page will be found a proposed addition to the Building Code, by which offenses against that instrument may be made misdemeanors. Until the passage of the last tenement house law, all attempts to fix degrading penalties for violation of laws that can never, from their nature and the ever-varying circumstances to which they are made to apply, be strictly obeyed, were regularly defeated. The example set by the tenement house law should not be followed in the Code where it would be even more unjust and outrageous, and it lies with the building interests of this city to see that it is not done.

THE interest in Riverside Drive, which has been reawakened by the Schwab purchase of the Orphan Asylum block, has resulted in a great deal of speculation as to the future of that thoroughfare. It has been somewhat too hastily assumed that other rich men would follow Mr. Schwab's example, and that the Drive and the neighboring streets would profit by a very much more actual demand for residence sites than has occurred during the past few years. This view of the matter misses the true clue to the future development of Riverside Drive. The Schwab purchase does not indicate that the Drive will seriously compete with upper Fifth avenue for the patronage of people who combine great wealth with social pretensions. Some rich people there will always be who do not care to live in the most fashionable quarter; and such people have already in a number of cases built their houses on Riverside Drive, but these people will always be exceptional. On the other hand, while it is obvious that the Drive has no present tendency to become the distinctively fashionable residence section or avenue, it will still have a place of its own in the distribution of New York dwellings. Prices in the Fifth avenue district have risen so considerably that desirable lots in that vicinity, improved by a modern dwelling represent a value of not less than $250,000, and often a great deal more. But there are many people who, while they want handsome and well-situated residences, cannot afford so large an outlay for the purpose; and it is to these people, whose possible expenditure on their residences ranges between $75,000 and $125,000, that Riverside Drive and the neighboring streets are making and will make a strong appeal. The dwellings that are erected in response to this demand will be interspersed with many apartment houses; and in the course of time some of the smaller residences west of Broadway, that were put up during the early speculative movement on the West Side, will be superseded by fireproof flats. The building of these apartment houses and comparatively expensive residences will go hand in hand, and will naturally be much accelerated as soon as the subway is in operation. In short, the final result will be that the West Side, between Broadway and Riverside Drive, will be one of the most important districts devoted to the residence of moderately rich people—the class that formerly lived on or near Madison avenue. This promises a much more rapid development than could be obtained in the other way, because purchases of city blocks or even large plots as residential sites are few and far between.

IN view of the statement that M. de Witte, the Russian Minister of Finance, may visit this country some time during the coming winter, it is well to keep in mind precisely what he stands for in Russian economic development. What he stands for is a systematic attempt to diversify Russian industries. From the very beginning of his administration he has sought to make Russia more and more industrially independent of its European neighbors, and particularly to develop the mineral resources, and the metallic manufactures of the country. His success in this policy has been very considerable. The production of iron and steel has been increased more than that of any other product, but other lines of manufacture have not been neglected, and Russia has made a fair start toward becoming an important industrial country. His policy, like all experimental policies, has not been an unequivocal success; but it has been enough of a success to give him an immense European reputation as an able financier; and should his visit actually take place, the precise motives that prompted it will be the subject of the liveliest speculation. But whatever the motives for such a visit, its real interest will consist in the contrast between the threats of European journalists against this country and the behavior of European officials. The spectacle would be presented to the continent of the man who is called the ablest financier in Europe going out of his way to cultivate freindly relations with the American business and official world. Such friendly relations are not always of manifest advantage to the nation so befriended. France has certainly paid a high price for the privilege of calling Russia its ally on one or two state occasions. But considerations of this kind need not diminish American gratification at a visit from M. de Witte should this visit ever take place. American financiers may be trusted to lend their money only on good security; and American statesmen may be trusted not to be more than polite to the Russian representative. The fact would remain that no better indication could be desired of the coming political, industrial and commercial importance of this country.

Grand Street and Vicinity.

AN OBJECT LESSON TO INVESTORS IN REAL ESTATE.

If the causes for the failure of the Grand st department store, which have been somewhat emphasized lately, are examined, they will not be found to be discouraging to owners of Manhattan realty. On the contrary, they justify the assertion made before in these columns that one can always be bullish on that form of investment.

It is not so many years ago that the Record and Guide was obliged to record the fall that had taken place in the fortunes of that portion of Grand st that runs east from the Bowery, which, of course, reacted upon the territory contributory to it north and south. This section was of all downtown sections the greatest sufferer from what was known as the "uptown movement." The substantial people who had occupied old residences of modest dimensions that characterized the section had been attracted away by the advantages offered by the upper portions of the city, the convenience of flats and apartments, and the numerous other causes that keep the population of a city agitated and changing. Their successors did not follow quickly, and when they came were inferior, materially certainly, and in some other respects also, especially in their ignorance of American manner of life and institutions. These facts told heavily on the retail trade of the section, and brought down the values of business properties, with a run, it may almost be said. Grand st suffered particularly. Some of its merchants who had previously been successful for many years, failed outright; others left the street, and the strongest of all contracted their premises where they could, and fought out the storm. There were many vacancies on the street, and to the property-owner, particularly the property-owner who bought when Grand st was in its glory, and its real estate boomed, the outlook was most gloomy.

A change has, however, been brought about in the few intervening years that not only proves that there is no such thing as permanent depression for Manhattan real estate, but also bears testimony to the perceptive qualities, the industry and the prudence of the people who have revived this section and give it a character peculiar to themselves, that is, the Hebrews, who were driven to New York by the persecutions of the Russian and German governments, the Italians and other immigrants, and their compatriots or co-religionists, as the case may be, who appreciated the value of their presence and the opportunities it afforded for profitable operations in real estate. The change has not gone the length of restoring the values that prevailed ten years ago, but it has removed depression and created activity, where for a time there was dulness, without prospect of a break. Why this is so is answered by the one word "population." Immigrants came in thousands, so poor that they were willing to put up with any kind of accommodation; but soon, with industry and thrift, and the advantages of higher remuneration, they required more and better housing, and the speculative builder met the demand. For some years, and up to the passage of the Tenement House Law of this year, everything suited to improvement with modern tenements and flats found a ready market. The housing space east of the Bowery has been largely augmented, and made capable of receiving the greater population whose means have and are reviving that section.

There is a peculiarity about the business methods of this section that ought to be noted, in that it is directly contrary to the tendency of the times elsewhere in this country. That peculiarity is the smallness of the scale of operations. On Grand st to-day the only properties on the market that fail to attract buyers, or are vacant, are large stores. The small store is prosperous, while the big one or the department store fails or drags on a precarious existence. There is a double-front store and loft building on the south side, near the Bowery, that has been closed for a long time. Edward Ridley & Sons are about to contract their premises. The leases of the Grand and Allen sts end of their building expire soon, and this part of the premises will be separated and business confined to the Grand and Orchard st end, which the firm own. But according to Mr. Arthur Ridley, even this is a temporary arrangement, as he informed a representative of the Record and Guide this week, that the firm would leave Grand st by May next, and perhaps sooner. They had made no definite arrangement as to where they would go. The reason they were going was that Grand st had lost its general trade; all the trade had become local, and the small stores were getting most of the business. Much the same sort of thing was said by the manager of Lord & Taylor's Grand st store. Business had been mainly continued, because to close it up would have injured the value of the plant, and the large plot and building which they owned. "Business," he said, "is better than it was a few years ago. The reputation of the firm and a policy of meeting the wishes of the shoppers on the street in the matters of goods and prices have been the means of attracting trade, and expenses are now met, but no profit is made. A large department store can no longer be run profitably on this thoroughfare."

While the department store is languishing, the small store is flourishing, a fact that ought to serve as a hint to owners of unprofitable property. The success of the small store is due to the fact that those who people this section retain in a large degree the manners of living learned in the old world. They market every day and in a small way. The street stall and the small store give them the quantities they desire, and afford them the means of following their own ways and perhaps prejudices. It may be that the principle of concentration, which is the moving spirit of American trade and industry elsewhere, will come to prevail later here, but for the present business energy is best employed by distribution, and this is making Grand and other nearby streets, streets of small stores and tenements. As has been pointed out before, this section supplies labor to manufacturers, and it should come that more lofts be interspersed between the tenements and flats.

Prevailing conditions require on the part of the storekeeper, the small manufacturer and the managers for the larger ones close application to business, opening early and closing late, and this necessitates their living near it. Thus another housing demand has arisen. To meet this demand for a better quality of apartment than the ordinary, several elevator flats are now nearing completion on Grand st itself, and there are others on other nearby thoroughfares in hand and projected. As a matter of fact, present building in the whole section to which this article applies consists of a good class of flats and tenements and of business buildings, revealing not merely momentary sound conditions, but progressive improvement also. The erection of some of the business structures is influenced, it should be stated, by the benefits to the business of the section expected to come through the opening of the new East River Bridge, and the laying out of the direct approach along Delancey and Spring sts to Marion st.

Conservative testimony on the improvement of the conditions on Grand st may be obtained from the old-established and reliable brokers and agents who make a specialty of property in this district. Cyrille Carreau says: "Selling is better than it has been, and rents have increased a little. The local trade is improving, and the small storekeepers are beginning to see a healthy reaction in their favor. Should Ridley and Lord & Taylor get out of Grand st, this will not affect that thoroughfare, as the business done is entirely local. During the past two years a marked improvement has taken place. Possibly on account of the trolley facilities and the transfer system. It is too early yet to say what effect, if any, the new bridge will have on Grand st as a business street. It will undoubtedly bring new trade to the Bowery."

Franklin S. Bailey has this to say: "The value of property in the Bowery is low now, according to old figures, but good for present times. There has been a healthy reaction within the past two or three years. Renting is better, and the character of some of the new buildings will do much towards gaining a new reputation to this section. Opposite Cooper Square, a well-known firm of clothiers have erected a substantial business building for their own use which seems to show that they think the future of the Bowery is bright. The Braveman Building, on Chatham square, and the new addition to the Bowery National Bank, corner of Bowery and Grand st, form another indication of the class of buildings that the Bowery may see in the near future. Several other building improvements are going on along this thoroughfare."

Proposed Amendment of the Building Code.

There is a resolution now in the Board of Aldermen of great importance and interest to the building fraternity of this city, inasmuch as it is designed to make violations of the Building Code under certain circumstances misdemeanors, and punishable as such, viz., by imprisonment or fine or both, in the discretion of the court. This is sought to be brought about by adding the following to section 150 of the Code:

In addition to the other penalties in this code prescribed, the owner or owners of any building, structure or part thereof, or wall, billboard, sign or device in the nature of an advertisement, announcement or direction, or any platform, staging or flooring to be used for standing or seating purposes, where any violation of this code shall be committed, placed, or shall exist, and any architect, builder, plumber, carpenter or mason, who may be employed or assist in the commission of any such violation, and any and all persons who shall violate any of the provisions of this code or fail to comply therewith, or any requirement thereof, or who shall violate or fail to comply with, any notice, order or regulation made thereunder, or who shall build in violation of any detailed statement of specifications or plans, submitted and approved thereunder, or of any certificate or permit issued thereunder, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of not more than two hundred and fifty dollars for each offense, or by imprisonment for not more than three months, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

The Committee on Buildings had the matter referred to them, with instructions to hold public hearings thereon.

Property-Owners' Protest.

LARGELY ATTENDED AND ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING THURSDAY EVENING.

The gathering of property-owners in the New York Turn Verein Hall, on Lexington av and 85th st, was an emphatic protest against the enforcement of most of the provisions of the New Tenement House Law, and especially those relating to buildings standing before its enactment. The opinions and feelings of the meeting are embodied in the resolutions given below, but they, by their necessary formality, only inadequately convey the enthusiasm and determination of their adopters. Something more of this, of the actual sentiment, is shown in the following letter, one of many received in support of the opposition to the law, addressed by Charles Buek to Henry Markus, President of the United Real Estate Owners' Association, under whose auspices the meeting was held:

Dear Sir: I have learned with great satisfaction of the movement which the organization presided over by you has inaugurated to test the constitutionality of some of the more objectionable sections of the new tenement-house law, and to agitate for their repeal. It is a disgrace to the State that litigation should be necessary to establish the legal right of a building, constructed in conformity with then existing laws and in itself unobjectionable, to be free from molestation by the law-making powers or the authorities. But real estate owners have become familiar by long and painful experience with these annual attacks from Albany, of which this law is only the latest and worst. Others have come before, and still others will follow, unless the real estate interests can be combined to resist further oppression. We are taxed almost beyond endurance, taxed until one-half of the available income from most properties now goes to the city and State; we pay nearly all the expenses of government, and yet the very men whom we elect and whose salaries we pay, are continually, wantonly and needlessly increasing our burdens. Real estate owners must get together and act for mutual protection regardless of politics. There should be a branch or affiliated society of your organization in every ward or assembly district of the greater city, embracing a majority of the property owners, and determined to see that no man who voted for this most iniquitous and oppressive law shall be again sent to Albany. Have their names published and let the voters in every primary meeting and nominating convention oppose them, and if nominated, vote them down without respect to party. We can do much if we unite and work together, and now is the opportunity.

The hall in which the meeting was held is capable of accommodating about 2,000 people, and it was filled to the door, when Henry Markus opened the proceedings with an introductory address. He was followed by Wm. J. Fryer and Adolph Bloch with able speeches, explaining to the audience the hardship of the law. Dr. Scholer, of the West Side Association, spoke then in German, and kept the audience in a pleasant mood by a sarcastic showing of what was expected from them by the new law, and how pleasant it was to be an owner of property. Francis J. Schnugg, Geo. B. Banzer, and the presidents of various local district organizations followed, and Councilman Christman concluded with an address, giving plain facts of the cost of the alterations required by each of the sections. Finally resolutions were adopted as follows:

Whereas, The so-called Tenement-House Law, which has recently been passed by the Legislature of this State, and which is now in force, is burdensome, iniquitous, inequitable and confiscatory in most of its provisions that relate to buildings now erected, as such buildings were erected in compliance with the laws then existent, and the plans of which had been duly approved by the authorities at the time; and

Whereas, The enforcement of this law creates great hardship, entails extraordinary expense and practically destroys equitable and vested rights; and

Whereas, Compliance with said law, in very many instances, owing to the construction of buildings, would be absolutely impossible, and destructive of existing conditions; and

Whereas, The United Real Estate Owners' Associations of the City of New York have hitherto maintained, protected and furthered the rights and interests of real estate owners in general; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That this Association and the property owners of this city in mass meeting assembled, make every effort to protect the rights of the individual owners who are or may become members of the various Associations united in this central Association; that the officers of this meeting and of the United Associations be empowered and they are hereby authorized to devise and adopt ways and means for such action as they may deem necessary and proper for that purpose; and be it further

Resolved, That the reasonableness and constitutionality of the said law, so far as it relates to houses now erected, be determined by contesting the enforcement of the United States; and be it further

Resolved, That a sound public sentiment be created against confiscation of property rights without due process of law and just compensation, at the notional behests of amateur and professional reformers, and that the co-operation of kindred organizations whose members are affected by this law be enlisted; and be it further

Resolved, That the candidates to be nominated as representatives of the people in the next Legislature be requested to pledge themselves to secure amendment of this law eliminating its oppressive, unjust and pernicious features.

Mr. Fryer made an address of nearly an hour's length, which received the closest attention from the audience present. After explaining how all attempts to obtain amendments to the bill sent to the Legislature by the Tenement House Commission proved futile, and after stating that the Tenement House Commission never published a tentative or preliminary draft of the bill which they prepared, as is customary in such cases, but kept back their measure for fear that advance public information of what they proposed to do would create such opposition as might defeat their proposed law, only introducing their bill after the session was well advanced, and copies of the bill were difficult to obtain until near the closing days of the Legislature, Mr. Fryer took up each of the forty or more sections of the law bearing on now-existing tenement houses, reading the salient features of each, and making clear their meaning as he proceeded.

As an illustration, on reaching section numbered 79, Mr. Fryer read therefrom that certain rooms shall not be occupied unless there is six hundred cubic feet of air to each individual occupying the same. Then followed the statement that there are thousands of rooms that do not meet the requirements of that section, and could only be met by removing partitions and throwing two rooms into one, or by building fireproof shafts of a goodly size. The speaker then asked his hearers if a room ten feet by twelve feet and ten feet high, using figures for easy mental calculation, was not a good-sized room? Such a room would contain twelve hundred cubic feet of air space, just enough under the law for two individuals, a husband and wife. But if a baby is added—a third individual who must be provided with six hundred cubic feet of air—one of the occupants must be barred out.

When section numbered 80 was read, the requirement of which is that in certain halls the wood panels in the doors opening into rooms shall be removed and glass panels be substituted, the speaker said, suppose a glass panel is put in the door and the occupant objects to the movements of his family being revealed by shadows to persons in the hall, what is there to prevent the occupant from curtaining over the glass on the inner side with thick cloth, or covering it over with tin plate for the matter of that, and excluding light from passing through.

Mr. Fryer's address was confined almost entirely to the bearing of the law upon now-existing tenement houses. He showed that there are no discretionary powers anywhere in the law; nowhere is authority conferred on anybody to exercise even a little common sense in administering its provisions. He reminded his hearers that a new city department is to be created next January—a Tenement House Department—to see that this law is enforced to the letter. Mr. Fryer denounced the new Tenement House Law as the most unjust and unnecessary law relating to buildings ever placed on the statute books, and declared that it ought to be amended in respect to the construction of new tenement houses, and overthrown as unconstitutional in all its provisions relating to now-existing tenement houses. He closed by quoting a part of Justice O'Gorman's recent decision, wherein a broad principle is laid down, that "where the exaction is excessive, unfair, oppressive and unreasonable, and under the forms of law confiscates private property, the constitutional rights of the citizen are invaded, and the act will be condemned by the courts."

Fireproof Wood in Canada.

(Special despatch to the Record and Guide.)

Montreal, Sept. 12th.

A most thorough demonstration of the efficiency of the Electric fireproofing process, operated by the Electric Fireproofing Company, of Canada, Ltd., was witnessed to-day on the Champ de Mars by several thousand interested spectators, among them being Mayor Prefontaine, Senator Thibaudeau and other prominent officials, as well as many architects, builders and fire experts from Toronto, Ottawa and other parts of the Dominion. A house built entirely of wood treated by this process was tested by placing under and inside the same a large amount of kindling and firewood, which was then saturated with kerosene and set on fire by the Mayor of Montreal. The structure could not be made to burn, however, and the result of the experiment proved most successful in that it left the house in almost perfect condition after having been subjected to a furnace heat for over one hour and a-half. On the conclusion of the test, Mayor Prefontaine expressed great astonishment at the result, and heartily congratulated the company, and stated that he hoped to see the day when wood fireproofed by the Electric process will be used in all building construction in Montreal.

After the test, on the invitation of R. Wilson-Smith, the president of the company, all the prominent officials, architects and builders, as well as others interested in the subject, made a visit of inspection to the works, which are located at Cote St. Paul, where the company has over 60 acres of ground, situated along the Lachine Canal, with their own railway tracks connecting with the Grand Trunk Railway. These works are considered the most perfect of their kind in the world, and the company has a yard capacity for the storage of over forty million feet of lumber if required.

To Real Estate Brokers and Agents.

This company has prepared a form of authorization which will enable brokers or agents to comply with the law which requires them to obtain the consent of owners, or the holders of contracts from owners, before offering property.

These authorizations are in convenient book form, and they may be obtained without expense by any broker or agent upon application to the company at either of its principal offices.

Objectionable Arches on Park Ave.

Alderman T. F. McCaul, reporting to the Board of Aldermen on Tuesday on the petition that the stone arches under the railway at 110th st and Park av be removed, said in part:

The railroad company will consent to the proposed change only on the following conditions:

That ample and satisfactory protection to the railroad structure be provided, ere the improvement contemplated be undertaken. That the character of the same shall in no manner abrogate the specific requirements of the legislative act under which the said structure was constructed. That all the property-owners who are interested will consent, in legal form, to absolve the railroad company from all liability for damage, real or imaginary, that is or can be done to them respectively, because of the said change, and that the city pay all the expense involved.

As the city cannot proceed without the consent of the said railroad company, the said company being protected in its position by statutory provisions, we must either abandon the project or attempt to carry it into operation under the plan and conditions mentioned above.

The railroad company claims that for self-protection it must insist on the said mentioned conditions; and furthermore, that, as the improvement is of no advantage to it, the taxpayers, who are to receive all the benefit, should bear the burden of expense.

That the proposed change would be a vast improvement is generally conceded; but whether it would justify an acceptance of the terms submitted is a question which cannot be answered without further inquiry and investigation.

We should first ascertain what would be the expense, in order to decide whether it is warranted. If the cost is not unreasonably excessive, and we conclude to meet such demand, the property-owners should then be consulted with a view of ascertaining whether the improvement, and the corresponding increase in the value of their property respectively, would prompt them to release the railroad company from all subsequent claims for damage.

Regarding the matter as one of great importance, I feel that inquiry should be made as to the probable expense, and when that is ascertained, and the figures are not too exorbitant, that the will and purpose of the several property-owners be likewise inquired into.

I am pleased to add that Aldermen Schneider and Goodman, whose districts are especially and directly interested in the betterment of conditions of Park av above 102d st, have joined in the conferences and investigations referred to, and that Mr. Blandy has also kindly favored us with valuable information, advice and counsel. We all join in recommending the adoption of the following:

Resolved, That the Commissioner of Highways be and he hereby is respectfully requested to require his engineers to confer with the engineers of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Co., and recommend the best and most practical method to bring about the results contemplated in the resolution or ordinance that has been referred to the undersigned; as set forth above—and report to this board, what expense would be involved to carry the same into effect.

Resolved further, That, as the proposed improvements should be, if practicable, extended southward to 102d st and Park av, that the said engineers also report what work is necessary to carry the latter improvement into effect and what would be the cost thereof, in addition to that involved in removing the masonry at 110th st.

The report was laid over.

Notice to Builders and Owners.

I have an out-of-town client who owns a property in first-class condition south of 14th st, new and with all improvements, for which he is asking $125,000 in trade. The rents are between $11,000 and $12,000 per annum. The property is free and clear. He will exchange for some high-class apartment house or business building, and if necessary add $25,000 to $50,000 cash. A first mortgage of $75,000 has been offered at 4½% and declined. Here is an opportunity to raise $100,000 cash. I will entertain, in absolute confidence, offers from owners and brokers. Louis R. Berg, broker, 35 Nassau st.—Advt.

REVIEW OF THE WEEK.

In view of the doubt and anxiety into which the whole nation is plunged, no one will expect an active realty market. That this market is still in a condition of summer quiet is evidenced by the many reports of sales with almost no foundation of truth. Last week we had the report of the sale of the south corner of Riverside Drive and 73d st, which was denied by the owner. On Saturday last came the report of the sale of the southeast corner of Broadway and Great Jones st by Seth S. Terry, for about $300,000. At Mr. Terry's office the report is denied, and Mr. Hilton, of William A. White & Sons, says that the sale originated purely in the imagination of some one. The most important transaction made public this week is that which L. J. Phillips & Co. are said to have made for the Yorkville Bank, in the upper end of Washington Heights, while the brokers refuse to give any details of the transaction, it can be said that the Bank's holdings have been sold, and that negotiations are nearly completed for two other adjoining parcels. It is reported, further, that the buyer will establish a private club and trotting-track on the property.

A transaction of considerable importance, the details of which will not be made public until next week, has been closed in the Longacre Square section.

The renting season in the residence section of the city is now in full swing, and while dwellings have rented well, it is stated that the demand for the elevator apartments and flats is no better than it was a year ago. It is too early yet to talk of the business district, and while some good leases have been made, and in some instances at an advance, the general opinion of well-posted brokers seems to be, in view of the latest developments in the general situation, that there will be comparatively few changes.

The condition of the money market is for the moment unencouraging, though that may be only a short-lived deterring factor in real estate operations. It is explained by the tightness of the market in the financial and commercial sections which always have first call on available funds.

Bryan L. Kennelly promises to open his regular fall auction campaign with the offering of a valuable plot of 2½ acres, located at Williamsbridge Heights, for the Varian estate. This property fronts on Mosholu Parkway, and on two sides of Woodlawn road, and adjoins Bedford Park Station of the N. Y. & Harlem Railroad. The sale is announced in our business pages, and the auctioneer will supply maps and terms, which are announced as liberal, at his office, No. 7 Pine st.

Richard V. Harnett & Co. announce in our business pages, where description may be found, the auction sale of the flat No. 114 East 91st st. The auctioneers will supply particulars and terms at No. 73 Liberty st.

The establishment of a small park at Myrtle av, Knickerbocker av and Bleecker st, has been approved by the Board of Aldermen.

The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company is going to build a new power-house at Fulton st and Brooklyn av. The plans call for a 2-sty structure, which will cost about $15,000. The work of building it will begin in a few days.

Commissioner Kearney and Gen. McAleer are, under authority of the Armory Board, preparing plans for a new armory for the Second Naval Battalion in this borough. There is also a demand for a park bounded by Bridge, Tillary, Jay and Johnson sts.

It is reported that Andrew Carnegie may provide the money for a central library building for Brooklyn, if the Brooklyn Library, Brooklyn Public Library and the Long Island Historical Society consolidate. The movement to accomplish this, it is thought, will be successful.

Horace F. Burroughs' death created sorrow and general regret in the building trades, although his age, seventy-two, made it not surprising. He was a native of Brooklyn, and for nearly half a century a dealer in building materials, sound and conservative in his methods. He was a member of the Building Materials' Exchange, of Manhattan, and highly respected in both boroughs.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court has appointed Theron G. Strong, Thomas C. T. Crain, and Henry W. Gray Commissioners to hold hearings and report to the court upon the application of the Rapid Transit Commission for the extension of the rapid transit system to Brooklyn. The application was argued before the court on Sept. 4. Mr. Crain was formerly City Chamberlain; Mr. Gray was until recently Special Commissioner of Jurors; and Mr. Strong is a lawyer. Application for the appointment of commissioners in this borough is to be made on 30th inst.

Real Estate Notes.

West End av, from 79th to 99th st, just one mile, is being asphalted.

The Municipal Assembly are holding up an application from the Metropolitan Street Ry. Co. for a franchise to place a single track on West 10th st, between 6th av and Greenwich st.

A resolution to vacate the assessment for the park at the foot of East 76th st, and to place the whole cost on the city at large, has been passed by the Board of Public Improvements, and will go to the Municipal Assembly.

The United Consumers' National Bank, a co-operative concern, among whose subscribers are Frank J. Gould, Corporation Counsel John Whalen, W. E. D. Stokes, and well-known business men, is to be established at No. 147 West 42d st.

Louis Schrag was the broker in the sale of the southeast corner of 28th st and 6th av, for the estate of John Halk, to the O'Neill Oyster and Chop House Company, reported in our last issue. Hencken & Haaren, who have places at several other locations, control the company.

The Hall of Records.

The Board of Estimate appointed Horgan & Slattery to succeed the late John R. Thomas as their architect for the Hall of Records. The Record and Guide has it on the authority of a member of the board, that it is the intention to faithfully carry out Mr. Thomas' plans, both for exterior and interior of the building, and that no interference with them will be permitted if such is proposed.

The Building Trade

Material Market.

In the past month prices of structural materials generally were comparatively little disturbed. Such increases as there were were directly traceable to the steel strike; tin plate is, in fact, the only conspicuous one in this respect. There were a few decreases, notably in No. 1 Eastern pig, tin, linseed oil and tar. Along all the rest of the line there were no changes. Compared with a year ago, however, there have been a good many changes. There were fallings off in No. 1 Eastern pig, No. 2 Southern pig, copper, tin, linseed oil, rosin, turpentine, tar and hemlock, and increases in Bessemer pig, steel billets, tin plates, steel beams, lead, brick, lime, nails, glass, yellow pine and spruce. On the whole, then, structural materials have been strong during the past year, and this, taken with a steadying, if not rising tendency of prices of staples generally reported by Bradstreet, does not promise lower quotations this fall outside of exceptional cases like tin plate, that owes its rise to the cutting-off of a very large percentage of the native population. Generalized, prices of building materials are higher this week than last.

Iron and Steel.—Although no official announcement has yet been made that the strike has been declared off by the Amalgamated Association, the decision of the Advisory Board renders it a question of only a very short time. Practically, the basis of the arrangement is that every mill operated by the United States Steel Corporation since the beginning of the strike remains non-union. So far as the business in finished iron and steel is concerned, there are no special features. Consumption continues large, and is urgent, even in some lines not affected by the strike. There has been a decrease in the pig iron output.

Lumber.—There has been a decided improvement in the local yellow pine market of late. Wholesalers report inquiries much more numerous than for a long time past, which denotes a much healthier condition of the market. Prices have also had an upward tendency during the past week. The spruce market is strong. The demand is good, and sales are practically at the sellers' figures. The hemlock market is in a strong position, and an increase in values seems more than likely. Rift flooring is in very good demand, with light supply, and those manufacturers having any of this stock are disposing of the same at good prices. It is the general belief that good plain and quartered oak are going to be scarce within a short period, inasmuch as that the mills are not cutting much stock. The lower grades of oak seem to be plentiful and are in fair demand. The North Carolina pine market is strong, and prices prevailing are as stated elsewhere. Cypress is in good demand, with prices stiff. Some of the wholesalers report good stocks on hand, but for the most part dry stock is scarce and in excellent demand.

Lath continues in active demand, with prices unchanged.

Brick, Lime and Cement.—Business in these lines is fair, and the prices of brick show no change. Both Portland and Rosendale cement are in good demand. Maine and State lime are in fair request.

Builders' Hardware.—The volume of business is excellent, and both jobbers and retailers are covering their wants in nearly all lines with liberal orders. Most of the larger concerns have already purchased goods for the season's business, and are buying now to complete their stocks.

Nails.—Business in wire nails keeps up to large proportions in the main at regular prices. Some trouble is experienced in obtaining prompt shipments from the mills, which are unable to accumulate stocks. Prices are firm at the following quotations: To retailers, carloads on dock, $2.53; small lots at store, $2.60.

The scarcity in standard sizes of cut nails is becoming so pronounced that shipments are delayed in consequence. Some mills report that they are two weeks or more behind orders. The advance in price of 5c. per keg is not exacted in all cases on purchases from store. Quotations are as follows, to which Pittsburg freight is added: Carload lots, on dock, $2.18; less than carload lots, on dock, $2.23; from store, $2.18 to $2.30.

Plumbers' Supplies.—The situation in the tin plate market is without change. Only very small business is being transacted, as supplies available for prompt delivery are exceedingly light, and consumers are buying only as dictated by their requirements. Pig tin is in moderate demand, and the premium on spot tin has disappeared entirely, owing to heavy arrivals. A good amount of business is being done in sheet copper, and prices remain firm. There is absolutely no change in pig lead either as to demand or prices. But little demand is reported for spelter, which is quiet at unchanged prices. Demand for black and galvanized sheets continues heavy, but the supplies do not so far show any marked enlargement. However, the output of sheets is said to be steadily increasing, both by the American Sheet Steel Company and the independent mills, several of the latter being just about ready to start. Therefore the supply shows some indications of early improvement.

Glass.—The plate glass plants of the Pittsburg Plate Glass Co., which have been undergoing repairs for the past two or three weeks, resumed operations this week, with the exception of one or two at Ford City. The stock of plate glass has been unusually heavy, and the desire of the company to reduce the surplus by allowing the plants to remain idle has been one of the principal reasons for the closing. The combine has a capacity of 24,000,000 feet, but its sales do not amount to more than 16,000,000 feet.

Paints.—Business in general has been fairly active during the past week, and although the fall trade has not yet started, dealers state that the prospects continue good and everything is encouraging. Prices have not been changed, notwithstanding recent declines in linseed oil. Factories that have been running rather light of late are now rushing orders, and with the low-priced oil at hand most of them are getting winter stock ready. So far trade has compared favorably with same period last year, and indications are that this fall's business will be better than that of 1900.

Linseed Oil.—Low prices have stimulated demand to a very large extent; and, as the oil is wanted at once, since stocks in all consumers' hands have been used up, a very heavy draft has been made on spot supplies. It is currently reported that the freest sellers are already far oversold, and that the sharp upward turn in seed values was chiefly due to their efforts to secure supplies for immediate and early delivery in order to meet their contracts promptly. The scarcity of oil extends to all markets and, as the demand continues active, prices on what little stock is available are advancing.

Of Interest to the Building Trades.

The Treasury Department have received from Cass Gilbert, architect, the complete plans for the new custom house building. It is stated that within three or four days the department will ask bids from builders for the construction of the building. The cost must not exceed $2,700,000.

Complaint is being made by plumbers about the methods of inspection lately adopted by the Department of Buildings, whereby there are only a few men detailed to make the final inspection, and it often happens that the other mechanics are pushing the plumbers and great delay and trouble are caused by having to wait until an inspector can get around for the final test.

The old buildings at Nos. 44 to 50 West 45th st, and extending to No. 43 West 44th st, are being torn down to make way for the new 12-sty fireproof apartment hotel to be known as The Fillmore. The plot fronts 80 feet on 45th st, extending through the block 200.10 to 44th st, where it has a frontage of 18.9. The Seaboard Realty Co. are the builders, and Ludlow & Valentine, No. 100 Broadway, are the architects.

Purdy & Henderson, civil engineers, have incorporated with a capital of $50,000, and the following officers: Mr. Lightner Henderson, president; Mr. Leonard E. Brownson, Havana, Cuba, vice-president; Mr. Charles E. Berger, treasurer and New York manager; Mr. A. R. Wheeler, secretary. Mr. C. T. Purdy retains his interest in the business, but relinquishes its management to become chief engineer of the George A. Fuller Co.

The American Parquetry Co. have opened an office and showroom at No. 3 East 42d st, where they have on display the latest designs in parquet floors, of which they invite inspection. This company, with their large plant at the foot of East 116th st, are prepared to furnish estimates on all classes of work in their line, and guarantee satisfaction. A new branch of their business is the making of floors from architects' own designs, in the remodeling of residences. Their telephone is 2099 38th street.

G. Bickelhaupt has improved upon his skylight lift until it has become a most perfect appliance. By it either hipped or flat skylights may be raised and closed by a child working a cord. When raised it stays so. When closed it is securely locked. The same manufacturer has another very useful and ingenious device, a patent sash lock by which either upper or lower sash, or both, can be raised for ventilation, and be at the same time firmly locked, so that they cannot be moved from the outside. The prices of these articles are small considering their usefulness. Both are manufactured by the G. Bickelhaupt Skylight Works, Nos. 243 and 245 West 47th st, whose card will be found on another page.

CONVEYANCES.

Whenever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee they mean as follows:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing a Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed can be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no express covenants, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the Insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones ,owing to their having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

4th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

5th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482, denote that the property is in section 2 block 482.

6th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers, the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

7th.—The letters R. S. mean Revenue Stamp, as R. S. $8.00 means Revenue Stamp $8.00.

Tax on Conveyances executed prior to July 1st, 1901, on $100 to $500, 50c., and for each additional $500 or fraction thereof, 50c.; on Conveyances executed on and after July 1st, 1901, 25c., where consideration exceeds $2,500 and is not more than $3,000, and 25c. for each additional $500 or fraction thereof.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as head lines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage is drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find Mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

Sept. 6, 7, 9, 10, 11, 12.

JUDGMENTS.

In these lists of Judgments the names alphabetically arranged and which are first on each line, are those of the judgment debtor. The letter (D) means judgments for deficiency. (*) means not summoned. (†) signifies that the first name is fictitious; real names being unknown. Judgments entered during the week and satisfied before day of publication, do not appear in this column, but in list of Satisfied Judgments.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as head lines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

IT may be doubted whether the funeral of any man occupying an official position has called forth a more genuine expression of grief on the part of his fellow-countrymen than that which was shown by the American people last Thursday. Their mourning was not hysterical and ostentatious; it was hushed, pervasive and profound. It was a tribute such as rarely falls to the lot of any man, whether living or dead. Doubtless, the peculiar circumstances of the late President's death contributed a great deal to the universality of this expression of grief. It was felt by everybody that Mr. McKinley had in a sense died for his fellow-countrymen, that it was the integrity and perpetuity of their institutions more than the man himself, which the poor wretch had intended to injure. But beyond this the sincerity and depth of the popular feeling was even more a tribute to the man himself—to the simplicity and kindliness of his life, and to the unpretentious dignity of his death.

EVEN the most pessimistic must admit that the Stock Market as a rule has withstood the strain of recent events very well. The support has been equal to something more than repelling the attack and consequently prices are considerably better than they were a week ago. There is discrimination against industrials and a rather too pronounced favor of certain railroad issues to make the situation wholly satisfactory, but whatever this may imply, it must be admitted that the leaders of the market have not only held things well in hand, but have also created such an appearance of strength as to give rise to a belief in a new upward movement about to take place, in railroad issues especially. In support of this belief there are urged the assurances of President Roosevelt that he will continue unbroken the policy of his martyred predecessor, which has already done so much to encourage commercial activity; the relief the Treasury is affording to the money market and the continued increase of railroad earnings, which is as gratifying as an indication of the general activity and prosperity of the country as it is of those of the railroads themselves. Another matter, which speculatively has more influence than all the others put together, is the belief that the "community of interest" policy of the railroads is to be carried further so as to protect the profits of the properties and thereby give permanence to new values of the securities predicated upon them. What is puzzling most minds is where the basis of further value is to come from to justify the predicted rise in prices. Notwithstanding the decline that has taken place since the spring, prices do not look low by any means, and experience suggests that if they are to be put higher it will be by sheer force of money and for the purpose of changing the shoulder bearing the burden. The whole matter rests on the question: Are we to be as increasingly prosperous in the coming four years as we have been in the past? and in the consideration of whether or not this is too much to expect.

WHILE unofficial reports on dividend prospects are so rife and generous, it is interesting and valuable to compare them with official action and statement on the same point. The St. Paul directors recently, in effect, declined to make good the promise of an increased dividend on the common stock of their road previously made on their behalf on "the Street," and the annual report of the directors of the M. K. & T. contains a statement that we would commend to the attention of all those who are so bullish on non-dividend stocks at present high prices which has wider application than simply to the property directly concerned. This statement is: "It is important that shareholders should realize that your company has practically no available capital excepting what it may earn in excess of its fixed charges, and that the judicious application of net earnings in the past to create facilities for conducting its business is all that has enabled your company to carry its burden safely until the present, and the same policy should be its safeguard for the future." At the same time the report denies knowledge of combinations affecting the property.

The Late President and His Successor.

THE late President McKinley is sure of a peculiarly important place in the history of this country—a place, second, perhaps, in importance only to those of Washington and Lincoln. By this we do not mean that he was comparable to his great predecessors either in the nobleness of his character or in the scope and penetration of his intelligence. But it so happened that like them he was elected to the Presidency at a crisis in our national affairs, when momentous and decisive action had to be taken, and permanent lines of policy laid down. Like them, also, he took what must be regarded as the right action—action which helped to arouse and consolidate American national spirit, and which started the American nation in the direction of increased efficiency, power and eminence. That Mr. McKinley would prove adequate to these great opportunities and responsibilities was as little to be anticipated as that Lincoln would prove adequate to his. Up to the time of his election he had stood for a somewhat narrow view of the time-honored, but antiquated American political and economic ideas; he had stood for the ideas that industrially and commercially the United States was and should be an independent and self-contained unit, and that politically they should timidly avoid any international responsibilities. But, although previous to his election he had held along with the majority of his fellow-citizens' views of this description, they did not prevent him, when the opportunity came, from boldly committing his country to the policy of expansion beyond this continent, or with equal boldness from favoring at the proper moment a more elastic and liberal policy of commercial reciprocity. In consequence it was inevitable that he should at times show apparent vacillation of purpose, which several years ago was known by worse names, but which is at present called open-mindedness. It is probable that the final historical verdict will find the later characterization the truer. Mr. McKinley's career was only one more instance, so numerous in American political life, of the dignifying and enlightening effect of great office upon a nature essentially sound and upon an intelligence essentially direct and straightforward. With each successive year of office his policy became more consistent, his official utterances more definite and weighty, his influence more powerful and his example more inspiring. He was fortunate to die at a period when the line of action to which he had committed his country was prospering, and when he stood higher than ever before in the affection and esteem of his fellow citizens.

It is an extraordinary chance that he should be succeeded by a man, who more than any other American statesman represents and has always represented a policy of American national expansion. When President Roosevelt declared so emphatically that he proposed to continue the line of action begun by his predecessor, he could make the promise, not only without violating his convictions, but with the inner assurance that the policy he took over was at least a partial embodiment of some of his own most cherished views. This policy had been adopted by Mr. McKinley only after some hesitation and at the expense of an evident struggle with the logic of his earlier opinions; but the tendency to look outward, and to consider the United States as a country, whose expansion would necessarily bring it into closer political and commercial relations with European states—this tendency has always had its most vigorous exponent in the person of the new President. His career shows a consistency in this regard, which is as unusual in American political life, and which is obviously at bottom merely the expression of an active and aggressive disposition. He has always believed in a strong national government and intense national feeling, as the only effective basis of the perpetuity and growth of the American democracy; he selected as the subject of his most important historical work the story of the western expansionist movement; he has never believed in confining that movement to this continent; although a good Republican, he has never been a rigorous protectionist, and consequently can use without any compunction his influence in favor of liberal reciprocity treaties. All this is known and is appreciated. It has had much to do with the cordial good feeling with which his assumption of the office has been greeted. The fear that he would pursue Mr. McKinley's policy rather more aggressively than Mr. McKinley himself, and involve his country in unnecessary quarrels has been dissipated by his behavior during the past week, as, indeed, it might have been dissipated by a consideration of his earlier career. President Roosevelt has something of the Happy Warrior about him, but he knows when to fight and when not to fight; and he is too conscientious and shrewd a man to convert a policy of justifiable national defence and expansion into a policy of arbitrary and overbearing national aggression.

President Roosevelt differs in many important respects from any of his predecessors. He is a new type in the American presidential succession—one that is essentially modern, yet one that combines curiously the characteristics of earlier types. Like many former presidents his popularity is partly based upon the fact that he was a military leader. Again, like several of the earliest presidents, his prominence in national affairs is the outcome of wide experience in executive positions, and of a great deal of vigorous political writing. Finally, like many former presidents, he has always been a practical politician—one, indeed, who did not owe his prominence to political management, but nevertheless, one who has always been a good party worker. On the other hand, he is the first president who has ever been a consistent political reformer—the first president who has been brought up among the reform ideas, so precious to the newer generation; and he is the first president who has ever had enough interest in the history of any foreign country to write about it in however fragmentary a manner. All these characteristics make him curiously typical, both of the older traditions and the newer ideas and his fellow-countrymen feel and appreciate with what rare soundness of character and insight he has come to embody such a variety of admirable national traditions and ideas. They like a man to be independent, as he is; to be efficient, as he is; and to be ardent and communicative, as he is. In the past they have never shown any particular liking for a man who breaks out with original or reformatory ideas, but here again President Roosevelt is not off the track. It is true that he has some original and reformatory ideas; but they are simple, sound, practicable, thoroughly comprehensible ideas; and to the popular sense they merely add the proper seasoning to the flavor of his personalities. In short, he has touched the American popular imagination, because he has imparted out of the integrity and intensity of his own life a romantic glow to almost everything he has said and done. He stands more than any other American public man for living moral and intellectual energy—strictly determined in its expression by the practical needs of American national growth. And so it is very possible that with such a man at the head of our national government, people may come to feel that somehow American citizenship has a greater value, and American nationality a deeper meaning and a fairer promise.

FROM the other side of the Atlantic we get a somewhat tiresome reiteration of the reports of industry curtailed materially and the effects thereof on finance. Money is accumulating at the financial centres but confidence does not accompany it, as is shown by a review of the Berlin market by a correspondent who says: "The Reichsbank officials regard it as a mistake to speak of a plethora of money in the German market, as has been the habit here for some weeks. They see rather in this abundance of money the effect of the Leipzig Bank crash and subsequent insolvencies caused by that event. In other words, this abundance is an expression of the general lack of confidence in the business situation. In their policy of making ready to face whatever bad financial weather the immediate future might bring, the banks have accumulated more money than they can profitably use, hence the pressure for discounting the very highest class of commercial paper, and for making call loans where gilt-edged security is offered." Berlin and Paris seem about to be called upon to join in making Russia a new loan which calls up a somewhat bewildering financial-political situation, in which Russia having previously exhausted each of those markets individually is attacking them jointly through their respective foreign offices and still succeeding through political means of raising loans that would nowhere receive the slightest consideration on purely business grounds. At the same time she seems to be standing between France and Germany to bring them into more intimate and friendly relations than have existed between them since the war thirty years ago. A matter that ought not to go without remark in dealing with the European business situation is the apparent intention of Germany to abandon what would here be called her populistic policy against the bourses, or exchanges. Dealings in these institutions were some four or five years ago so restricted by rules and regulations, framed to meet agrarian demands, that the business on them dropped to the raising of grass, and the government representatives who had to attend daily complained of loneliness. Moreover, the farmer did not find that the abolition of trading in futures helped him at all, nor did he or anyone else escape the evils of panics as they expected they would do, if the volume of business was strictly limited to the amount of product. Consequently there is not likely to be any objection to the repeal of the Bourse Law when it is proposed. The incident affords a lesson in economics which may be studied with profit everywhere.

THE strike of the steel workers that has just closed will be noted in the future, not because of incidents peculiar or pertaining, to itself, but because during its existence the question of the legal responsibility of unions came up for discussion. The strike itself was simply the result of a mistaken diagnosis of the situation, made by the leaders of the Amalgamated Association, with the natural consequences. The important question incidentally raised, however, will become the theme of discussion until it crystallizes into action of some sort, precisely what it would be hard to say. It seems only fair and reasonable to ask a body whose actions are always followed by important and sometimes serious pecuniary results to place itself in the same legal position as the corporations and individuals, against whom it may at any time act, already stand in. Still we doubt very much whether the employers as a body will care to urge that the unions be compelled to take this step without a good deal of thoughtful consideration. The chief argument against taking such action is that it would have a tendency to materially hasten the federation of labor organizations, and, consequently, throw into the hands of their leaders a power, that would be very dangerous, especially when in ambitious, foolish or unscrupulous hands.

ONE of the city magistrates, Mr. Pool, decided this week that a bachelor-apartment was not a tenement as defined by the Tenement House Law, viz.: "Any house or building or portion thereof which is rented, leased, let or hired out to be occupied, or is occupied as the home or residence of three families or more living independently of each other, and doing their cooking upon the premises, or by more than two families upon any floor so living and cooking, but having a common right in the halls, stairways, yards, water-closets or privies or some of them." Two men were arrested by an inspector of the Department of Buildings for making extensive alterations in the Alpine Apartment house, on 33d street and Broadway, without a permit. The arrest was made under the Tenement House Law and at the hearing before the magistrate the defense put in the objection that a bachelor-apartment was not a tenement. After referring to the definition previously given, the magistrate held that a "bachelor" was not a "family," hence there had been no violation of the law. This decision can hardly be said to exclude the form of construction known as the bachelor-apartment from the provisions of the Tenement House Law. The trouble is that this is at present legally a nondescript construction and the difficulty thereby created can only be overcome by an amendment of the Building Code defining it. The only case of importance in which this point has been considered was that of Sturgis v. Wallace, relating to the plans for a bachelor-apartment building it was proposed to erect on 48th and 49th streets, between 6th and 7th avenues, which was an application to the Supreme Court for a mandamus to compel Commissioner Wallace to issue a permit. The decision of Justice Bischoff, who heard the application, was this: "The respondent's refusal to approve the applicant's plans appears to be justified in that the proposed building is not to be constructed in accordance with law whether defined as an apartment house, tenement or hotel (Building Code, Secs. 9, 10, 105), within one of which definitions the structure is certainly to be included." The want of a definition for the bachelor-apartment is, however, only one of numerous reasons why the revision of the Building Code should be undertaken at once in order to supply deficiencies, and to bring it into agreement with recent legislation.

Shanley Bros. Purchase.

Shanley Brothers have completed the purchase of a plot in Long Acre square as a site for a new hotel. The negotiations were started in June, at which time they took title in the name of Ellen A. Quinn to Nos. 205 to 209 West 46th st, three 4-sty dwellings, on a plot 54x100.5. No. 205 they bought from Angelica B. Shea for $31,500, and Nos. 207 and 209 from Amos F. Eno for $46,000. Contracts were signed this week for the purchase from Margaret M. Locke of No. 203 West 46th st, a 4-sty dwelling, 15.6x100.5; of Nos. 211 to 217, four 4-sty dwellings, from the Long Acre Realty Company, and No. 1557 Broadway, from the estate of Thomas C. Acton, a 4-sty building, 23.10x77.7x23.3x83.3; Nos. 211 to 217 were purchased by the Long Acre Realty Company in February for $81,000. The buyers now have a plot 139x100.5 on 46th st, and an abutting Broadway lot, 23.10 x77.7x23.3x83.3, on which they will build a hotel. The plot is in the block above the site of the new 12-sty hotel, which W. W. Astor is about to erect for W. C. Muschenheim. John P. Kirwan was the broker.

New York Lumber Trade Association.

COMING ANNUAL MEETING.

The next regular annual meeting of the New York Lumber Trade Association will be held at the association rooms, 18 Broadway, on Wednesday, October 9, at 2 o'clock. The annual meeting a year ago was the largest in the history of the organization, and it is expected that this year it will be much larger than it was last. The meeting will be followed by a luncheon in the Hoffman House Cafe, and a good social time is expected. The association has had a very prosperous year, and still continues the good work on behalf of the retail lumber trade, which has made it to-day the strongest organization of lumbermen in the United States.

The Nominating Committee have placed the following officers in nomination to serve for the ensuing year: For President, Richard S. White; for First Vice-President, Albro J. Newton; for Second Vice-President, W. P. Youngs; for Treasurer, Chas. E. Pell; for Trustees, David M. Resseguie, J. T. E. Litchfield, Alfred W. Booth, John L. Cutler, Jr., A. P. Bigelow, Walter G. Schuyler, Gulian Ross, John S. Loomis, E. W. McClave, Louis Bossert, Charles A. Meigs, John H. Ireland, Thomas T. Reid, C. W. Wilson, Charles L. Adams, I. P. Vanderbeek, James H. Havens, Hammond Talbot, H. E. Stevens, E. M. Price, James H. Pittinger, Thos. J. Crombie, Wm. H. Simonson, Patrick Moore, W. E. Marsh, Thomas Williams, F. B. Whitney, Russell Johnson, John F. Steeves, Fredk. W. Starr, W. R. Bell.

Real Property and Taxation.

A very interesting series of papers on "The Utilitarian Principles of Taxation, and Their Relation to Altruism," is running in "The Sanatarian," from the pen of R. S. Guernsey, of the New York Bar. Referring to the evils that are associated with the lives of the poor in large cities, Mr. Guernsey says:

The conditions in cities have largely grown out of a diversion of capital from real estate investments in better houses for low-rent dwellings in New York City, to seek more profitable investments in some kinds of securities that are not taxable, and to seek investments in other States, in other channels, and in such enterprises as promise to pay best. In doing this, capital is following a natural law of the least resistance to its safety and profit, which is a potent law in the business world, like that in the physical world, that a body will follow the lines of the least resistance. The result is that high rents in New York City are a necessary evil that we must try to overcome with a proper regard for the health and happiness of all, by such a system as is in line with the growth and development of the demands of modern civilization.

Whether the demand for lower rents is caused by the greed of landlords, or the greed of tenants, or the greed of employers, or the greed of toilers, we know that in all its varied aspects it is part of human nature and must be met and dealt with by legislation accordingly. We know that the families of the toilers need more of the prime necessaries of life than they are likely to have when rents are high.

A proper regard for those that desire or are compelled to hold or use dwellings and buildings, and the general welfare of New York, and a consideration of the more favorable conditions of taxation offered in adjoining States, demand that such kinds and modes of assessment for local improvements and taxation, and the extent to which it now prevails, must be made less, and be more favorable to real estate.

One remedy to have lower rents is to have taxation taken off real estate, as far as can be without parsimony to municipal economy and progress. This can be done by transferring some portion of this tax on real estate to other property and other conditions. The extent and mode of this transfer must depend upon conditions that should be carefully considered from a utilitarian point of view, and applied accordingly in a humane and just manner.

Final Bronx Maps.

The Board of Public Improvements have adopted and have on file final maps for sections 31, 32, 34, 42 and 45 of the territory east of the Bronx River. The tentative plan of the street system east of the Bronx River was adopted by the Board of Public Improvements, August 31, 1898. This plan is only a general one without dimensions of blocks and grades, and the plans adopted as mentioned above are intended to render more definite and certain the original and tentative plan by showing all the necessary data required for laying out and acquiring title to avenues and streets. The sections are described as follows:

Section 31 is bounded on the south by the Bronx and Pelham Parkway; on the west by the Bronx Park, Morris st and Bronx River; on the north by 208th st northeast (Elizabeth st), Hicks st, 209th st northeast, Olinville av and Gunhill road southeast; on the east by Bronx Park av.

Section 32 is bounded on the south by Gun Hill road southeast (Briggs av); on the west by Olin av (4th av); on the north by 228th st southeast (formerly 14th st); and on the east by Bronx Park av (7th av).

Section 34 is bounded on the south by City Island av; on the west by Bronx Park av (7th av), and West 7th st of Mt. Vernon; on the north by the boundary between New York and Mt. Vernon; on the east by an irregular line starting at South 5th av and the northern boundary of the city, and intersecting the southern boundary or City Island av about 600 feet east of the present Boston Post road.

Section 42 is bounded by Waller st, 198th st northeast, Timpson st, 200th st northeast, Hobart st, 217th st northeast, Overing st, City Island av, Morris Park av, Huntington st, 197th st northeast, and Morris Park av.

Section 45 is bounded by Bronx and Pelham Park av, Morris Park av, 197th st northeast, 197th st northeast, Huntington st, Morris Park av, Public Place, City Island av, Fort Schuyler and Pelham Bay Park Shore Drive, 197th st northeast, Edgar st, 196th st northeast, Baker st, 194th st northeast, N. Y. & H. R. R. R.

In addition a plan and profile showing the locating and laying-out and the grades of Nereid av, from the Bronx River to White Plains road, was adopted and filed.

NEW LAW AS TO BROKERS.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

In view of the new law requiring written authority to sell real estate, would an owner of property have a good defense to an action for broker's commissions, where it was conceded that the sale was made by such broker, but such authority to sell was an oral one, the authority and sale having been made since the passage of the act?

Answer.—The law is new and, of course, the question is novel. Judging from analogy, however, and the decisions under similar statutes, I am of opinion that the owner would have a good defence to the broker's action for his commissions. One of the statutes to which I refer is section 363 of the Penal Code, "A person who transacts business, using the name, as partner, of one not interested with him as partner, or using the designation 'and company,' or '& Co.,' when no actual partner or partners are represented thereby, is guilty of a misdemeanor." Decisions are numerous that a person so violating the law cannot recover on a contract for the sale of goods or the performance of work. Another statute is Chapter 602 of the Laws of 1892, requiring master plumbers to be examined, and to register their names and addresses at the office of the Board of Health. If the plumber does not comply with this law, his non-compliance is a good defence to his action for any work that he may do.—Law Editor.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Kindly give me your opinion and advice in the following: A, as owner, gives to B, as broker, the particulars of a certain parcel of real estate in this city. B, knowing of the requirements of the new law in reference to written authorizations, asks for same. A answers the request by saying that he does not care to give any written authorization, but that should B obtain a customer he would give a written authorization at time of closing. With this agreement between them B obtains a customer, who agrees to pay A's price. An appointment is made at the office of A's laywer to make a contract. When A, B and the customer meet at the office of A's lawyer, A refuses to sell the property, saying that he can get more money for same. Under these circumstances (1) if B's customer is ready to pay A's price, is B entitled to his commission, although he has no written authorization? (2) Further, would B make himself liable, under the new statute, for a misdemeanor, by enforcing his claim?

Answer.—(1) I think that if B should sue for his commission and A should interpose as a defense that B had no written authorization to offer the property for sale, B would be defeated. (2) Technically, B would be liable to a criminal prosecution whether he sought to recover his commission by an action at law or not, but I doubt whether the authorities would encourage such a prosecution, and likewise whether a conviction could be had.—Law Editor.

To Real Estate Brokers and Ag nts.

This company has prepared a form of authorization which will enable brokers or agents to comply with the law which requires them to obtain the consent of owners, or the holders of contracts from owners, before offering property.

These authorizations are in convenient book form, and they may be obtained without expense by any broker or agent upon application to the company at either of its principal offices.

The Real Estate Market

Review of the Week.

There have been four important sales, which have come to light during the past week—three of them through announcement on the part of the brokers participating, and one of them by means of the county records. These transactions are the Shanley purchase on Long Acre Square, the northeast corner of Broadway and 40th st, the remaining vacant lots of the St. Luke's Hospital plot on the southwest corner of 5th av and 55th st, and finally the Hotel Earlington, on north side of 27th st, near 6th av. It is interesting to note that, different as the evident motives of these transactions are, each of them in its own way gives testimony to the strength of the present real estate market. Every one of the parcels mentioned is located in what may be called the central district—the district within a radius of, say, three-quarters of a mile from Long Acre square—the district which during the past year has been peculiarly and persistently active. Moreover, three of these sales indicate plainly what money there is to be made at the present time by the shrewd buying of centrally-located properties, while the fourth, while it is an investment purchase, possesses also a possible speculative significance. Altogether, these transactions foreshadow plainly that the activity mentioned above is likely to continue unabated during the current season, and that important as the transactions of the past year have been, they may well be exceeded by those of the year to come.

Perhaps the most interesting of the transactions above mentioned is that on Long Acre square. The purchase of the Shanley Brothers, although begun in June last, was not consummated and made public until the past week. It is interesting, not only because it was made from a company, which had bought the property for speculative purposes, and at tolerably good prices, but because the purchasers already possess important business interests on the Square, and are evidently looking forward to the time when this Square will offer an even larger business opportunity for restaurant-keepers than it does at present. It is natural under the circumstances that the property will not be improved immediately, because for several years to come business in the neighborhood will be interrupted by the building and excavating operations already begun; but when the proper time comes Shanley Brothers will own one of the most advantageous sites in New York for the business in which they are engaged. It may be added that, plainly, there is money still to be made in this vicinity even at present prices. The market has not by any means been cleaned up of available and profitable parcels, and if half the stories which one hears about in brokers' offices are true, much of it will change hands during the next few months.

The sale of the southeast corner of Broadway and 40th st concerns a property which is near enough to Long Acre square to be affected by the same influences. If the reported price of almost $300,000 is anywhere near the mark, the transaction must show a handsome profit to the seller. In 1886, the lot was bought for $63,750, since which time the present building has been erected, so that the total cost of the property stands to-day at about $125,000. Moreover, the building has during the intervening years been well rented, and the seller has no deductions to make from his gross profit on the score of loss of interest. The blocks on Broadway, between Herald and Long Acre squares should in the future bring better rentals for retail trade than have hitherto been customary. Not only have a number of the shops, formerly on Herald Square, sought new locations within that area, but the class of shops will have a tendency to improve, until it becomes as good as it is on Broadway south of 32d st.

The two remaining transactions are in sections which come under rather different influences. Mr. Jeremiah C. Lyons has disposed of the lots on the southwest corner of 5th av and 55th st at an advance of about $100 000, which is a pretty good profit on the investment of $75,000 for less than a year. What is to become of these lots has not been divulged; but since they have been bought by one purchaser, and for a very high price, some immediate improvement is probably proposed. Under the circumstances, about the only improvement possible would seem to be, either a magnificent residence, or an apartment house as tall as the one which the Astor estate is erecting across the way. As to the fourth transaction, which has come to light this week—that is, the transfer of the Earlington to the Provident Savings Life Assurance Society—it is a distinct benefit to the market, in that a property which its owner, Mrs. Gill, could not have held, is taken out and placed in strong hands. What is more, the transaction probably provides for the payment of all the mechanics' claims against the Gill Building, on Maiden lane, for which it was traded, and from which the claims were transferred at the time of the trade. It is to be remarked that this property also is situated in a district which may undergo important changes in the not distant future. Should the North River Bridge be built, and its terminal situated on 6th av, north of 23d st, the Earlington would become an extremely valuable property for hotel purposes.

Last Wednesday the Board of Public Improvements passed resolutions for the opening of Alabama av, between Pitkin av and Livonia av, and Crown st, from Washington av to Rogers av. The matter of the change of grade of 83d and 84th sts will be taken up by the Board Oct. 2, at 2 p. m. The construction of a sewer in 19th st, between high water mark and the bulkhead line, has also been authorized and approved by the Board, the entire cost to be paid by assessments on the property deemed to be benefited thereby.

This borough is especially interested in the reassuring comment of "The Engineering News" on the latest report on the condition of Brooklyn Bridge. It will be remembered that the commission appointed by District Attorney Philbin said: "We believe the present margin of safety to be so small that the necessity for repairs is very urgent, and have suggested means by which the safety can be increased without materially interfering with traffic, at a comparatively small cost." "The Engineering News" says: "The suspenders which made the trouble last July can be readily changed so as to avoid any further rupture—and at comparatively slight expense. In the report, so far as given out, we find no note of alarm as to the cables or main structure; and in the interval of a quarter of a century that has elapsed since this first great suspension bridge was built, engineers have devised and used better means of suspending the trusses to the cables; and these later devices can now be substituted for the failing suspenders on the Brooklyn Bridge."

Real Estate Notes.

Max Freund will return on September 24, on the "Kronprinz Wilhelm," after a three months' stay in Europe.

Hearings on petitions for the cancelling of the assessments for the Watts st and 110th st improvements have been adjourned by the Board of Public Improvements until October 9th.

William B. Cutting is the buyer of No. 58 East 81st st, sold recently by McCafferty & Buckley, and reported in our last issue.

Laumeister & Co., real estate brokers, of No. 604 Melrose av, near 149th st, make a specialty of property in the Bronx, and have recently opened a new renting department. Their telephone is 276 B, Melrose.

A resolution to spend $2,000,000 on the Eastern Boulevard, from Westchester Creek to the Bronx River, on the line of 6th st, passed by the Board of Public Improvements some time ago, was last Wednesday rescinded by that body.

Five more claims, aggregating more than $50,000, were filed against the State this week by property-owners in Park av, for damages received through the railroad. The claimants and the amount of their claims are as follows: Frederick Lounenburg, $3,000; Adelgunn Weissman, $12,500; Ida Fynberg, $9 500; William H. McCarthy, $17,000; Georgene F. Fischer and Edward Fischer, $9,250.

27th st, Nos. 49 to 55 West, 10-sty hotel Earlington, on plot 100x98.9, was transferred this week by Mrs. Alice Gill to the Provident Savings Life Assurance Society. The hotel was formerly known as the Gerlach. It was sold at foreclosure in December, 1898, and again in April, 1899, J. P. Morgan buying it for $400,000, to protect a mortgage investment of the Peabody

Educational Fund. He spent a considerable sum in altering the building, and in December, 1900, traded it with Frank N. Gill for the 15-sty office building, Nos. 9 to 13 Maiden lane. The Earlington figured in the trade at $700,000, as against $1,000,000 for the Maiden lane property, Mr. Gill giving mortgages on the Earlington amounting to $432,000, of which $77,000 was to satisfy claims for work done on the Maiden lane building. The present selling price of the Earlington is $650,000. The buyers are also said to have obtained an option to purchase an abutting lot on 28th st.

The Building Trade

Material Market.

Iron and Steel.—The better feeling in the iron trade caused by the collapse of the steel strike has not yet brought an improvement in the volume of business, but the indications all point to an early resumption of activity, and in many quarters it is expected a large volume of business during the remainder of the year will be done. There is a firmer undertone to the market, but no quotable change in prices. Premiums are still paid, and will continue to be paid for all material which is scarce, as it will be some time before the various plants in the United States Steel Co. which have been affected by the strike will be able to make free deliveries on new orders. The pig-iron market is dull.

Lumber.—It is reported on all sides that the outlook for a brisk fall trade is excellent. There is a large amount of alteration work looked for, together with a good volume of new building, and prospects for an active season are, therefore, bright. Prices on nearly all kinds of material rule steady, with slight advances on some stocks. One or two things show a little weakness, more on account of increased supply than because of falling-off in demand. The spruce market continues in a very strong position; the demand is good, with the supply only normal; the conditions in general are such as to give every indication of a rise in prices in the near future. Yellow pine also continues active; the mills are all well filled with orders, and there is a decided upward tendency to values on nearly all kinds of material; prices have stiffened beyond expectation. Yellow pine flooring is in good demand, the orders being confined to flat-grained stock. Trade in hemlock is only normal, and prices remain firm. The hardwood market continues to show increasing activity, and inquiries are being made for pretty nearly all kinds of stock. Quartered oak and ash are also in fair request. There is nothing new to report about North Carolina pine; the mills are all very busy, with the demand good. Cypress continues to hold its strong position. Prices rule steady, with an upward tendency.

Lath arrivals have continued limited, with a fair demand; prices have held firm.

Brick, Lime, Cement and Lath.—Demand for brick is good, and prices are very firm. This market has been exceptionally steady for the past two months, and it is expected that there will be a slight advance on the first of next month if the demand continues. Eastern lime has had only a limited sale, but prices have not changed. Rosendale and domestic Portland cements have been in fair request, with prices steady.

Builders' Hardware.—In common with all branches of trade, the hardware market has been quiet the past week, on account of the President's death. The promise of improvement holds, however, and the outlook for trade when business picks up again is excellent.

Nails.—Business in wire nails keeps up in fair proportion, and in the main at regular prices. Some trouble is experienced in obtaining prompt shipments from the mills, which are unable to accumulate stock. Small lots from store at New York are quoted at $2.60 per keg. The scarcity in the standard sizes of cut nails is becoming so pronounced that shipments are delayed in consequence. The demand is about of usual proportions. Small lots from store are quoted at $2.18 to $2.30 per keg.

Plumbers' Supplies.—On account of the settlement of the strike of Amalgamated Workers, there is more firmness in this market. It is generally believed that there will be a good demand for pig tin for some time, and that prices should advance. The demand for sheet copper continues in satisfactory volume. The consumption of this metal this season appears to be considerably ahead of that of former years. A good deal of material is going into structural work in the shape of cornices, roofing, etc. Prices remain firm. No change of any kind has taken place in the pig lead market. The market is quiet, and prices rule about the same as a week ago. Spelter is dull and prices without change. The market for tin plate remains in just about the same position as outlined in our last report. The available supplies of plates are still extremely light, and in some cases there is an actual famine. Both black and galvanized sheets are as hard as ever to get, and bring as high prices as ever. Jobbers' prices are ruling nearly 10c. per 100 lbs. higher than a week ago.

Glass.—This market remains dull and featureless. A meeting of the National Window Glass Jobbers' Association was held at Detroit, Mich., last week, with representatives of the Window Glass combines in attendance. Reports have been in circulation that an advance in prices was made at the meeting. Such is not the case, and prices remain unchanged. It is stated that the lack of demand did not justify an advance in prices.

Paints.—The movement into all lines of consumption is on a fairly liberal scale. There has been some talk about the unsettled linseed oil market and of the scarcity at present, but manufacturers state it is unlikely that it will affect the paint trade, as most mixers' wants are covered for a month to come, and by that time it is probable there will be plenty of oil available. Prices throughout are maintained at present quotations.

Linseed Oil.—The further advance in spot prices predicted last week was made this week when the leading crushing interests raised their quotations to the basis of 65c. for 5-barrel lots. This price applies to both city and out-of-town brands, and so far as can be learned there is nothing obtainable for prompt delivery from any source at less. The immediate cause of this advance was said to be the sharp rise in the price of spot seed in the West. The demand for oil for present use continues active, but the unwillingness of holders of the small available supply to accept large orders restricts business.

Stapleton, S. I.—Richmond road; Nicholas & Larson have been awarded the general contract for a 3-sty frame dwelling and store to be erected for W. B. Morrell, from plans by Otto Loeffler.

East Hampton, L. I.—I. H. Greene, Jr., Sayville, L. I., is drawing plans for a 2½-sty frame club-house to cost $25,000; Maidstone Club, owner.

Southampton, L. I.—W. E. Brady is drawing plans for a frame dwelling to be erected for Capt. Seldon Halsey, to cost $5,000.

Of Interest to the Building Trades.

Owen M. McManus has been appointed private secretary to Commissioner Wallace at a salary of $2,500 per annum, in the place of Frank W. Geraty, resigned.

Trade still continues brisk among the majority of the plumbers, and few capable journeymen are on the street. Material is scarce in some lines, and this is causing delay on many jobs.

Thomas A. Barry, plumber, formerly of 217 West Broadway, and who for the past two years has been in New Mexico for his health, died at his late residence, 896 East 156th st. The funeral services were attended by many members of the Master Plumbers' Association, of which Mr. Barry was a member.

The A. B. See electric elevator company, whose works are located at Front and Pearl sts, Brooklyn, with main office at No. 220 Broadway, this city, have established branch offices in the Real Estate and Trust Building, corner of Chestnut and Broad sts, Philadelphia, for the sale of their electric elevators in that city and vicinity.

The Hartig Gas Engine Co., No. 39 Dey st, have issued their yearly illustrated catalogue of 28 pages, with many testimonials showing their new improved gas and gasoline engines. These machines are made from 1 to 10 horse-power, and can be used for all purposes where power is required. Copies of the catalogue will be sent to architects and builders and others interested on application.

The Building Trades' Association have renewed the lease of their quarters in the Townsend Building, No. 1123 Broadway, for a period of five years from May 1st next. Some alterations in the rooms are now being made under the direction of Messrs. King, Fertig and Kessing.

"New Standard" Electric Elevators.

The Marine Engine and Machine Co., whose offices are located at No. 1123 Broadway, this city, have been awarded the contract for the installation of two of their "New Standard" electric passenger elevators in the studio and loft building, No. 35 West 21st st, of which James A. Campbell is the owner.

Legal Decisions.

Action Against Copartners for Rent.—A release under seal of one of them, while the copartnership exists, releases all. Where the plaintiff in an action brought against one Cobin and others, the members of a copartnership which had never been dissolved, to recover rent of premises hired by them, executes and delivers to one of the copartners, in consideration of his appearing at the trial, a release under seal "of and from all claims against Cobin, individually as a copartner," upon the obligation in suit, such release operates to discharge the other copartners.—(Finch vs. Simon, 61 App. Div. 139.)

Principal and agent—real estate brokers' commissions. Where brokers employed to lease real estate fail to make the minds of the owners and that of the proposed tenant meet upon the question of rental, and a third party subsequently succeeds in persuading the owners to lower the rent and lease the premises to the proposed tenant, the brokers are entitled to no commissions from the owners, as they have not been the procuring cause of making the lease. (Tyng v. Constable. Misc. 35, 283.)

The Bowery and Grand Street

"I was very much interested in the article on Grand street in the Record and Guide of last week," said George J. Kenny, the well-known East Houston street agent and broker, to a representative of this journal, "and I think the subject was very ably handled. I recall that eighteen or nineteen years ago that the south side of Grand street and the west side of the Bowery, within certain limits, were retail shopping sections much sought by merchants, so much so that anyone who wanted to obtain a lease of premises in either of them had to pay a premium. The decline in both selling and rental values was, however, very rapid. For instance, a Bowery store, 35x100, with basement, that rented at $4,500 in the good times, dropped to about $2,000 in the course of four or five years, and the rental of a 2-sty Grand street building declined from $3,200 to $2,200 between 1894 and 1897. The history of one piece of property in these two stretches of thoroughfare is, generally speaking, that of all rental values decreased so much, in fact, that only land values remained, and at that the property on Grand street became desirable for 6-sty flats with stores. On the west side of the Bowery lots declined from about $44,000 in the early '80's, to from $25,000 to $27,000; this low-water mark was reached in '96 or '97, I should say. Since then they have advanced to from $30,000 to $32,000. On Elizabeth street, I may say, as a curious example of different results on different streets, values have meantime advanced. A parcel on the west side of the Bowery, running through to Elizabeth street, sold for $64,000; the value of the Elizabeth street lot was placed at $16,000; it is now $20,000 to $21,000; meantime the value of the Bowery lot declined from $48,000 to about $38,000, and is now about $42,000. During the period of depression values on the Bowery were sustained by the fact that one-half of the property from Chatham square to 8th street is owned by estates in whose possession it has been for a very long time. These facts go to show that there has been a heavy decline of values in this section, and that a period of recovery has set in; I do not think they will regain all they have lost, but there is every reason to believe that the process of recovery is still going on. To illustrate the income effects of these movements, I would cite the case of a parcel 25x100, on the west side of the Bowery, between Spring and Prince streets, which, with an old building, was bought for $44,000 in '84 or '85. The rental value declined until the operation did not pay. In the early '90's the owner put up a new 5-sty loft building at a cost of $30,000, making the total investment $74,000. The building has now a rental value of $4,500, or about 6% gross and 4½% net on the investment, which, though not equal to the first return, shows the possibility that exists for the redemption of property that has run down and getting at least a fair income out of it. The way in which either Bowery or Grand street property can be redeemed is indicated by the improvements that are now going up upon those several thoroughfares."

News, Notes and Notions.

"ABSOLUTE" FIREPROOF CONSTRUCTION.

Edwin F. Bertolett read a paper before the Engineers' Club of Philadelphia on "Fireproof Construction in Philadelphia," which opened thus: "There is but one fireproof building in Philadel, phia; that is the powder-magazine, and it is empty." His idea of a real fireproof building was this: "The absolutely fireproof house or building will have no wood in its construction unless it be fireproofed; it will have its doors and windows of incombustible materials, and the more vulnerable parts of these will be protected against the direct contact with flame and heat. Its floors will be cement or tile finished, as well as cement or tile constructed; the light will be admitted through fire-resisting glass, and direct communication between stories will be through stairs or elevators placed in special fireproof shafts, with which communication will be had by fireproof doors only. Partition lights or sashes and communicating openings will be reduced to a minimum, all corridors being directly lighted from the exterior; all heating, lighting and other communicating features common to all parts of the structure will be placed in separate and special fireproof ducts or shafts, closed at each floor with metal or fire-resisting doors. In short, each apartment, and therefore each building, will be at once convertible, in emergency, into a furnace or crematory, in which, without injury to any other apartment or building, the contents thereof may be utterly destroyed, for the conditions under which all the contents of our stores, our homes, our shops and our offices will in themselves resist fire cannot at this age be anticipated."

PREMIATED FACADES.

Architects who visit Paris will find interesting studies in the premiated buildings selected for the "Concours de Facades," and which have received official approval. In 1899 a competition was organized among Parisian architects, in which those houses built during the year that were judged to be most beautiful were to be distinguished by rewards to those who could be considered as their creators. The names of the architects and the houses which have gained success for them are M. Bouvens van der Boyen, Jr., for No. 8 Rue de Lota; M. Bruneau, for No. 270 Boulevard de Raspail; M. Marcel, for No. 17 Avenue de Breteuil; M. Morin-Goustiaux, for No. 1 Rue Le Peletier; M. Rives, for No. 45 Rue de Chateau-d'Eau; and M. Sinell, for No. 11 Rue Edmond-Valentin.

FOR MAKING BLUE-PRINTS.

In making blue-prints the most unmanageable and expensive part of the necessary apparatus has always been the large plate glass slab. A recent German patent is designed to do away with this part of the outfit, the tracing and sensitized paper being stretched over a board having a slightly cylindrical surface, for exposure to the sun. One side of the paper is held in a clip, the other being held by a rubber roller working in guides on either side, the adhesion of the rubber to the tracing serving to hold it tight over the paper.

THE NERNST LAMP.

On an occasion at theLausanstrasse Station, Berlin, the Allgemeine Electricitats Gesellschaft gave an exhibition of the Nernst lamp, and a lecture on its development and construction was delivered by Herr Bussman, chief of the experimental department of the A. E. G. The lecturer's remarks, together with the experiments, convinced most of those present of the very great possibilities of the Nernst lamp. There is no doubt that great credit is due to those who have been working at the problem, in overcoming the various initial difficulties and in producing the lamp which has now an average life of 300 hours. The method of applying initial heat to the filament by a small spiral wire of platinum and the cutting out of this resistance when the filament has been heated up sufficiently to make it a conductor is most ingeniously worked out from the point of view of manufacture cheaply and in quantity. In order to regulate the amount of current an iron wire resistance is placed in series. At a dull red heat the rate of increase of resistance of iron wire is so great per unit increase of temperature, that the corresponding decrease of resistance of the glower is compensated for, and the current passing is kept nearly constant. This wire is put in a vacuum bulb mounted on the lamp-holder. The difficulty of making a good contact between the platinum wire and the non-conducting filament appears to have been effectually overcome. Hitherto the cost of manufacture has kept the new lamp from being a commercial success, and now this is in a fair way of being solved. In the A. E. G. works the lamps are extensively used, and they are also employed by many private consumers, to whom a rental of 75 cents per annum per lamp fixed is charged, there being nothing extra to pay for the renewal of the filament. To buy outright the price is $1.67, and 50 cents for each extra filament. The lamp is made for any voltage up to 250, and the fluctuation of pressure which has such a detrimental effect is taken care of by a special device in the latest type of lamp. There is an exhibit of these lamps at the Pan-American Exposition, and their use in this country is said to demonstrate their efficiency. "The Electrical World" says of this lamp: "If, as at present prepared, compared with the incandescent lamp for purposes to which incandescent lighting is applied, the comparison can only be very unfavorable to the new apparatus. If, however, the Nernst lamp is compared with the arc lamp, for purposes to which the arc lamp is ordinarily applied, the comparison is much more favorable to the new device."

PROFIT SHARING IN ENGLAND.

From a statement recently issued by the labor department of the British Board of Trade it appears that there are now seventy-three firms in the United Kingdom who have profit sharing schemes in operation. Of these full returns were received from sixty-six concerns. These returns show that an average bonus of 6.4 per cent. on wages paid was distributed in 1900. The results in the several cases, however, differed widely. Out of the sixty-six cases cited, there were thirteen in which no bonus was given, while, on the other hand, there were two instances in which as much as 41 and 39 per cent., respectively, was paid. In the large majority of instances the bonus varied between 5 and 7 per cent. The report mentions seven cases in which the profit sharing system was abandoned, the reasons for failure being mostly of one character, viz., dissatisfaction of the employees when there were no profits to be shared. This seems to point to the conclusion that profit sharing is regarded by many of the employees as a good thing when the business prospers and the bonus comes in regularly. But as soon as adversity overtakes the concern and the wouldbe profit sharers are asked to assist in making good the debit balance, they have no further use for the plan. Nevertheless, it is undeniable that the system has worked well in a number of instances, and it may be that, after all, the profit sharing principle will form an important feature of industrial conditions in the future.

TENEMENTS IN ANCIENT ROME.

A correspondent of the "Munchener Allgemeine Zeitung" makes an interesting study of the conditions of living in ancient Rome. Statistics show that, in the time of the early Empire, Rome contained forty-six thousand tenement houses, and only seventeen hundred and ninety-four private residences. The latter were of the most sumptuous description. A palace which, with its out-buildings, covered less than two and one-half acres of ground was reckoned a small affair, and the imperial residences on the Palatine hill were far larger than this. As the growth of Rome was restricted by its enclosing walls, it may be imagined that the space left, after deducting that occupied by the palaces of the nobles, was very inadequate to the needs of a population which was probably not less than two millions, and is believed by some authorities to have reached three millions. The crush in the streets was so great that, under the Emperors, vehicles were only allowed to circulate in them during the early morning hours, and late in the evening. Practically, this regulation only aggravated the crowding, for the absence of any means of conveyance made it necessary for the inhabitants to live close together, independent of the limitations of the fortified walls. The available space being so small, land sold at an enormous price. Julius Caesar paid about one hundred dollars a square foot for land in the vicinity of the Forum, which he cleared of buildings and presented to the public. Crassus, the richest man of his time, made great profits by purchasing buildings which had fallen down, or were destroyed by fire, clearing away the ruins, and selling the land to builders, whether with a building loan or not is not stated.

WALL-PAPER HINTS.

To paper over kalsomine a great deal of trouble is experienced in having the paper adhere uniformly to the wall. This annoyance can readily be overcome by treating the wall before commencing to hang paper. Much depends upon the condition of the kalsomine, whether hard or sound, cracked and scaling, or soft and chalky. These several conditions call for different treatment. As a rule, however, it is best to carefully remove the old kalsomine, either by scraping or sponging. If it is soft and shows no signs of scaling a coat of glue and alum size, made two parts glue and one part alum by weight, mixed rather thin and flowed on plentifully and well-brushed into the surface, will likely bind the surface sufficient to hold the paper. If the kalsomine is hard and not scaling give it a coat of two parts each of linseed oil and turpentine, one part Japan and 4 oz. glycerine for each gallon of the mixture; put on warm. If the kalsomine is scaling in either case it is risky to paper without first taking it off. If you size the walls and leave the kalsomine on it is a good idea to scrape the edges around the windows, doors, baseboard, etc., for half an inch or so while wet to hold the edges of the paper and also to lap the edges of the paper instead of butting them. It is not generally known that oil and grease spots can be removed from the most delicately tinted wall paper without seriously marring it. Some French chalk powdered in cold water should be applied to the spots and permitted to remain for at least twelve hours. The chalk can then be brushed off. If the grease spots still are visible put on more chalk, place a piece of brown paper on this and press for a few moments with a warm flatiron.—Painters' Magazine.

CONVEYANCES.

Whenever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee they mean as follows:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing a Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed can be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no express covenants, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones ,owing to their having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

4th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

5th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482, denote that the property is in section 2 block 482.

6th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers, the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

7th.—The letters R. S. mean Revenue Stamp, as R. S. $8.00 means Revenue Stamp $8.00.

Tax on Conveyances executed prior to July 1st, 1901, on $100 to $500, 50c., and for each additional $500 or fraction thereof, 50c.; on Conveyances executed on and after July 1st, 1901, 25c., where consideration exceeds $2,500 and is not more than $3,000, and 25c. for each additional $500 or fraction thereof.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as head lines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage is drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find Mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as head lines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

Vol. LXVIII. SEPTEMBER 28, 1901. No. 1750.

THERE seems to be approaching in the Stock Market a period corresponding in character to that that followed the Resumption boom when, as it later transpired, the big men were carrying the burden of large amounts of stock and ineffectually endeavoring to hold prices, against the liquidation of the crowd, for the purpose of transferring their loads to other shoulders. So far as the public are concerned they are sellers, or realizers, but commission business of any kind is small, the great bulk of the trading being by professionals whose variations of temper make the market for the time being. What is particularly to be noted is that the rally from any declining movement rarely or never carries prices back to the point from which they started. At the moment there is a disposition to advance prices somewhat, but this will disappear the moment the selling of long stock is suspected. Railroad issues are still the strongest of any class of securities; whether they will maintain their strength will depend on the course of earnings, which from now on should be watched closely for changes. As to the Industrials the buying public seems determined to hold them at arm's length until they have demonstrated their staying qualities. This is not remarkable, in view of the ridiculous statements put out to induce them to buy, notably, that to the effect that the U. S. Steel Co. had lost nothing by the strike. Well-informed people put the actual loss at a large figure, and say also that it is gone with no way of recovering it. The iron trade is by all accounts in good shape now, and has work in sight sufficient to keep all the mills busy until next spring. As is usual in good times the railroads are generous buyers, and the demand from other sources is also considerable, but the Steel Co. has yet to make the showing that will assure investors of a certain and regular return on their money with stability in quotations. The application of these arguments can be extended all along the Industrial line, and the logical deduction as to their ultimate influence on quotations is as patent as the writing on the wall.

"THE only hope," said Mayor Van Wyck last week, "for the taxpayers of Manhattan and the Bronx lies in increasing the taxable values of land in Brooklyn and Queens." This sounds disastrous for the taxpayers of Manhattan and the Bronx, because an increase in taxable values in Brooklyn and Queens at all proportional to the prospective increase in taxes appears to be hopeless for many years to come. After the Pike Street Bridge and the East River tunnel are completed, it is possible that the increase in values across the river may do a little something to relieve the continual pressure of increased municipal expenses upon the taxpayers in Manhattan and the Bronx, but considering that in the meantime the city proposes spending about $40,000,000 upon bridges and a tunnel, the additional burden is much more imminent than any perceptible relief. The remark indicates only too plainly that the present administration is in the matter of constant increase of expenditures and taxes drifting helplessly. Property-owners in this city are not suffering from excessive tax burdens, because, as the Mayor's remark would imply, there is any deficiency of taxable real estate values. On the contrary, the real estate values of Manhattan are upon an extraordinary high level, and are assessed for the most part for the full two-thirds of their value. In Manhattan and the Bronx, for instance, the books contain $1,156 of taxable property for every singel inhabitant, whereas in Philadelphia, although real estate is supposed to be assessed at its full value instead of at two-thirds thereof, the books show a realty valuation of $690 per inhabitant. Yet in Philadelphia, which cannot be called an economically governed city, the tax rate is 1.85, while in Manhattan and the Bronx it is 2.30 or thereabouts. Neither is there any deficiency of taxable real estate values in Brooklyn, such as the Mayor's remark would imply, for the Brooklyn books show a taxable real estate value of about $560 for each inhabitant. When the difference between the rate at which property is supposed to be assessed in the two cities is taken into account, this makes the Brooklyn figure about equal to that of Philadelphia, in spite of the fact that so many Brooklyn citizens carry on their business outside the Borough limits. The hope for the taxpayers of Manhattan and the Bronx does not consist in a larger taxable value for real estate, because, compared with other cities, there is an abundance of such value now. It consists in getting something like five dollars' worth of value for every five dollars that is spent.

IN the European financial markets there is talk of other governmental loans besides those already announced. Germany is reported to be about to come on the market for funds, and it is only a matter of arithmetic to decide when Great Britain must ask the public for new advances with which to carry on the Boer war, if that undertaking is to last much longer. It has, undoubtedly, degenerated into a guerilla war, but there never was a war of that character before that cost so much to the stronger party. These expected government loans explain the heaviness of Consols and other governmental issues, and also the maintenance of comparatively high discount rates by the banks in the face of large reserves and the return of money from industrial use in large volume. The cable report, appearing this week, of the scarcity of employment and the number of idle men in all industrial lines in Germany, only confirms what we have said of the condition of business in that country for some time past. The state of affairs in Germany can easily find duplicates in other European countries; indeed, in both Great Britain and on the Continent matters have been tending toward depression for a good while past, as readers of this journal have often been told. What we are interested in at the moment is whether our ability to withdraw gold from Europe is superior to her ability to retain it. So far a westward flow of large proportions has been checked by the raising of discount rates and the return of securities to our market, but it is apparent from what gold dribbles in and the exertions put forth to prevent more coming, that if our need should increase materially it would not be difficult to divert the current this way. So far there has been no need to take unusual measures to obtain this, the falling off in the demand for money for speculation, or its forcible curtailment by loaners, with the prompt and judicious measures taken by Secretary Gage to relieve the situation have been sufficient to meet the requirements of the situation and keep rates reasonably low and the market fairly easy considering the circumstances of the hour.

THE nomination of James L. Wells for the office of President of the Borough of the Bronx by his party was the most natural and appropriate in the world, inasmuch as Mr. Wells has been long identified with the territory now known as the Borough of the Bronx, and one of the foremost agents in its development. Moreover, as Mr. Wells was one of the revisers of the charter which endows the borough presidents with such important powers affecting the progress of their boroughs, and knows by his experience as a real estate man what is wanted, his claims to recognition by his political friends must have been as convincing on the theoretical as on the practical side. Besides this, his popularity in the Bronx has always been great, and it has recently been increased by his services to the Borough, both in aiding legislation and advocating public expenditures, under which it has become the important section that it is.

THE platform adopted by the Republican County Convention will be received with mixed feelings by the people interested exclusively in economic and efficient government in New York. To have the Republicans go unequivocally on record in favor of a non-partisan administration of municipal affairs is undoubtedly a great achievement for the cause of sound municipal administration, but one's disposition to rejoice is somewhat qualified by the explanation which the plank received from the speakers. Republicanism, it was declared, is unimportant in municipal, but extremely important in state affairs. That is, the Republicans are to be non-partizan in New York, but partisan at Albany. We must say that non-partisanship, so restricted, is very much like the young woman who was reasonably chaste. Considering that New York City is in truth governed from Albany, while it is only administered from the City Hall, it is not reassuring to be informed that the Republicans are not pledged to the non-partisan administration of municipal affairs beyond the Bronx line, for at Albany all municipal become state questions. But while in this respect the Republican pledges are to say the least, a little frayed at the edges, still it should be remembered how much more acceptation proper principles of municipal government obtain than they did, say, five years ago. The principle of single-headed departments, for instance, has been taken over by the Republicans; last winter the principle of local self-government won a remarkable triumph in the case both in the drawing up of the police bill and in the exercise of his powers by the Governor; and now the principle of municipal non-partizanship, not a very positive principle in itself, but the condition of all efficient local government, has been proclaimed by the party which in the past has clung most resolutely to partisan methods.

IT will not surprise practical people to learn that the denial of any discretion to the Department of Buildings by the new Tenement House Law is proving very obstructive to architects and builders of tenements, and that they are finding it hard to submit a plan that the department can approve. While the law is positive in its terms, differing views may be taken of its requirements architects have discovered, and as they have no discretion, the department has to hold to their interpretation, which architects are sometimes unable to reconcile with practical requirements. We understand that this applies to all or nearly all the plans for the low-priced tenements filed under the new law.

The Upper West Side.

THE ENCOURAGING VIEW OF THE FUTURE OF THIS SECTION.

The Upper West Side, above 155th st, is certainly one of the most cheerfully-minded in the city. This year has seen a practical cessation of building operations, still brokers and agents take the liveliest views of the near future, and anticipate a very active market as soon as the transit facilities that are being created are in sight. There are five things that are, or going to be, responsible for a great developing movement in this section. They are: 1st, The Rapid Transit Railroad; 2d, the adoption of the permanent street map; 3d, the connecting of the Riverside Drive with the Boulevard Lafayette; 4th, the salubrity of the region itself, and its perfect suitability for domestic architecture; and 5th, the fact that this is the only section of Manhattan Island left in which there is room for a really large speculative and investment movement. Besides these the Kingsbridge extension of the surface lines counts for something Large operators have already shown their confidence in the future of this section by purchases on a colossal scale, and it only remains for the completion of the great improvements already referred to to be brought closer for trading to begin on a large and active scale. This is assuredly the opinions of brokers who have made the Upper West Side a special study and field of operations. It is this that makes them so optimistic in spite of the fact that the only physical developments going on are those of the railroads and the city. But these are always the forerunners of activity in land and building, because it may be taken as an axiom that private follow along the lines of public improvements. For the present the let-up in building accounts for the demand for flats and small houses this fall, mentioned by the brokers whose views are given below, though there is still a good supply on hand, particularly of the former, even in the vicinity of the 155th st station of the Manhattan Elevated Railroad. A decided movement of population toward this section would, however, rapidly clean up all on hand. For this reason it is hoped that the municipal authorities will rush their work on the improvements contemplated, and in that case there will no longer be any drawback to the rapid building-up of this section. In this connection it may be remarked that the development of Spuyten Duyvil during the past few years has been constantly increasing, the accompanying building movement being carried out with a fair amount of success.

Before giving the professional views that follow, it ought also be pointed out that in realty, as in other lines, it is the early buyer that collects the biggest profits, and not the one who waits until all the conditions favoring advances and developments have been completed:

Bernard Loth, Pres., Washington Heights' Improvement Association: During the summer months the property-owners interested in the section known as Washington Heights, that territory lying west of Kingsbridge road, or Broadway, and north of West 181st st, and extending northerly to Spuyten Duyvil, have not been idle. At the public hearing held by the Board of Public Improvements last June on the proposed map of the northern part of the city, the various interests affected were very generally represented in the different schemes of improvement as were then outlined. The officers of the association and many of the members have since then been engaged in effecting a compromise with the city, so that so far as possible the individual property-owners would suffer the minimum loss and the neighborhood, as a whole, receive the maximum benefit.

Within a very short time the property-owners' association will come forward with a definite plan of improvement which will have been approved by the city department in charge of such matters. Building activity is delayed because builders are waiting for the formal adoption of the new map for their avenue and street line grades, contours, etc. About 90% of the property-owners in this section are members of the Washington Heights' Improvement Association, and among them are: The James Gordon Bennett estate, Benedict Fischer, James McCreery, Albert Buchman and James Libby.

The power-house of the Metropolitan Street R. R. Co., at 216th st and Harlem River, covers an entire city block, is the largest in the world, and is handsomely built of red brick and terra cotta. This has created a demand for the building of working men's homes, and the village of Spuyten Duyvil as a natural consequence is experiencing a boom. Houses are being built that will rent from $200 to $1,500 to accommodate the expected demand.

Duff & Brown: Renting so far this season is very good in private houses and flats. There is not as much free time given as formerly. The new building laws have stopped all proposed work. Speculators to-day are not anxious to build flats under the new building law, as they could not be built at a figure to rent at the rates the average flat dweller in this section could pay. The results of recent events on business and on realty have to be seen before confident opinions on the immediate future can be expressed.

Stewart Bros.: Renting is good in dwellings and the better class apartments. Unimproved property in demand, and prices higher than last spring. The Kingsbridge trolley will be a great advantage to the building-up of this section; a 5c. fare will take one from the City Hall to Spuyten Duyvil. When this new road is in operation it will have an important effect on building operations, and changes for the better cannot but come. When once started, the movement will gather a momentum that is bound to carry it along considerable lengths. A good market is looked for this fall, and the possibilities of Washington Heights are great. Many moneyed men are attracted by the allurements of this locality, and these wealthy men will unoubtedly invest some of their surplus means in real estate here which will pay well for investment.

Charles A. Du Bois: There is a very good demand for 5 and 6-room flats at moderate rentals. Also considerable inquiry for elevator apartments. Small houses that rent at about $1,000 are in good demand. Very little call from investors for vacant property is seen at present, and except for improvement this property is dead. The Fort Washington Ridge road property is mostly acreage, and has been bought to hold, and its future is excellent. Before the new building law went into effect indications were for a record-breaking business in the building line this year, but it seems that this will not be the case—only moderate activity—and disappointment is bound to follow the over-sanguine man.

Batterman & Seggie: Anticipations have been realized, and the fall renting season in the Washington Heights' section is the best known. Some inquiries are being made by investors and speculators for unimproved property in this section. Amsterdam av flats are in fair demand, and rents remain about the same as last season. With the extension and completion of the Kingsbridge trolley, the material benefits will help the Heights greatly. Washington Heights is destined to be the vantage ground of the Borough of Manhattan. Building operations are practically at a standstill—only one flat being built in this section under the new tenement law.

New Tenement House Law.

ACTION TAKEN BY TAXPAYERS' ASSOCIATIONS.

A crowded special meeting of the 12th and 19th Ward Taxpayers' Association was held last Saturday evening at No. 1591 2d av. V. Frank, the president, opened the meeting, and some 115 new members were elected. A resolution was passed to forward a letter of condolence to Mrs. William McKinley.

A motion to tender a vote of thanks to the Board of Public Improvements for vacating the assessments of 76th st East River Park, by which a large number of its members were affected, was also adopted, as was also a resolution notifying both political parties that the members of the United Real Estate Association would use its influence to defeat any member of the last legislature who voted for the West Side Grab Bill and the Tenement House Law who should be renominated for office.

A resolution was also adopted demanding both political parties to place a representative property-owner in nomination for office that would give him a seat on the Board of Estimate and Apportionment at the coming election, and recommended Councilman Christman for such nomination.

A meeting of the West Side Taxpayers' Association was held September 20th, at No. 267 West 34th st. In the absence of Dr. Scholer, its President, Mr. Jorgensen presided. The meeting was attended by a large number of members, among whom were some forty new ones who were elected members during the course of the evening. A number of addresses were made on the new Tenement House Law provisions referring to old houses by Messrs. Appel, Demuth and others; then Mr. Markus, President of the central body, urged every member to try and secure as many new members as possible, as it would strengthen the Association's fight against the new law. Councilman Christman closed the meeting with a long address, in which he described the costs of alterations required by the various sections of the new law. He took, for illustration, the houses Nos. 271 and 273 East 10th st. Every section of the new law affects these houses, and the alterations as provided by the law will cost not less than $5,500.

In making the alterations the owner will lose ten rooms in each house which will mean a loss of $600 a year. Mr. Christman also gave the amounts of rent derived from the houses and the taxes paid in 1873, and the amounts received at the present day; also taxes paid this year, which showed a decrease in rent of one-third in 27 years ago, and an increase in taxes of nearly 50 per cent. for the same period.

REVIEW OF THE WEEK.

The real estate market during the past week has not been remarkable, either for activity or for the occurrence of the usual number of large sales. Trading has been much restricted both as to the nature of the property sold and its location. At least four out of every five items published have had to do with residences situated on side streets near 5th av, and north of 50th st—the region which has been the seat of such a large amount of trading during the past year. None of these items are, however, worthy of special note. They merely illustrate the fact that the prevailing demand for dwelling houses is confined largely to the central district and the East Side; and there are many indications that this demand is not yet by any means diminishing. The one transaction of the week which assumes any special prominence is the purchase by the Rapid Transit Subway Construction Company of a parcel of land, 800x200, at the foot of West 59th st, as the location of the main power-house of the new system. The meaning of this purchase is so obvious that it is scarcely necessary to comment on it from a purely real estate point of view. It need only be remarked that the location of the power-house in that vicinity will benefit the neighborhood, both by creating a large demand for labor, and by the tendency to improvement which an important public work always bestows upon its surroundings. It is stated that the building to be erected will not only be a useful, but an ornamental structure—as is provided for in the following clause in the Rapid Transit contract: "The railway and its equipment as contemplated by the contract constitute a great public work. All parts of the structure, where exposed to public sight, shall, therefore, be designed, constructed and maintained with a view to the beauty of their appearance, as well as to their efficiency." This is certainly a salutary provision, and what a difference it would have made to the good looks of New York had a similar condition been imposed upon the designers of the structure and stations of the elevated roads. New York is certainly, on the whole, keeping house better than it did twenty, or even ten years ago. One other piece of news deserves some comment. It is stated that the Philadelphia firm of Snellenberg & Co. are not going to continue the lease of the McCreery store, on Broadway and 11th st, which they secured last year, which does not speak well for retail trade in that vicinity.

For the following copies of the Record and Guide, delivered at our office in good condition, we will pay 10c. per copy: 1581, 1713 and 1721. We will also pay 50c. for index to Volume 41. Record and Guide, 14 Vesey St.

Gossip of the Week.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

49th st, No. 39 West, 4-sty dwelling, 23x90x100.5; Columbia College leasehold; seller, John F. Plummer; brokers, W. E. & F. B. Taylor.

Mulberry st, No. 3, 5-sty 30-foot-front tenement with two stores, has been sold by Henry Wise.

58th and 59th sts, 11th to 12th av; John B. McDonald, of the Rapid Transit Subway Construction Co., has purchased this block as a site for a power-house, from which power will be supplied to the entire rapid transit system. The block is 200x800 feet and is owned by the Eastman Company, who have been asking $1,000,000 for it. It was transferred in 1885 to Joseph Eastman by the Union Stock Yard and Market Co., for $300,000. Swift & Co. are at present occupying the block.

37th st, No. 138 East, 4-sty brownstone dwelling, 20x50x100; seller, Edward E. Beddall; brokers, Voorhees & Floyd.

LEASES.

Chas. E. Duross has leased for Conron Bros. to James Cunningham, for ten years, the property No. 452 West 14th st, 25x103, upon which a new building is to be erected and run by the lessee as a hotel.

The contract for the leasing of the Lorraine, a 14-sty apartment hotel, on a lot 75x125, at the southeast corner of 5th av and 45th st, was signed on Wednesday. A lease of this property was reported as having been closed about two weeks ago, the lessees being given as C. A. Linsley and L. A. Kittridge; this lease was not consummated. The lessee is William F. Hale, who for the past year has been the night clerk at The Schuyler, an apartment hotel on 45th st, between 5th and 6th avs. His backers are Dr. Charles Brodie Patterson, who lives at The Schuyler, and a Mr. Herbert. The property is owned by the estate of Matthew Byrnes, which is represented by the United States Trust Co. The lease is for twenty-one years, at $100,000 per year, taxes and repairs to be paid by the lessee. The rental income at the present time is $170,000 per year, and there are fifteen vacant apartments. The monthly pay roll is said to be about $5,000.

Polizzi & Co. have leased for A. J. Dworsky the two 6-sty tenements, Nos. 309 and 311 East 107th st, for a term of three years.

Taxes—When Lien and Payable.

The tax-rates for the several boroughs for 1901, were confirmed August 22, at 2 p. m., and the assessment rolls were delivered to David E. Austen, Receiver of Taxes, for collection September 18th, at 12 o'clock noon. The last-mentioned is the date on which taxes become a lien on the property, according to the ruling of the Supreme Court. According to custom, taxes will become payable Monday week, October 7th; that is the first Monday in October. Next year they will become payable on that day by law, the charter, which goes into effect January 1st, having so provided.

Rapid Transit—Proposed Change of Route.

A hearing was given on Thursday by a Local Board, in the Municipal Building, Crotona Park, on a petition to change the route by which the Rapid Transit Railroad is to be carried from 3d av to Westchester av. The board, while conceding the advantages of the change, refrained from making any recommendation until it was ascertained whether, if adopted, it would delay work or interfere with the contracts made for building the road. If built as at present laid out, the railroad will make a sharp curve from 149th st and 3d av to Westchester av, and the masonry work, which will carry the line up to the elevated structure on Westchester av, will cut off Bergen av. To obviate this it is proposed that the line be continued along 149th st to the south side of Bergen av, and then by an ascent built on private property to be acquired carried to Westchester and Brook avs.

Real Estate Notes.

The City Real Property Investing Company is the buyer of No. 35 East 39th st, and extending through to No. 36 East 40th st. The sale was reported in our issue of May 18.

The C. G. Schwartz Company, of Westchester, have been incorporated, to deal in real estate; capital, $200,000. Directors, Charles G. Schwartz, Henry Siefke and George H. Free.

William Hall paid $200,000 for the plot, 60x102.2, on the north side of 75th st, 165 feet east of 5th av, purchased three weeks ago from the estate of John R. Ford. He gives the estate two mortgages of $70,000 each, at 4 per cent, with two years to run.

The fight of the New York Central Railroad Co. and its allied interests against the construction of the proposed New York & Port Chester Railroad will be continued on Monday before the State Railroad Commission, at the Fifth Avenue Hotel. This scheme has the endorsement of real estate men in Westchester and the Bronx.

Owners of property in Crescent av, in the Bronx, have a novel dispute with the Controller's office which will likely be attended with interesting developments. Last spring property on both sides of Crescent av was condemned for the widening of that thoroughfare. From 5 to 10 feet was taken from the front of several buildings. Although damages have been awarded to those whose property was thus condemned they have not yet received payment. The city has taken no steps to gain possession of the land or remove the portions of buildings purchased. The explanation of this is that the city pays interest on the damage awards from the date of title passing, and, under the law, has the right to lease the property during the interval that elapses before the improvement is physically made.

It will interest owners and agents to learn the name of a carpenter and general contractor who makes a specialty of fire jobs and alterations. Such a one is Valentine Lynch, of No. 104 West 42d st, who is experienced and rapid. He is now engaged on repairing the fire damage to the store and tenement, No. 900 East 165th st, for G. H. Hertzel. Mr. Lynch will gladly submit estimates to responsible persons.

E. J. Kehoe & Co. is the name of a new firm of brokers in the realty field, who have offices at No. 51 East 125th st, corner of Madison av. E. J. Kehoe has had considerable experience in the real estate business, having been for a period of years with several of the large brokers on the West Side. The firm will transact a general real estate business, including collection of rents and the placing of loans and insurance.

Owners and builders are advised that Eugene L. Clarkson, broker, of No. 31 Nassau st, has a large amount of money to loan at 4½ per cent., on bond and mortgage, in sums of from $20,000 to $100,000. Applications for loans on business property, East Side tenements or dwellings up to about 65 per cent. of their valuation will receive prompt attention from Mr. Clarkson, who, by the way, has for sale some downtown improved property showing good returns.

The Board of Estimate have authorized the issue of various amounts of money for the opening of streets in the Bronx. The amounts and streets are as follows: Ryer av, from Tremont av to Burnside av, $17,392.61; Longwood av, from Westchester av to Southern Boulevard, $31,772.12; Dongan st, from Westchester av to Southern Boulevard, $29,811.85; Boscobel pl, from Undercliff av to Boscobel av, $103,729.16; Ogden av, from Jerome av to Washington Bridge, $10,131.96; and public park at East 181st st, Sedgwick av and Cedar av, $111,089.90.

Material Market.

The features of the material market this week have been iron and copper, and quite a few variations in lumber prices. The accumulations of work at the mills are responsible for the rise in iron and steel prices, and these will also keep the mills employed well into next year. While railroad iron makes the bulk of this accumulated work, it follows that other products of the same metal must be sympathetically affected both in prices and prospects for delivery. In copper we seem to have a mild repetition of the celebrated Parisian pool operations that ten years ago brought down the Compte d'Escompte, and hastened the death of its founder, M. Secretan. The market stands with a big accumulation of the metal to be disposed of and prices uncertain, though unlikely to advance. The changes in lumber quotations are, as a rule, in favor of sellers, hemlock being no longer an exception to this rule. Details of the several departments of the Material Market are given below, and prices corrected to date will be found in their usual places in other portions of this issue.

Lumber.—Trade is brisk in this market, and in many lines prices are firm, with an upward tendency. Eastern spruce is very strong, there being only a normal supply and an urgent demand. In hardwoods there is a better feeling, and demand is good. There is an especially strong call for plain oak, poplar and ash, and prices are very firm. Hemlock is in urgent demand, and prices are strong, with long-length timber scarce. North Carolina pine is reported in excellent shape. Cypress continues active, with prices strong; there is a fairly good supply. White pine is strong and active.

A report from Pensacola is to the effect that all of the bay mills but one are contemplating the organization of a "Manufacturers' Protective Association," to unite the lumber producing interests so that they can deal effectively with labor questions and with trade problems. It is intimated that the manufacturers are not entirely satisfied with their relations with the merchants, who largely control the export of lumber.

Lath arrivals have been limited and, with a fair inquiry, prices have held firm.

Brick, Lime and Cement.—A fair amount of business has been transacted in the market for common hard Hudson River brick, and prices have not changed. Both Rosendale and Portland cement have continued to meet with a fair sale, and prices have remained unchanged. Arrivals of lime have been limited, and, with a fair inquiry, prices have held firm at old quotations.

Builders' Hardware.—The general outlook for this market is encouraging, and with the steel strike ended the scarcity of material is expected to be soon relieved. The demand for wire nails is not quite so pressing, and mills are making shipments more promptly. The probable difficulty of obtaining steel for some time to come is alluded to as likely to keep the wire nail market fairly steady. Small lots from store at New York are quoted at $2.50 per keg. Demand for cut nails continues good. Mills complain less of scarcity of standard sizes of nails, and are making shipments more promptly. New York quotations from store are $2.18 to $2.30 per keg.

Paints.—Business in paints is starting up again with every promise of increasing volume as the season advances. The advance in linseed oil has not been felt in the paint trade as much as might be expected, as most of the large grinders had contracted for their wants for some time to come at the low prices offered last month. Some of the smaller consumers who are compelled to buy oil now are affected, but prices are unchanged.

Linseed Oil.—There have been no new developments in linseed oil this week, the movement now being confined chiefly to deliver on contracts made during the recent period of comparatively low prices. Spot oil is still extremely scarce, but it is said that a little may be had at a concession from the quotations of the principal sellers.

Of Interest to the Building Trades.

Bruce Price's office yesterday denied the report that he is drawing plans for a building to be erected in Trafalgar sq, London, by the Canadian Pacific Ry. Co.

The Department of Buildings announce that the second series of fire tests on tile and plaster blocks and metal and plaster combined thin partitions will be conducted at the north side of East 105th st, adjoining the Harlem River, on Monday next, 30th inst., at 1 p. m.

G. L. Schuyler & Co., one of the oldest firms in the lumber trade of this city, announced their failure at the beginning of this week. The firm was founded in 1835, and was brought down by an inability to collect outstanding accounts. William J. Underwood, attorney, No. 76 William st, was appointed referee, and informed the Record and Guide's representative that there was a probability of the concern resuming in the form of a corporation.

The Building Committee of the Board of Aldermen had a public hearing Tuesday, on a proposed ordinance amending the Building Code, which was published by the Record and Guide Sept. 14th. The amendment is to section 150, and makes a violation of the code a misdemeanor and punishable by a fine of $250. Commissioner Wallace spoke in favor of the proposed ordinance. No one was present to represent the builders, against whom the ordinance is aimed, and no one spoke in opposition.

James Milligan, dealer in sand, gravel and broken stone, and excavator, has, to better accommodate his large and growing business, removed his office to No. 1267 Broadway. Mr. Milligan, besides much other business, has the contract for excavating the new Macy store block, Broadway, 34th and 35th sts, and the Sacks block, 6th av, 33d and 34th sts, both for the Geo. A. Fuller Co. He is also supplying sand and gravel for the new Astor Hotel, 5th av and 55th st, Thompson-Starrett Co., contractors; business building, Pearl and Park sts, for Walter Reid & Co.; and Dormitory block, Amsterdam av and 120th st, for the A. J. Robinson Co. Mr. Milligan's new telephone call is 2475 Madison square.

As previously announced, the National Fire-Proofing Co. has bought out several other companies in the same line, including the Raritan Hollow and Porous Brick Co., and Mr. Henry M. Keasbey of the latter concern is now vice-president and manager of the National, with offices at No. 874 Broadway. Some of the large contracts for fireproofing material now being filled by the National Fire-Proofing Co. include the new Astor Hotel, 5th av and office building, No. 68 William st, for the Thompson-Starrett Co.; addition to Mutual Life Building, on Liberty and Cedar sts; Caledonian Ins. Co.'s building, on Pine st, C. T. Wills, contractor; mercantile building, on West 19th and 20th sts, S. I. Acken & Son, contractors; Jewelers' Building, Broadway and Maiden lane; and Tontine and Maritime buildings, for the G. A. Fuller Co., contractors; Nos. 90-96 Wall st and Nos. 121-125 Water st, and large mercantile building, 5th av, southeast corner of 18th st, for C. A. Cowen & Co.

In keeping with the spirit of the times, to better manage large and growing concerns, the business of David Shuldiner, the well-known and successful contractor for furnishing and setting plate and window glass, has been transferred to the David Shuldiner Glass Co., recently incorporated under the laws of New York with a capital of $100,000, all paid up. Mr. Shuldiner is president of the company, Joe. S. Bach, vice-president, and David Emanuel, secretary and treasurer. The offices of the company continue at the old stand, No. 961 6th av. Some recent contracts in and out-of-town embrace furnishing and setting the glass for the Union Club, 5th av; apartment hotel, 63d st and Madison av; Maritime Building, Bridge and Pearl sts; Tontine, Wall and Water sts; Jewelers', Broadway and Maiden lane; Baudoine, 180 Broadway; and apartment house, Nos.13 to 19 East 48th st, all the foregoing for the Geo. A. Fuller Co. Factory covering block front on East Broadway, between Catherine st and Chatham sq, for C. W. Klappert's Sons; Caledonian Building, Pine st, for Lewis & Jones; No. 2 East 67th st, for J. L. Hamilton & Sons; Library, at East Orange, N. J., for V. J. Hedden & Son; and the Keystone Bank, Pittsburg, Pa., and Delta Building, Boston, Mass., for the Thompson-Starrett Co.

Questions and Answers.

We must remind our correspondents that we cannot answer anonymous communications. Readers must also remember that communications to us cannot invariably be answered the week they are received.

NEW LAW AS TO BROKERS.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Again referring to the new authorization law:

(1) In case of mortgages already in existence and offered for sale, what authorization, if any, is necessary, and from whom should the same be obtained?

(2) In the case of an owner holding title to various parcels, would a general authorization from such owner to a broker, empowering the broker to offer for sale until further notice, on terms, subject to the owner's approval, any parcels of realty owned by him in New York City, be sufficient; or is it necessary to get a separate authorization on each parcel?

(3) In the case of an attorney applying for a loan on behalf of his client, the owner, is it sufficient for him to sign "John Jones, owner, by James Smith, Attorney," or must he add the words "in fact?" If it should transpire in such a case that the attorney signing himself as such—omitting the words "in fact"—actually had not the authority to authorize sale or apply for a loan, on whom would the burden of responsibility fall?

(4) In Record and Guide of August 24, 1901, page 235, first column, you say "That apparently under the law each broker must personally have written authority from the owner or attorney in fact." On the same page, in the next column, replying to the question, "Can a broker, duly authorized, transfer this authority to a second broker without first obtaining the consent of the party giving the original authority?" you answer "Yes." I cannot get the two answers to harmonize. Please set me right.

Answer.—(1) No written authorization is necessary. (2) It is not necessary to get a separate authorization on each parcel. (3) It is not necessary to do more than sign his name. If by "burden of responsibility" you mean liability for the commission that would fall upon the attorney individually. (4) The answers do not conflict. In such a case the second broker would undoubtedly be held to be the employee of the first broker.—Law Editor.

COMMISSION ON PROCURING LOAN.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

In the absence of any agreement, what is the uniform charge which a mortgage loan broker can enforce for procuring a loan on New York City real estate?

Answer.—The usual rate, as I am informed, is one per cent., and not less than $40.—Law Editor.

AGENT'S COMMISSION.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

A broker has rented a house and received his commission; tenant vacates three months later. Broker rents the house again and receives a deposit; the party backs out and loses his deposit. Is broker obliged to surrender the deposit up to the owner, or can he keep same, claiming it as for services rendered; and as the owner has not rented the house, cannot claim the deposit, the house still being not rented?

Answer.—The agent should hand over the balance of the deposit to the owner, after deducting his commission.—Law Editor.

CONVEYANCES.

Whenever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing a Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed can be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no express covenants, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street and avenue numbers given in these list are, in all cases, taken from the Insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to their having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

4th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

5th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482, denote that the property is in section 2 block 482.

6th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers, the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

7th.—The letters R. S. mean Revenue Stamp, as R. S. $8.00 means Revenue Stamp $8.00.

Tax on Conveyances executed prior to July 1st, 1901, on $100 to $500, 50c., and for each additional $500 or fraction thereof, 50c.; on Conveyances executed on and after July 1st, 1901, 25c., where consideration exceeds $2,500 and is not more than $3,000, and 25c. for each additional $500 or fraction thereof.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as head lines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage is drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find Mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instruments as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

September 20, 21, 23, 24, 25 and 26.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as head lines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

Vol. LXVIII. OCTOBER 5, 1901. No. 1751.

THOUGH the Stock Market is attracting a good deal of attention by reason of its weakness, there is very little for us to say about it. It is simply in a process, still incomplete, of producing the natural results of previous events under which values were unduly inflated. Our readers were prepared for what has taken place and are also, by the previous remarks, prepared for what is still to take place. If anything shows the indifference of the public to the allurements of the bull pools, it is the coolness not to say suspicion with which the really good statement of the U. S. Steel Co. was received. The figures reflect on the securities values much higher than those now quoted, yet they declined more than they advanced. The report declared the late strike had been more blessing than hurtful to the enterprise, yet the public metaphorically expressed their sentiments by inhalations and the momentary drawings together of the eyelids. This statement is now placed alongside of that of President Ripley regarding the benefits of a crop failure to the railroads operating in the stricken section. When such statements as these are made to influence prices and, especially when they are allowed to leak out ahead of the publication of the reports themselves, they naturally arouse suspicion and encourage operations on the short side. No less suspicious is the wonderful story attaching to each issue of prominence of new developments about to transpire calculated to raise values, and equally destructive of quoted values is its circulation.

SO soon as the pending governmental loans are out, there will be more activity in the security markets of Europe, but meanwhile these markets have to hold themselves in reserve to meet the demands of their rulers. The intending borrowers include Great Britain, Germany, Russia, Denmark, Japan and others, and their offerings will inspirit the market and extend movement to other investment issues, commencing with colonials and municipals. The fact that these issues are to make the business of the financial markets in the near future, gives interest to the application that has been made to list some Frankfort-on-the-Main 3½'s on the New York Stock Exchange. We pointed out some time ago the desirability of establishing a foreign department on our exchange and are glad to see the first step taken towards it. If the national dreams of a largely increased foreign trade are realized as certainly as our expectations of increased wealth are sure to be, there are two good reasons why the home facilities for buying and selling foreign securities should be ample and easily available. The first, that surplus capital may have an enlarged field of investment and, the second, that there may be a ready market for the bonds which we must often take in payment for our goods. As it is there is a volume of British and German securities held here large enough to begin a foreign department with, and when once one is established the extension of its operations as new issues are added would be simply mechanical. However, to go back to our proper subject, the condition of business in Europe, we have still to record that there is rather more depression than improvement in the industrial situation, though the Stock Exchanges have taken on a little more cheerfulness, probably due chiefly to the expected activity in government bonds reflecting itself in other directions.

IT is to be regretted that Comptroller Coler has not received a nomination either for Mayor or Comptroller by one side or the other. He has not, indeed, been occupying a very dignified position politically during the past few months; but that should not obscure the fact that during his term of office, he has been one of the most efficient financial managers New York has ever had. The city needs more municipal politicians of the same type as Mr. Coler—men, who really make an exact and painstaking study of the needs of the city, and who are not afraid, either to expose extravagant practices or to come out with a definite and comprehensive policy of improvement. This is about the last attitude which either Tammany office holders or their opponents assume. They study the official business of the city in the newspapers, and show little indication of a first-hand knowledge of municipal affairs, or of the possession of any definite and adequate policy—beyond the adoption of a few current phrases. But Mr. Coler knew what he was about, and the city will be fortunate to get a successor who knows it as well.

Ante-New Law Tenements.

OWNERS of tenement property are gradually realizing what there is for them in the provisions of the New Tenement House Law relating to "Now-Existing Tenements;" that is, tenements that were standing when the bill went into effect on April 12th last; but the realty world generally have but a faint conception of what the enforcement of these provisions will mean to the real estate market. The owners of tenements are showing their appreciation of the situation by joining protective associations, and there may possibly grow out of this movement an organization so large and so united that the small property owner may be able to speak through it with good effect when the Legislature convenes, and, in any case, can make common cause with his fellows in the courts.

The alterations required in old tenements run all the way from a moderate amount of fireproofing to the insertion of an air-shaft which will necessitate expensive structural changes carrying away one room on each floor and thereby destroying the financial scheme on which such buildings are generally run. A special provision renders useless any bedroom not containing 600 cubic ft. of air space, and limits the number of persons using a bedroom to a divisor of the cubic air space that will produce 600 cubic ft. for each. The landlord is, most absurdly, required to see that this provision is obeyed and he is to be liable to a heavy fine or a term in jail if he fails to do so. Of course, given a strict enforcement of the law, he would for his own protection have to throw any room not up to the minimum requirements for air space into an adjoining one and thus reduce the rental value of the apartment and, further, devise some means to prevent more people than the law allows sleeping in any room, a problem for which we are utterly unable to suggest any solution whatever. In addition to facing a certain loss of rental value, the owner will have to provide additional capital to meet the expense of squaring his building with the law. This expense will run from a few hundred to five or six thousand dollars. A careful calculation has shown that the construction of the shaft with the other exactions in a six-room deep floor will cost the larger amount and in a four-room deep floor from $2,500 to $3,000. The consequent increase in capital account accompanied by loss of income must leave to many an owner no alternative but the surrender of his property to an unwilling mortgagee, because of the destruction of his equity in any case.

Such a state of affairs would be fraught with the gravest consequences to the real estate market, of which tenements form so large a part. These consequences are not fully portrayed in the case of the individual owner. That is done better by showing aggregate results. Those who are responsible for the Tenement House Law kept their eyes fixed upon Cherry Hill, while framing a law that applies to the whole of Greater New York. There are, therefore, thousands of houses in the outlying sections, where certainly light and air are plentiful enough that must be altered along with the worst rookery the Department of Health can point to. This swells the total of houses affected to enormous proportions. The exact number could only be ascertained by an actual count, but a rough calculation is that 65 per cent of the 82,000 tenements in the city, exclusive of three-family dwellings, come, more or less, within the provisions of the law. This would give a total of 53,000 to be altered at expenditures anywhere within the range previously given. The average per house is placed variously at $1,000, $2,000 or $3,000, or a total new capital to be provided on 65 per cent of the tenement property of the city in the course of six months or so of from $53,000,000 to $159,000,000, and this in the face of a materially reduced rental value. Whatever amount we take as a base for our calculation, the resulting lowest sum total runs into eight figures, and the question naturally arises, where is all this money to come from? Have the owners so much loose cash, or would the market supply it? We think not in each case, and that much of the property itself—a great deal too much for its good—would have to come onto the market.

It is no wonder then that property owners feel themselves justified—nay, absolutely compelled to unite to contest these fanatical and confiscatory provisions of the law in the courts and for a common demand on the Legislature for their repeal. An attempt has been made to show that an appeal to the courts would be futile, in support of which the well-known decision, given in the case of the Board of Health against Trinity Corporation, is quoted. In that case, while the decision of the Court of Appeals gave a wider scope to the police powers of the state than had been known before, the disputed requirement involved only moderate expense; and even in that case, if we remember rightly, the court held that the police powers of the state must be reasonably exercised, a view which Justice O'Gorman recently endorsed with the addition that they must not be confiscatory. If provisions of law that destroy the direct pecuniary interest an owner of a tenement possesses, under a conservative method of business by which property of that class is ordinarily carried, are not confiscatory it will be difficult to say what are. So far as the decisions of the courts go in the protection of property and equitable rights tenement-owners have every encouragement to appeal to the judiciary for relief, whenever it is sought to enforce these obnoxious provisions of the New Tenement Law.

The suggestion is made, too, that owners should be wholly or partly compensated by the city for the alterations they make in the interest of the public health. This suggestion at another time would deserve consideration, but at the moment it is hardly pertinent. It is doubtful if the city could now issue the necessary bonds and keep within its debt limit. But more than all, the owners are face to face with concrete law—unjust and confiscatory and to meet that is their present task.

WITHOUT a doubt the most effective protest which the inhabitants of the Bronx and Westchester county can make against the service which they receive from the New Haven Railway Company is to support such schemes as the proposed four-track electric line from 132d st and the East River to Portchester. It is significant that the opponents of the new road in the hearing before the State Railroad Commission were all of them companies at present operating transit routes north of the Harlem River, and that its supporters were chiefly property owners or residents of the Bronx and Westchester county. The project also received strong backing from the chief engineer and contractor of the Subway, a fact that is most important, not only in giving assurance that the new line has sufficient capital behind it, but also in promising that it will be operated practically as part of the subway system. The plans of the new company are singularly complete and satisfactory. They include four tracks, built on private property, and without grade crossings; an express as well as a local service; and quick connection with lower Manhattan by means of the Subway. It would give the territory immediately in the neighborhood of the road a transit service incomparably superior to anything which it now has, and would be a most powerful agent in accelerating the improvement of the Bronx and Westchester county. Furthermore, it would do more than any amount of protest and supplication to persuade the New Haven road to improve its service—which means at bottom to transform the tunnel and increase the terminal facilities at the Grand Central Station. The new line would afford just the kind of competition which is needed to awaken the New Haven company to some sense of responsibility to its local patrons. For years past it has failed to appreciate how essentially and vitally the building up of the Bronx as an integral part of New York City depended upon the offering of a service, which instead of barely satisfying the most pressing needs of the commuters, actually encouraged the settlement of new families. It will be a fortunate thing for this region if in the future it will not have to depend on the New Haven road alone, but will have several alternative methods of getting to and from Manhattan.

WE think it due to ourselves to recall the fact that when the Tenement House bill was introduced into the Legislature last spring, we estimated the cost of the then proposed tenement house department at $476,700. The accuracy of that estimate was questioned by the advocates of the bill, who claimed that the expense would not be half that amount. According to the daily papers the gentlemen who formed the now defunct Tenement House Commission, the framers of the new law, are asking the Board of Estimate to appropriate $500,000 for the new department that is to come into existence January 1st. We refrain from comment.

The Lowest Common Denominator in Office Building Design.

WITHIN the last year or two a great many additions have been made to the list of sky-scrapers in New York City. Compared with their immediate predecessors, the newer buildings are not remarkable for greater height or for greater dimensions of any sort, or for marked differences of plan, material or construction. At the same time, could they be grouped together and compared with structures of the same class put up, say, five or ten years ago, even the uninitiated would find very little difficulty in assigning the group to a specific date and set of conditions. This impression, upon analysis, would be found to be based upon a difference or rather a difference in the degree of architectural treatment.

Almost everyone who has even cursorily studied the streets of the city carries in his mind's eye a general idea of the successive attempts that have been made by architects to solve the problems involved in the architectural treatment of the facade of the sky-scraper. At first the result was obviously tentative, despite marked cleverness in matters of detail. There is an element of indecision and even formlessness in the design of those survivals of the primeval days of the sky-scraper, such as the Tribune Building, the Western Union Building, the Boreel Building, the D. & H. Canal Co.'s Building, the Potter Building, the Dakota and the London, Liverpool & Globe Building. Clearly in all these structures the designers were confused by their problem and were striving to alight upon some guiding principle of design. Organically considered, they had to deal with a number of floors practically of equal consideration, equal in dimensions, equal in proportions. Working rationally there was nothing to do but confess this fact plainly, pile story upon story, and trust to the force of repetition and to the value of detail for such a measure of artistic success as could be obtained from such a commonplace problem. On the other hand, it was open to the designer to cast rationalistic considerations to the wind and group his stories vertically and horizontally, in whatever way his fancy dictated. In the Tribune Building, for instance, one may see the two principles exemplified. We do not know of a single building in which the architect had the courage, in dealing with the sky-scraper, to stick rigorously to his facts. In the old Morse Building the architects showed that they had an eye for truth, and they came very near to a success. The Mills Building also gives us very nearly the same result. But for the most part our architects "went in" for a large measure of "architecture," pure and simple, and ignored the facts of building with a free and easy conscience, troubled only by the imperative requirements of owners and tenants.

So it came to pass that we have office buildings with bull's-eye windows, mezzanine floors, arched openings that greatly reduce light, balconies whereon no tenant has time to air himself, columned entrances that interfere with ingress and egress, huge cornices and string-courses, attic floors, dormer windows, functionless towers and acres of sculpture, the maintenance of which costs from four to five per cent annually throughout the life of the building.

We do not mean to say that all these embellishments are absolutely undesirable or as decorating an office building they have not in some degree even a commercial value. We wish simply to point out that these features strongly mark office-buildings erected, let us say, during the "eighties" and "nineties." However, everyone will agree that it is an exceedingly easy matter to carry this purely decorative treatment beyond a reasonable point. That it was overdone in a very great many cases no one is likely to deny, although curiously one is compelled to admit that in the most notable examples—the buildings erected by life insurance companies and other similar institutions—there was most commercial justification for over-elaboration of design, no matter how ornate. Buildings erected by these corporations were intended for advertisement as well as investment, and the architect might feel it was almost incumbent on him to express in his design a certain financial exuberance, and thus not only gratify the pride of a bloated corporation, but by means of a free use of columns, festoons, broken pediments and other such articles from the old classical baggage preach the gospel of insurance to passers-by and fortify the courage of the insured and their beneficiaries. But for the ordinary commercial building,

"Something there is more needful than expense,
"And something previous even to taste—'tis sense."

That is what owners have been finding out, and our later buildings as a consequence are very much more satisfactory to the serious student of architecture. In the latest phase office building design has been reduced artistically almost to what we may term its lowest common denominator. In buildings such as the Broad-Exchange, the Atlantic Mutual, the American Exchange Bank, the Chesborough, the Battery Park, we have little more than so many huge piles of stories. All that remains of the former attempts at grouping are simply our string courses, marking off the building into three parts—basement, central portion and upper or cornice section. The column with its plinth, shaft and capital becomes in this way the type of design. On these new buildings there is very little sculpture. What there is, is usually placed in the upper stories. No entablatures, no broken pediments. The walls are kept flat and as thin as the law permits and even the entrance is rarely accentuated by more than a pair of columns. The whole thing is plainly utilitarian, yet done on a huge scale, as in so many recent operations, the result is really more impressive than were the older buildings overloaded as they were with "architecture."

The architect himself has probably contributed somewhat to bringing about this result, but much more has resulted from the substitution of the building company or the real estate corporation for the individual owner. As we have frequently shown already in these columns, many of our recent sky-scrapers have been financed if not constructed by these corporations. Capital and experience are devoted with scientific precision to the one purpose of making dividends out of buildings. Indeed, in a very recent case (even in a prominent case, too,) the building enterprise was found to be financailly impracticable until it was taken in hand by one of these big construction companies. They were able to show the way to dividends. The result is apparently a great success, and this was made possible largely by a rigorous exclusion of everything that did not directly make for rent. Architectually, the building is a structure of monumental simplicity. Solidity, comfort, space are abundantly provided, but neither on the exterior nor in the interior is there much of that architectural sumptuousness that characterized earlier buildings. We have apparently developed a type which in future will be adhered to closely.

Ante-New Law Tenements.

THE CASE OF THE OWNER OF THE PARTIALLY CONFISCATED BUILDINGS.

Charles Buek, speaking to a representative of the Record and Guide about the New Tenement Law, prophesied that the law would intensify the evil it was intended to cure. "Those who will suffer from it most," he said, "will be the poorest people, those who can only pay from $5 to $9 or $10 a month for rent and for whom no accommodations are now being provided. In Brooklyn, for instance, there were some three-story houses occupied by a family on each floor, mostly of frame construction, not many in one particular place—they were not built in masses—they were sanitary comfortable and cheap, yet owing to this law not one of them can be built now. The object of the law ought to have been to make it easy for poorer people to live on the outskirts of the city, whereas it actually puts obstacles in the way of their doing so.

"A tenement-house commission ought to have had nothing whatever to do with the great majority of what are called tenements. Out of the 86,000 tenements in this city, there are, perhaps only a thousand that are proper subjects for the attention of such a commission. These are very old houses which require overhauling. Even in those cases, the city ought to bear some part of the expense of remodelling. The owners are almost invariably people of small means, who bought innocently and have carried on the houses honestly, and it is simply ridiculous that the law should force them into philanthropy toward their tenants."

Writing to a contemporary on the same subject, Mr. Buek says:

The builders are not suffering and not particularly interested. They can take care of themselves, and are not obliged to venture their capital in enterprises that the law has made unprofitable and semi-criminal. It is the owners of existing tenements and apartments, many themselves poor, with their all invested in this property, struggling to get a little income out of it, on whom this law falls most heavily. There are thousands such, who between the constantly increasing demands of the tax-gatherer and other exactions, under color of law, can hardly now show a dollar of clear income, and to whom enforcement of this law means confiscation and beggary. I have in mind the case of a lady relative, the widow of a man not many years ago prominent in financial and political circles, the vice-president of one of our largest life insurance companies, part of whose scanty fortune is invested in an apartment house. It was built before it had been discovered that the overcrowding of tenements on the lower East Side could not be remedied without tearing out apartment houses on the upper West Side, and while constructed in full conformity with the laws as they existed at the time, and an extra wide and light house, and although she has only recently spent a considerable sum in modernizing it, does not comply with the requirements of this new law, and cannot be made to without entire rebuilding. The tenants occupying it are contented and happy; some have been there eight years, but they will have to be turned out and the house gutted.

I could show you some apartment houses built by myself some years ago, and no more like the real downright tenements with which this commission was appointed to deal than marble is like decayed cheese. They are occupied by bankers, business and professional men, of means and standing, and yet, because the servants' bedrooms lack some feet of the size prescribed for the crowded bedrooms of tenement houses, the owner will presently have to notify the tenants not to use them, and if they insist, will be liable himself to fine and imprisonment, unless the courts come to his relief.

The movement to oppose the execution of the provisions of the Tenement House Law of this year is gathering force and strength. In the past week several local meetings have been held at which the movement was enthusiastically endorsed. Last evening the Taxpayers' Association of the 10th and 11th and 17th Wards, one of the oldest in the city, they having been chartered in 1871 or 1872, took action. Two new associations have been formed under the necessity for united action against the law, the 18th Ward Property Owners' Association, of which John Uhl is president, and whose headquarters are at No. 417 East 15th st; and the 7th Ward Property-Owners' Association, both of which have appointed delegates to the central body, the United Real Estate Owners' Association.

D. Y. Swainson followed the foregoing with the following: "I have just finished writing to Mr. Charles Buek, commending his letter of September 24th, to your paper, regarding the Building Law. I am like Mr. Buek in thinking that a strict enforcement of this law will bear very hard upon a large number of thrifty and good citizens, who are owners of tenement houses, some of them being comparatively poor, owning, perhaps, but one house, a part of which they make their home and renting the balance."

To Deve op the Bronx.

The appearance of John B. McDonald before the State Railroad Commission, backed by a very large realty interest, in support of the application of the New York and Portchester R. R. Co. for permission to build a 4-track electric railroad from 132d st to the Connecticut State line, and his statement that he was willing to take a contract to build the road; also that it would make a good supplement and feeder to the Rapid Transit railroad he is now building, gave the project an importance it had not hitherto had and increased the prospects for favorable action by the Commission on the petition. William C. Gottshall, engineer of the road, said stations, local and express, had been laid down on the map of the proposed railway as follows:

Express—132d st and Willis av, 149th st, Bronx Park, Bronx and Pelham Parkway, Fulton av, Mount Vernon; North st, New Rochelle; Chatsworthy av, Larchmont; Delancey av, Mamaroneck; Taylor's lane, near Rye; Rye Beach road, Rye; Grace Church st, Rye.

Local—Hunt's road, Bear Swamp, Corsair lane and Boston Post road, New York city; 5th av, Mount Vernon; Wolf's lane, Pelham; Webster av, New Rochelle; Weaver st, Larchmont; Boston Post road, Rye.

At Portchester local and express trains will run into a common terminus at King st.

Further, Mr. Gottschall said he had come from Portchester to the Harlem River over existing trolley lines, and that it had taken him from two hours and fifty minutes to three hours and twenty minutes. The new road, by having four tracks, would do away with delays, and shorten the best time between Portchester and the City Hall by at least fifteen minutes. Throughout the twenty-four hours 74 express trains and 124 local trains would be run, making a total of 198 trains per diem. The time for express trains would be thirty-one minutes between Portchester and the terminal in this city. The local trains would cover the distance in forty-nine minutes.

Riverside Drive Extension and Values.

Speaking of the probable results on constructing the extension of the Riverside Drive to the Boulevard Lafayette, David Stewart said this week: "It will be the means of improving all the streets contingent to the new addition to Riverside Drive, with the exception of streets from 149th to 152d street, as the park will slope downward at this point, leaving those streets high up, and the only way they could connect with the park would be by means of stairways the same as at 99th street and Riverside Drive. The value of lots in all other streets will double in value."

Wm. D. Morgan expressed the opinion that lots in the side streets from 135th to 158th street, west of Broadway, which are now being offered at about $4,500 each, will, upon the completion of the extension of Riverside Drive, sell for from $8,000 to $10,000 apiece.

Long Island Underground Stations.

In the petition of the Long Island Extension Railroad Co., submitted to the Rapid Transit Commission last week, it is stated that there will be a station at 4th av and 33d st, another at Broadway, between 33d and 34th sts, where the petition states the company have already acquired land for that purpose, and another at 45th st and 7th av.

ATLANTIC MUTUAL BUILDING.

Cor. Wall and William Sts., New York. Clinton & Russell, Architects.

The Late Otto Pullich.

Otto Pullich's melancholy death this week was a matter of as much sorrow as surprise wherever he was known. He was in the realty business of this city as far back as 1885, when he was the head of Pullich & Deaken, of No. 132 Nassau st. Gradually he worked uptown until he got to No. 179 Columbus av, where he made a specialty of West Side property, and was for a number of years successful. Of late the effects of unsuccessful litigation and the stress of competition proved too much for him, mentally as well as financially, and the tragedy of this week was the outcome. He was a hard worker and a most amiable man, and there are none who knew him who do not deplore his fate.

The St. Cloud Hotel Site.

The negotiations for the new 18-sty hotel to be erected on the St. Cloud site at the southeast corner of Broadway and 42d st, and which it was reported some time since had been abandoned, are now nearing completion. J. E. & A. L. Pennock, of Philadelphia, will erect the building. They lease the ground from John Jacob Astor for twenty-one years with privileges of two renewals each for a similar period. Bruce Price, No. 1133 Broadway, is the architect for the proposed new building, which will front 100 feet on Broadway, 175 feet on 42d st, with an "L" extending to 41st st.

Lexington Avenue Armory.

Plans were filed this week with the Building Department for the new armory for the Sixty-ninth Regiment. The building will occupy the entire westerly block front on Lexington av, from 25th to 26th st, with a depth of 335 feet on each street. In the basement will be a rifle range and plunge bath; the first floor will be devoted to the library, drill room, 188.10x262, board rooms, quartermaster's and armorers's rooms. On the 2d floor will be a company room and staff officers' rooms. The 3d floor will contain kitchen, store-rooms, gymnasium, etc. The building is estimated to cost $450,000, and estimates will be called for in about three months. Horgan & Slattery, No. 1 Madison av, are the architects.

Why This Delay?

When the contract for tearing down the Stewart mansion was let the conditions imposed upon the contractor were that it was to be removed in sixty days, the evident intention being to improve it at once. This was last December, and although it is announced that the Knickerbocker Trust Co. will improve the corner, 50x100, nothing has been done and a sign announces that the balance of the plot is for sale. What is causing the delay?

Progress Club's New Location.

Park av, northwest corner of 58th st, plot 50.5x100. The Progress Club, which had an option on this site, decided on Thursday not to take the property, thereby forfeiting $2,000. It was intended to erect a club house on the site, to take the place of the building at the north corner of 5th av and 63d st, recently sold to J. B. Hagin for $735,000. The club paid $235,000 for the plot in 1887, the estimated cost of the building being $400,000, or a total of $635,000. Peter Herter is now erecting four 8-sty flats adjoining this property on 58th st; he also owns the two lots on Park av adjoining the corner just purchased by the club on which he is also erecting an 8-sty apartment house. These eight lots together with an abutting lot on 59th st were purchased from the estate of Wallace C. Andrews for a price as indicated by the revenue stamps on the deed of $266,400 and resold to Mr. Herter with a building loan for $350,000. Dr. Rice was asking $85,000 for his corner.

Appropriate Additions to a Fashionable Residence Section

Charles Buek has begun the work of improving his purchase on the site of the recently removed Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, on East 53d st, near Madison av, by the erection of the two large handsome private dwellings, whose facades are reproduced below.

The location is especially suited to treatment by the builder of high-class city residences, being within a limited and selected number of blocks that are benefiting by the increased demand for aristocratic residences and of which the famous Vanderbilt houses and St. Patrick's Cathedral form the centre. Within this area a good many millions of dollars have been invested in the past two or three years in dwelling construction. This has been both professional and unprofessional—that is, by private owners for their own use; but in all cases it has been of a very high class and where done for the market there has been an eager response on the part of buyers.

The two houses shown above are to be built to meet this demand that has arisen in New York City as a consequence of the growth of large fortunes—that is, for a ready-built house of large proportions and complete in all details—artistically designed inside and out, yet practically unexceptionable. These conditions are met by Mr. Buek's plans, of which the main features are given below, but it may be as well to state, prefatorily, that a guiding principle of their practical details is that everything belonging to the house and its running must be contained in the five stories, it is all above ground and below roof. The cellar is all cellar, the roof all roof; consequently the maids will not have to go into the former to do any part of their work, nor onto the latter to sleep.

Nos. 18 and 20 East 53d st, will be the designations of these houses when built. The first will have a front of 40 feet, constructed of limestone, with ornamental granite finish, and the second one of 39.6 of limestone and pressed brick, with granite ornamentation. Floors are of fireproof construction, which while affording protection against fire, secures stability by preventing shrinkage. In their general features, construction, layout of floors and the concomitant working fixtures, the two houses are alike, but in the artistic details and finish many interesting variations are designed. In this regard special mention may be made of the halls, though not merely to indicate a desire to produce variety, but more to point to their artistic and novel treatment. In those of No. 18 a novel and attractive Colonial effect will be produced, which will be carried to the musicians' gallery and foyer on the first floor, and must prove very attractive. In No. 20 the hall will be elliptical in form, and carry a staircase in ivory-white enamel, trimmed with mahogany and bronze handrail running from the basement to the top story, and will be equally pleasing.

In each of these houses the ground floor will be divided off into a handsome reception hall, billiard room, servants' hall, laundry, kitchen, serving room, and other offices. The first floor will contain drawing-room, library, dining-room, great foyer hall, breakfast or smoking room and the usual pantry additions. The two floors above will consist of four bedrooms with bathrooms and dressing salons. On the fifth floor will be two family sleeping rooms, linen and cedar closets and enclosed servants' quarters. The provisions for the servants are the result of a careful study of the requirements of the case. Not only is everything they need for their work and comfort, as before stated, found between ground level and roof, but a rear staircase will run from cellar to roof giving access to their quarters, communicating with each floor by the way. To remove danger from fire, this staircase is to be built of iron and marble and the walls lined with glazed brick. The servants' quarters themselves contain seven rooms, besides bath and toilet, or accommodations for quite a handsome domestic retinue.

It goes without saying that the treatment of the ornamental features is artistic, original, of the best in quality as to materials, and their abundance that of the highest type of modern city mansion; hardwoods, with enamel and natural finishes, art-glass and metal will be the basic materials of their creation. Besides the details of sanitary plumbing and others that go without saying each house will contain an automatic electric elevator, a fact that, though stated in a few words, stamps the character of this enterprise as up to the best professional standards.

As the superstructures are not yet begun, work being yet in the foundations, a buyer would have the best of opportunities for economically obtaining changes in the plans to meet his individual wishes, and the owner has them open for inspection and is ready to treat with would-be purchasers at his office, No. 109 West 42d st.

The Power of Arrest.

ATTEMPT TO REVIVE AN OBNOXIOUS PROVISION OF BUILDING LAW.

Owners and builders are at last becoming aware of the offensive and serious nature of an amendment to the Building Code, asked for by the Department of Buildings, and which was approved by the Board of Aldermen on Tuesday last, and only escaped similar approval in the Council through the vigilance of Councilman Christman. As it was, the vote resulted in a tie. This amendment is intended to give the Department power of arrest for violations of the Code, a power that was taken from the Department in 1880 and never since revived until this year when the Tenement House Law was passed. To bring this about the following addition to Section 150 of the Code is proposed, and it was on this the two chambers of the municipal assembly voted on Tuesday:

In addition to the other penalties in this code prescribed the owner or owners of any building, structure or part thereof, or wall, billboard, sign or device in the nature of an advertisement, announcement or direction, or any platform, staging or flooring to be used for standing or seating purposes, where any violation of this code shall be committed, placed, or shall exist, and any architect, builder, plumber, carpenter or mason, who may be employed or assist in the commission of any such violation, and any and all persons who shall violate any of the provisions of this code or fail to comply therewith, or any requirement thereof, or who shall violate or fail to comply with any notice, order or regulation made thereunder, or who shall build in violation of any detailed statement of specifications or plans submitted and approved thereunder, or of any certificate or permit issued thereunder, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of not more than two hundred and fifty dollars for each offense, or by imprisonment for not more than three months, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

The following is the official minute of the proceedings on this amendment in the Board of Aldermen:

At this point President James G. Wallace, of the Board of Buildings, was accorded the courtesies of the floor, and addressed the members of the Board, urging favorable consideration of the foregoing ordinance.

The Vice-President (John T. McCall) moved that the foregoing ordinance be amended by striking out the words "plumber, carpenter or mason" following the word "architect," and inserting the word "or" between the words "architect, builder."

The President pro tem. put the question whether the Board would agree with said motion.

Which was decided in the affirmative.

Alderman Wafer then moved that the report and ordinance be recommitted to the Committee on Buildings, with instructions to hold a public hearing thereon.

The President pro tem. put the question whether the Board would agree with said motion.

Which was decided in the negative.

The President pro tem. then put the question whether the Board would agree with said report and adopt said ordinance as amended.

Which was decided in the affirmative by the following vote:

Affirmative—Aldermen Bridges, Byrne, Cardani, Cronin, Culkin, Dowling, Fleck, Flinn, Gaffney, Gass, Geiger, Geiser, Gledhill, Holmes, Kennedy, Ledwith, Marks, McCaul, McEneaney, McGrath, McMahon, Metzger, Muh, Neufeld, Otten, Porges, Rottmann, Twomey, Vaughan, Wacker, Welling, Wentz, Wolf, and the Vice-President—34.

Negative—Aldermen Diemer, Downing, McInnes, and Wafer—4.

Excused—Aldermen Goodman, Holler, Mathews, Oatman, and Wirth 5.

A concurrent resolution was immediately asked for in the Council and the official record of their action thereon is this:

The Chairman pro tem. put the question whether the Council would agree to adopt said ordinance.

Which was decided in the negative by the following vote:

Affirmative—The Vice-Chairman (John T. Oakley), Councilmen Foley, Goodwin, Hart, Murphy, O'Grady, Owens, Ryder, Wise, and the President—10.

Negative—Councilmen Bodine, Christman, Conly, Doyle, Francisco, Hottenroth, Leich, Mundorf, Murray, and Williams—10.

The Vice-Chairman moved a reconsideration of the vote by which the above ordinance was lost. Which was adopted.

The Vice-Chairman then moved that this ordinance be placed on the list of special orders.

Councilman Doyle moved as an amendment that the matter be referred to the Committee on Law Department.

Which was decided in the negative.

The Vice-Chairman then renewed his motion to place the matter on the list of special orders. Which was adopted.

Trade associations and property owners are about to organize to resist the passage of this ordinance, and it may be stated that should it go through the Assembly the Mayor will be asked to give a hearing upon it before signing, which, if accorded, will be largely attended and the whole question fully discussed.

A hearing by the Council Committee on Law Department is announced for Friday next, 11th inst., at 2 p. m., in the City Hall.

The Builders' League took the matter up on Thursday evening at a fully attended meeting, presided over by John P. Leo, President, and the following was drafted and adopted:

To the President and Members of the Council, New York City:

Gentlemen—At a regular meeting of this League held in its quarters on the evening of the 3d inst., the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, There is now before the Municipal Council for action a proposed amendment (Board of Aldermen, No. 3296; Council, No. 1411) to the Building Code, which provides that in addition to the penalties already prescribed for violations of the Code, there shall be added an additional penalty making it a misdemeanor to violate any of its provisions, thus rendering the accused individual liable, not alone to a fine of two hundred and fifty dollars, but also to imprisonment for three months; and

Whereas, The proposed amendment would be a restoration of a similar section in the former building law, which (owing to its unjust provisions, and in light of the fact that the provision was used for blackmail and oppression) was stricken from the law; therefore be it

Resolved, That we protest against the adoption of this amendment as unfair, unjust and unnecessary; and be it further

Resolved, That our protest be sent, not alone to the Council as a body, but in addition to the individual members of the body, and that a committee of seven members be appointed to present our protest and take the necessary steps to fully explain our objections, and secure, if possible, the defeat of the amendment.

On motion the following committee was appointed: Messrs. Thomas J. Crombie, Frank E. Wise, Judson Lawson, Clarence True, Richard Deeves, Lewis Harding and Jonas A. Rossman.

We would therefore ask in our own behalf and on behalf of the others affected by the proposed amendment that we may be heard before action is taken by your honorable body.

Legal Decisions.

Conditional sale of mantels—rights as between vendor and mortgagees of premises in which the mantels were put—bona fides and notice—L. 1897, ch. 418, sections 112, 113—replevin. Where a vendor of cabinet mantels, sold upon condition that the title shall not pass until full payment, files the conditional contract of sale in the manner required by law, his reservation of ownership is effectual from the day of filing against all subsequent purchasers, pledgees or mortgagees in good faith. Where the mantels have been placed in premises of the conditional vendee which he had mortgaged before the conditional sale and delivery, the mortgagees cannot hold the mantels as against the conditional vendor unless they show that they have made advances thereon between the date of the conditional sale and the filing of the conditional contract of sale, and further, that the advances were made in ignorance of the continuing title of the conditional vendor. (Nichols v. Potts. Misc. 35, 273.)

Mechanic's Lien.—A vendor held an owner within the meaning of the mechanic's lien law; possession given to vendee for express purpose of putting up buildings. Held that consent of owner was shown so as to effectuate liens. One Dexter entered into a contract with the Catholic University of America for the purchase of certain lots of land on Riverside Drive. The contract contained the following provision: "It is further understood and agreed that the vendee shall have the right of immediate possession to the property hereinbefore mentioned and described for the purpose of erecting buildings thereon." Dexter took possession of the land, and before he received his deed he erected thereon a building valued at about $15,000, and paid the Catholic University of America $1,800 of the purchase price. In December, 1897, Dexter defaulted in payment, and his right to the property under the contract ceased and the university took possession. Louis Beck, Mackey & Smith and the architect, Hamilton, filed mechanics' liens, and this action was brought to foreclose these liens. The Catholic University of America defended upon the ground that under the contract between the university and Dexter the former had no such interest in the premises as could be subject to a lien. The trial court held this contention to be untenable, and rendered judgment against the university, which judgment, upon appeal, was affirmed.—(Beck vs. the Catholic University of America, New York Law Journal, August 12, 1901.)

The Real Estate Market

Review of the Week.

It is beginning to be apparent that the conditions which dominated the real estate market during the second half of last spring will probably continue to prevail during the coming winter. The area of activity has been determined partly by the fact that apartment house building has been overdone to the west and north of the Park, and partly by the fact that the activity caused by the new tenement house law has temporarily done away with the desirability of purchasing East Side properties for improvement. Thus, for the past six months the two more important centers of speculative trading have been dull, because of the lack of demand for building sites. On the other hand, real estate appropriate for the building of expensive private dwellings and apartment hotels has been much in demand, while at the same time an unusually large number of tall office and loft buildings have been planned for the district between 23d and 14th sts, and for that south of Maiden lane. Finally, much speculative trading has been taking place on Washington Heights and in the Bronx, in anticipation of the coming improvement in long-distance transit. In all these sections, except, perhaps, that south of Maiden lane, the same activity or inactivity will probably continue. It will take the West Side another year to recover from past over-building; and very certainly not many new tenement houses will be needed during the same time. Speculation on Washington Heights and in the Bronx is likely to increase rather than diminish. The end of the building of high-grade dwellings and monster apartment hotels is not yet in sight, and the current business prosperity will accelerate the erection of loft buildings in the middle district. It is improbable, however, that very many sky-scrapers will be planned for the coming year. There are now ten of these buildings, eighteen or more stories high, in the course of erection, or about to be erected south of Maiden lane; and with all these offices hanging over the market of next spring, both financial institutions and speculative builders are likely to be cautious about undertaking new work of the same character. One or two improvements of this class, such as the Boreel Building, have already been planned and will assuredly go through, but apart from these, there is likely to be a temporary lull in the construction of sky-scrapers.

If the sales during the past week have not been individually interesting and important, they have at least been numerous and well-distributed throughout the city. A fair proportion of flats have changed hands, the transactions for the most part being speculative. More important, however, is the comparatively large number of private dwellings which have found purchasers. During the past week the sales of many such buildings have been announced, situated not only as usual along the line of 5th av, but all over the upper part of the city. And this demand for private dwellings follows, it must be remembered, a similar demand last spring. There is a fair inquiry for well-situated residences more or less all over the city; and this fact will undoubtedly have an important bearing upon building during the next few years. At the present time there are practically no really cheap residences being erected in Manhattan for the simple but sufficient reason that land is in every available section, except Washington Heights, too expensive for the erection of cheap dwellings. The price of the ordinary residence on the West Side rose gradually from $10,000 or $15,000 to $25,000 or $30,000; and at the present time there are very few such dwellings going up even at the latter figure. Undoubtedly an ever larger proportion of people who formerly lived in dwellings are now living in apartments, yet, nevertheless, a certain demand for private houses continues, and will increase just in proportion as the price of the average speculative residence can be decreased. This demand, such as it is, will unquestionably lead to the erection of a larger number of cheaper private houses than have been customary of late—not on the West Side, for the prices of property thereabouts is adapted to 7-sty elevator apartment houses, but on Washington Heights and in the Bronx.

Considering that at times it has seemed as if but very expensive dwellings were to be superseded on Manhattan, it is reassuring to be reminded, as the existing demand is a reminder, that under more favorable conditions the erection of small residences will resume something like its old popularity. For small residences are not only a good thing for people who occupy them, but they are a good thing for the builder and the broker. The builder of small residences has a surer market, and a better likelihood of cash returns than the builder of apartment houses and tenements, and the broker, of course, has more to do in a dwelling-house district than in a district of flats. The New York real estate and building market will be in a much more wholesome condition when the Subway permits and encourages a return to the speculative construction of inexpensive dwellings.

Board of Estimate and Apportionment will hear taxpayers on the Budget for 1902 in the Mayor's Office, City Hall, on Friday next at 11 a. m.

W. H. Jacob, well and favorably known in realty and building circles, has joined the ranks of the realty workers, and opened offices at No. 49 Liberty st. The sale of real estate and placing of mortgage loans will be specialties with Mr. Jacob.

New East River Bridge Commission give notice that No. 245 Delancey st, No. 41 Sheriff st, No. 37 Sheriff st and portions of No. 37 Columbia st, and buildings in the rear on line of bridge approach will be sold on Friday next. Peter F. Meyer is the auctioneer.

The City Real Property Investing Co. paid $121,500 for No. 35 East 39th st, extending to No. 36 East 40th st, a lot 25x197.6.

Bonds to the amount of $200,000 have been authorized for Park av improvements above 106th st, and for $241,922 for the Broome st school.

B. Smyth & Sons, of No. 35 Nassau st, have for sale many desirable plots of lots on both the east and west sides of town. They also have a number of good houses for sale cheap. Messrs. Smyth are active, experienced and reliable workers. Their telephone call is 3524 Cortlandt.

The firm of McCreedy & Newman, real estate brokers, with offices at Columbus av and 88th st, has been dissolved by mutual consent, Mr. Newman retiring. The business will be continued by Gordon S. McCreedy & Co., and the care and economical management of high-class apartments will be their specialty.

The plot of four lots on 114th st, near Riverside Drive, recently purchased by Janpole & Werner, will be sold with a loan as the site of a first-class apartment house. These lots are the only unrestricted ones in the block. The firm of operators named are ready to purchase well-located lots suitable for improvement with apartment houses.

R. S. Guernsey continues his papers on "The Utilitarian Principles of Taxation and Their Relation to Altruism" in the October "Sanitarian," wherein he talks of taxation of water. He shows that the saying "as free as water" has no application here, and that as a result of our system in practice water is a costly luxury when used in quantities sufficient for health.

H. P. Young and Charles Gahren, both well-known real estate brokers on the West Side, having had offices on Columbus av, near 93d st, have formed a partnership under the firm name of Young & Gahren, and will conduct a general real estate business at Mr. Gahren's office, 664 Columbus av, where they will be glad to welcome their friends and clients.

Mr. F. De R. Wissman, believing that there is a demand for high-class English basement dwellings, has undertaken the erection of two of the finest type, at Nos. 9 and 11 East 84th st, almost adjoining the residence of the late J. Hooker Hammersley. Warren & Wetmore, the well-known architects, have been entrusted with the duty of designing these houses, and the result will undoubtedly appeal to that class of people who appreciate well-planned residences suitable for entertaining.

The northeast corner of Broadway and 45th st, three dwellings fronting 75.3 on Broadway and 60 feet on 45th st, are an interesting instance of the faith of owners in the value of real estate in that locality. These houses were mortgaged in June for $180,000 at 4½ per cent, making a carrying charge of $8,100 per year plus taxes. The total income is said to be $3,600 per year, leaving a deficit of something over $5,000 per year which the owner, Anna Schiele undoubtedly expects to make up on a sale.

The Metropolitan Street Railway, Thursday, opened a new route by means of which the journey between the upper West Side and the shopping district, 6th av, south of 23d st, is shortened by about twelve minutes, and incidentally began the use of electricity on a portion of the 7th av road, between 44th and 23d sts. The new route begins at 106th st and Amsterdam av, thence via Amsterdam av to 72d st, thence via Broadway to 44th st, thence via 7th av to 23d st, through 23d st to 6th av, thence via 6th av to 4th st.

Articles incorporating the Manhattan Terrace Improvement Co., of Brooklyn, were filed on 20th inst. at Albany, with the Secretary of State. The company proposes to deal in real estate and to do a general contracting business. The capital stock is $200,000, divided into shares of $100 each. The directors for the first year are George F. Haight and Albert H. Bartlet of New York, and Joseph A. Douglas of Brooklyn. George F. Haight is manager of the Eastern Stone Co., at No. 220 Broadway, Manhattan. His associates are general contractors. The operations of the Manhattan Terrace Improvement Co. will be of a general contracting character, and not confined to one particular location.

Gilbert D. Maxwell has assumed charge of the Agency Department of the Maintenance Co., and is interesting real estate and insurance agents to write business for the company, which, by the way, for a given sum yearly, makes all necessary repairs to electrical machines for owners, estates and agents. The Maintenance Co.'s business, judging by the increasing number of their signs seen in office buildings and apartment houses, is very satisfactory. This can be readily understood when it is known that a very prominent apartment house agent, after a long test of the company's work, placed contracts with them for their services in all such houses in his charge. The Maintenance Co.'s offices are at 220 Broadway, St. Paul Building. Telephone, 4180 Cortlandt.

Material Market.

The week has seen few changes in prices, and the development of no new feature of importance. If there are any features, copper, steel and linseed oil form them, but they do not stand out with the prominence they did a week ago. Every effort is apparently being made by the big producers to maintain copper prices, but the statistics wholly antagonize their efforts and promise to neutralize their prophesies for the future. Iron and steel prices remain strong, but more owing to the mills being occupied with old orders than pressed with new; consequently the prospects are certainly against further advances, if they do not at present call for declines. At the same time it is to be noted that locally there is a scarcity of material which is seriously interfering with the progress of buildings under construction. Linseed oil, too, has had its sensational decline and recovery, and must now be subject to demand only, which appears to be light. Other prices are maintained well without indications of radical change in the immediate future.

Lumber.—The lumber situation continues satisfactory. The activity of demand and buoyancy of prices characteristic of the market all summer promises to last throughout the autumn in nearly all the different branches of trade. Spruce lumber is urgently wanted on all sides. The yellow pine situation calls for comment, both because of the number of orders being received and the difficulty of their satisfaction. The mills are all as busy as they well can be, with the result that ordinary sizes are hard to get; large ones almost impossible. The hardwood market is better than it was, and slowly, but nevertheless surely, improving. Quartered and plain oak are in good demand and are unchanged in price. Elm is somewhat weak. Poplar is remarkable for its strength.

Lath.—Offerings have continued limited, and with a fair inquiry prices have been maintained at $2.75.

Bricks, Cement, Lime.—A fairly full volume of business has been transacted in common hard Hudson River brick, but offerings have been pretty free, and prices have not changed. The demand for both Rosendale and Portland cement continues fair, and with no pressure of goods prices have held steady at old quotations. A fair volume of business has been transacted in the market for eastern lime, but offerings have been ample and prices have not changed.

Builders' Hardware.—The general market has shown a good undertone, and the volume of business done has reached fairly large proportions. Exceptions to the general rule, however, have been noted in a few lines. Manufacturers at a recent meeting made some moderate cuts in their price schedule.

Nails.—The demand for wire nails has been on a moderate scale only, buyers showing a disposition to keep purchases well within current wants. Quoted prices have been unchanged at $2.30 for carload lots f. o. b. mill, and $2.60 for small lots from store at New York. It is understood, however, that at competitive points concessions are being made from these prices. Cut nails have been in moderate demand. The recent scarcity of standard sizes is being overcome. Prices have been unchanged at $2.18 for carload lots f. o. b. mill, and $2.18 to $2.30 for small lots from store at New York.

Plumbers' Supplies.—A fair business was done in futures during the past week. Spot business is exceedingly light. There is nothing new to report in connection with the tin plate market. The demand for spot plates is of very small proportions, and the scarcity is still as pronounced as ever. While the American Tin Plate Company have made no change in their quotations, purchasers who are obliged to buy plates still have to pay a premium of $2.00 per box or more over the officially-quoted rates. Nearly all the sheet mills of the American Sheet Steel Company made idle by the strike have been started, and the output of sheets is, consequently, materially increased. It will, however, take the mills two to three months to catch up with their back orders. Considerable scarcity still prevails; prices remain very strong, particularly on black sheets. There has been some cutting of prices on galvanized sheets, although the stocks of this material are still as light as at any time.

Glass.—There has been a fair demand for window glass during the past week, but trade has not been what dealers looked for at the end of the month. Yet the season's trade compares favorably with the same period last year. The supplies in the jobbers' hands will probably meet the demand until the fires are started in November, although some dealers say there will be very little surplus stock by that time. Most of the small glass dealers have little stock on hand at present, and have not been recent buyers, as they were looking for lower prices. It is stated that the increase of $2,500,000 to be made in the capital stock of the Pittsburg Plate Glass Co will be added to capital account, which has been heavily drawn upon by the recent establishment of the company's paint department and extension of its jobbing interests. The large part of this paint and jobbing investment is said to represent surplus.

Paints.—There has been a moderate business in all grades of paint, but dealers state that trade thus far has not been up to expectations, and although there has been an increase over the volume of business done last year, there has not been the activity looked for at this season. The market is steady and prices are held firm, no change being noted in any line. Consumers' stocks are said to be rather light, and paint-mixers and jobbers look for an increased demand this month. White lead has been fairly active, and the volume of business done shows a decided increase over last year at the same season. Notwithstanding the unsettled linseed oil market there has been no change in price of white lead.

Linseed Oil.—The situation is still one of uncertainty. No one believes that present spot prices can long be maintained, and consequently no one is willing to buy more than absolutely necessary to carry them along until they begin to receive deliveries on October contracts. Whether these will begin promptly or not is still a matter of conjecture, but those in a position to know are of the opinion that buyers who have been expecting to get deliveries from the very beginning of the month will have to cover their needs for some time yet by purchases in the open market.

"New Standard" Electric Elevator Adopted by the New York Herald.

The Marine Engine and Machine Company, with offices at No. 1123 Broadway, have been awarded the contract for installing one of their "New Standard" electric elevators in the "Herald" Building, this city. This machine will have a capacity of 6,000 lbs.

Building News.

MERCANTILE.

Broadway, Nos. 373 and 375, near White st, 6-sty store and loft building, 49.10x150; Henry Corn, No. 142 5th av, owner; Robert Maynicke, No. 725 Broadway, architect. Mr. Corn obtained this property in a trade in 1899; he had plans drawn to alter the building, but found it would cost nearly as much as a new one. The old buildings are now being torn down. Nos. 377 and 379, a 10-sty building, at the southwest corner of White st, is owned by J. B. Haggin.

14th st, southeast corner of 7th av; F. Wandelt, No. 131 East 34th st, is drawing plans for a 7-sty fireproof hotel on plot 46.6x100, to be erected at this location at a cost of $125,000. Adolph Du Bouchet, who has purchased the property, intends to cater to an exclusively Cuban trade. The architect expects to be ready for figures in about one month.

APARTMENTS, FLATS AND TENEMENTS.

Tiffany st, near Burnett pl, and northwest corner of Burnett pl; F. Wandelt, No. 131 East 34th st, has drawn plans for a 5-sty flat to be erected on the corner, and for seven 2-sty flats to be erected on the east side of Tiffany st, near Burnett pl. He will be ready for bids in about a month.

Tiffany st, near Boulevard; F. Wandelt, No. 131 East 34th st, is drawing plans for a 5-sty brick flat with store to be erected here. He will be ready for estimates in about three weeks.

ESTIMATES RECEIVABLE.

By Treasury Department, Washington, D. C., until November 6, at 2 p. m., for the construction, including heating and electric wiring of the U. S. Post Office at Fitchburg, Mass., in accordance with drawings and specification, copies of which may be had of the Postmaster at Fitchburg, Mass., or James Knox Taylor, Supervising Architect.

By the Board of Education, corner of Park av and 59th st, until October 14, at 4 p. m., for erecting Public School 141, westerly side of Leonard st, between McKibbin and Boerum sts, Borough of Brooklyn. Plans and specifications may be seen at the estimating room of the board, corner of Park av and 59th st.

45th st, Nos. 44 to 50 West, extending to No. 43 West 44th st. The Seaboard Realty Co. are taking estimates for the steel construction for the 12-sty apartment hotel which they will erect at this location from plans by Ludlow & Valentine, No. 100 Broadway. The building fronts 80 feet on 45th st, and 18.9 on 44th st.

68th st, Nos. 501 to 541 East; estimates are now being taken for the 8-sty 99x144 addition of the building of Central Brewing Co.; William Griesser Construction Co., No. 11 Broadway, are the architects.

Adee Park, Borough of the Bronx; estimates are being taken for the erection of eight 2½-sty frame dwellings, which the Adee Park Syndicate, No. 55 Liberty st, will erect from plans by W. H. A. Horsfall, No. 76 William st.

CONTRACTS AWARDED.

92d st, southwest corner of Park av; R. J. Mahoney, No. 1135 Broadway, has the general contract for alterations and extension to the dwelling of C. H. Barrett. He desires estimates from carpenters; Robert T. Lyons, No. 41 Union sq, architect.

Broadway, west side, from 44th to 45th st. The general contract for the 12-sty hotel which W. W. Astor will erect at this location for W. C. Muschenheim, has been awarded to John Downey. The work of tearing down the old buildings now on the site was begun this week.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Bowery, near Houston st; Francis X. Grady, No. 9 East 42d st, has made sketches for a 3-sty music hall to be erected here on a plot 75x100.

Central Park West, from 76th to 77th st; York & Sawyer, No. 156 5th av, are the architects for the new building which the New York Historical Society will erect at this location. The building will be three stories high and occupy a plot 204x125, which the society has owned since 1891, and for which they paid $286,500. The church of the Divine Paternity is located at the southerly corner of this street, and the Museum of Natural History occupies Manhattan Square to the north.

Morningside av, northeast corner of 113th st. The trustees of St. Luke's Hospital have decided to erect a building for private patients at a cost of $300,000; Ernest Flagg, No. 35 Broad st, was the architect for the other buildings erected on the hospital grounds.

BROOKLYN.

Degraw st, between Nostrand and New York avs; Charles Roberts, care of Empire Marble Co., Flushing, L. I., is drawing plans for three two-family dwellings for Harry Housen, No. 16 2d pl. Work will start in three weeks.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT.

Arverne, L. I.—Boulevard and Caston av. W. H. A. Horsfall, No. 26 William st, N. Y., is drawing plans for eight 2-sty frame stores and flats for the Arverne Realty Co., to cost $25,000.

Rockville Centre, L. I.—Benjamin Driesler, No. 1432 Flatbush av, Brooklyn, is drawing plans for a frame stable for Michael Lapp.

Shelter Island, L. I.—L. L. Bishop, Montclair, N. J., is drawing plans for a 2½-sty frame dwelling, cost $7,000, for Mrs. Joshua Post.

For plans filed see pages 430 and 445.

Of Interest to the Building Trades.

Owing to the rush of work, there is talk among the journeymen plumbers of a demand for increased pay and a Saturday half-holiday, to go into effect on 15th inst.

As stated in a previous issue, the next annual meeting of the New York Lumber Trade Association will be held at the association rooms, 18 Broadway, on Wednesday next, 9th inst. It is expected that there will be a very large attendance.

The long-established and reliable firm of iron-workers—J. B. & J. M. Cornell—26th st and 11th av, are making a specialty of jobbing and repair work for which their facilities are the very best.

It is reported that a combination of limestone and other stone companies of Pennsylvania is being formed and application will be made in a few days for a charter. The new combine will have a capital of $6,000,000.

A model in plaster of paris of the county Court House as Horgan & Slattery propose to rebuild it is being erected in the Judge's chambers of the Supreme Court for their further consideration. The plans call for two additional stories to the old building with an extension in the rear and a large courtyard.

The Portland Co., with offices at No. 1135 Broadway, this city, have secured the contract for installing the hydraulic elevator equipment in the new building of the New York "Press," Nos. 9, 11, 13 Spruce st. Mr. B. G. Seymour is the resident agent for the Portland Company.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. send the Record and Guide a copy of a work entitled "Glass," devoted to a description of their extensive wares, that is the best thing in the way of a trade pamphlet that has come to it this year. There is an illustrated description of the manufacturing process in this book which is very interesting, but the chief feature is formed by some thirty pages or more of colored designs in leaded art glass in which its varying and beautiful effects are reproduced with wonderful fidelity and artistic finish. These pages ought to be invaluable to owners and architects as a guide in the selection of ornamental glass.

The A. B. See Electric Elevator Co. are about to close a contract for the purchase of a large tract of land not far from Jersey City, for the purpose of erecting a large elevator manufacturing plant. This move has been made necessary by their largely increasing business. The factories when completed will be of the most modern type, and will be supplied with the very best of railroad facilities in the way of sidings, etc., which will afford them great convenience in transportation. Up to this time the A. B. See Electric Elevator Company have confined the sale of their elevators to New York City and vicinity, but are now extending their field of operations to a larger territory.

Work in the direction of removing the legal obstacles to the building of the Brooklyn extension of the Manhattan underground railroad is proceeding according to schedule. Application was made to the Supreme Court, Appellate Division, in this borough on Monday for the appointment of a Commission to determine the necessity of the road in lieu of the consents of property owners along the route. It was said that out of a total assessed value of $20,733,500, the owners of $2,225,700 only had consented to the construction of the road. It must not be supposed that the owners of the large remainder objected to the building of the road. Apparently, according to statements of counsel, they were merely apprehensive that by giving formal consents they might be stultifying their legal position in the event of injury being done to their property through the construction and operation of the road. The Commission appointed for the Manhattan end of the extension, i. e., that from the postoffice to South Ferry began taking testimony this week. President Orr and W. B. Parsons, Chief Engineer, gave evidence as to route, method of construction and cost, the facts brought out in regard to them being the same that have been published several times before.

Corporation Counsel Whalen has advised the Comptroller that the sale of the old Coney Island pier by the city in foreclosure should proceed. The sale is dated for 17th inst. in the Willoughby st salesroom. The expectation is that the plaintiff will be the buyer and will make the property one of the public attractions of the island.

John Guilfoyle, Commissioner of Buildings, reports that the number of permits granted by his Department for new buildings and alterations during the month of September, 1901, and the estimated cost of the same was as follows:

Brick buildings, 98; cost, $989,100; frame buildings, 140; cost, $377,065; alterations, 134; cost, $178,050; total number of permits issued, 373; total estimated cost, $1,544,215; total estimated cost for September, 1900, $1,851,767; excess in favor of 1900, $307,552.

Frank E. Baker, of the "Criterion" on Fulton st, says this borough is to have a new theatre backed by capitalists from over the river. The probable site is placed by rumor in Bedford av, near Fulton.

AGENT'S COMMISSION.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

When a real estate agent has his sign "To Let" or "For Sale" on a piece of property, or a house, occupied by owner, and owner rents or sells same himself, can agent claim commission? He, the owner, surely would not have got the customer if there had been no sign on the house.

Answer.—If the sign is placed upon the house with the authority of the owner the agent should receive his commission.—Law Editor.

LANDLORD AND TENANT.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Tenant signs a lease for a private house, for $1,400 per year. Owner agrees privately to rebate $100. $50 on first month, and $50 on last month of the term. This the owner has done, but sold the house in March, 1901. The lease expired Sept. 30, 1901. New owner collects rent as per lease, but is later on made aware of the rebate. While negotiations are pending for new lease on practically the same terms as old lease, with second owner, a lis pendens is entered for foreclosure of mortgage. This was filed last week. Question: To whom does tenant pay rent for Oct., 1901, and what amount?

Answer.—The "second owner" is entitled to the rent. If no different agreement has been made he can claim $116.67.—Law Editor.

NO COVENANT AGAINST INCUMBRANCES.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

"A" sold a piece of property to "B," passing over deed for same in March, 1898, which was duly recorded in the clerk's office of Atlantic county at May's Landing, N. J., and signed by said clerk. Covenants in said deed read as follows: "And the said 'A,' for himself, his heirs, executors and administrators, doth by these presents covenant, grant and agrees and with the said party of the second part, her heirs and assigns, that he, the said 'A,' his heirs, all and singular the hereditaments and premises herein above described and granted, or mentioned and intended so to be, with the appurtenances, unto the said party of the second part, her heirs and assigns, all and every other person or persons, whomsoever lawfully claiming or to claim the same, or any part thereof, by, through, from or under him, them, or any of them, shall and will warrant and forever defend. In witness whereof the said parties of the first part to these presents have hereunto set their hands and seals. Dated this day and year first above written." Duly signed, sealed and delivered. "C" has served a notice on "B" that he holds a mortgage on said premises as conveyed by "A" to "B." Would like to know is the above a full warranty deed? If not, what redress has "B"? "B" bought in faith of above being free and clear.

Answer.—The covenant quoted is a covenant of title, not a covenant against incumbrances. If that is the only covenant in the deed it is not a warranty deed with full covenants. I cannot tell what, if any, redress B has, unless I see the deed, or know all its covenants. It may simply convey the interest of A in the property; in such case B would have no redress unless false representations were made to him.—Law Editor.

NEW LAW AS TO BROKERS.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Respecting your opinion expressed under "Questions and Answers," in issue of September 21st, seems to me that if a broker offered property for sale from oral authorization only, and as a result, the owner sold the property to the party with whom broker negotiated, that the oral authorization would merge into written authorization, viz.: the contract of sale of said premises.

Answer.—In such a case, if there was no actual written authorization, I do not think that the broker could recover his commission if the defense of "no written authority" should be interposed.—Law Editor.

SHOULD HAVE HAD A WRITTEN LEASE.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Could you give me your opinion in this matter? Some years ago I rented, from an agent authorized by the landlord, a private house with a ten (10) years' lease with the privilege to improve and make a business building. In the rear there is a stable, and it is just why I took the building, for which I expended $4,000. It was agreed in the presence of several witnesses that I could get the stable at any time at the rate of so much a year. A year after, when I asked for the stable, the agent said it was leased to another party. I told him that the stable belonged to me because I need it for my business, and it is why I expended so much to improve the front building. The agent said that the verbal lease is not good. I told him if the verbal lease is not good, he rented this house in false representation. The owner resides in a foreign country, but the lease is signed by him with the legalization of the American Consul. Please let me know what I can do.

Answer.—You can do nothing.—Law Editor.

FILING OF CHATTEL MORTGAGES.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Kindly state whether the Greater New York Charter, in its regulations for filing of documents—chattel mortgages, for instance—has abolished the small town clerk's offices existing in counties like Queens, and has provided one central office for such purpose.

Will a study of the charter give a clear idea on these points, or are they best studied in some other publication?

Answer.—Section 1555 of the Charter provides that all papers "now required to be filed and recorded in the town clerk's office * * * * shall * * * * be filed and recorded in the office of the Clerk of the County in which such town is situated." There are no more towns or town clerks. The towns are united and consolidated into the City of New York.—Law Editor.

COMMISSION.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

To settle a controversy, will you kindly decide the following in your next issue: A is agent for an apartment house owned by B. B terminates A's agency as soon as he has rendered his August account, and without any previous notice. (1) A claims that he is entitled to his agency commission on the rent paid direct to owner by one tenant (tenant doing so on account of a dispute with A), for several months past. (2) A also claims the usual commission as a broker for renting an apartment last spring less what he has charged as agent, from month to month, for collecting this tenant's rent: B claims he should have charged from month to month on rent paid direct to owner, otherwise he has waived it, and as agent he is not entitled to charge any commission as a broker, for renting apartments. Which is right?

Answer.—B is wrong. A does not claim all he is entitled to. He is not obliged (2) to deduct from his commission for renting what he charged for collecting.—Law Editor.

VENTILATION IN TENEMENTS.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Kindly inform me what is the law regarding ventilation on bulkhead over stairs. Must the skylight over same have ventilating louvres? I have reference to present completed buildings.

Answer.—Sec. 83 of the new tenement house law requires that in every tenement house hereafter erected or now existing there shall be in the roof, directly over each stair wall, a ventilating skylight with both ridge ventilators and fixed louvres, the glazed surface thereof to be not less than twenty-five square feet.—Editor, Record and Guide.

News, Notes and Notions.

THE NERNST LAMP AGAIN.

The "Electrical World" is giving a good deal of space to the discussion of the merits and defects of the Nernst lamp. Among other things it says: "The 'bugs' in the Nernst lamp seem to be three: First, the ballast, which reduces the working efficiency; second, the heater, which is one more rather delicate element to replace; and, third, the blackening of the globe, which is practically more serious than either of the other faults. It is this which really places the lamp in the arc light category, compelling periodical attention and forbidding, therefore, its installation in inaccessible places. The life of the glower seems reasonably good—very good, if new glowers can be cheaply supplied. The efficiency of the lamp is less than the early foreign reports would suggest—a little better than that of an ordinary incandescent, considering the drop in the efficiency of the latter during service, but scarcely so good as that of a first-class direct-current enclosed arc. As to quality of light, the lamp seems to leave little to be desired. Its illumination is white and steady and free from shadows, surpassing, on the whole, either arc or incandescent. If the Nernst lamp could be conveniently made of small candle-power, say, 16 to 20, it would intrude at once on the domain of the incandescent, but there are apparently difficulties in the way, and the attention required by the globes is a serious matter when one goes into small sizes that must be used in considerable numbers. Moreover, the present tendency is toward more thorough sub-division of the illumination than heretofore." The conclusion reached is: "Although the Nernst lamp is as yet untried on a commercial scale, and while its field is restricted by certain present faults, it is a factor that cannot safely be neglected in estimating the development of electric illumination and the future methods of electrical distribution."

THE GENDER OF "AUTOMOBILE."

This question of gender is a vexing problem to French grammarians. Many writers make it feminine. Emile Faguet is among them. But the "Auto-Velo" reproached him for defying the academy, which is said to have voted for the masculine. Faguet then wanted to know why the Academy made "automobile" masculine, at the same time that it made "locomobile" feminine. "Why," was the reply, "an automobile is clearly too ugly to be feminine."

PHILIPPINE FORESTS.

Access has been obtained to a report from Capt. G. P. Ahern on forestry in the Philippine Islands. It is the first definite and official statement as to timber lands in the far Eastern possessions of this country. Capt. G. P. Ahern is the head of the Forestry Bureau organized in the islands by the United States. "From various sources of information I am led to believe that the public forest lands comprise from one-fourth to possibly one-half of the area of the Philippine Islands, viz., from 20,000,000 to 40,000,000 acres. There are fully five million acres of virgin forest owned by the State in the Island of Mindoro and Paragua. The Island of Mindanao, with an area of more than twenty million acres, is almost entirely covered with timber, there being but a small percentage of cultivated land. In the Province of Cagayan on the Island of Luzon there are more than two million acres of forest. In the places just mentioned the cuttings up to the present date have been very small. In many other Provinces in the Island of Luzon, especially in the country close to Manila, much timber has been cut, and to fill large contracts the lumbermen are obliged to go quite a distance from this city to find a suitable tract.

"There are 396 tree species mentioned in the present forestry regulation. We know of fifty more growing in these islands, and from time to time we learn of still other species. It is safe to state that the number of native tree species found will be nearer 500 than 450, a great majority of these undoubtedly being hardwoods. The edges of the great forests have been scarcely cut away, and fifty valuable hardwoods are given to the world, the full value of which species has not been demonstrated as yet. There are great variety of valuable gum, rubber and gutta-percha trees, but the trade has been ruined by the Chinese in their efforts at adulteration and other fraudulent practices. We have a list of seventeen dye-woods, the revenue from which if property exploited should pay the cost of the Forestry Service."

EVIDENCES OF WEALTH.

In speaking of the features of city life that are incomprehensible to country people, a successful publisher said last week: "An apartment house which contains ten or more families stands next to my house. The cheapest apartments in it rent for $2,500 a year. A man who can afford to pay $2,500 a year rent should have an income of at least $10,000, and the presumption is that his income is more than that. I am familiar with New York names, and yet when I had an opportunity to look over the list of names of men who lived in this apartment house there was not one on the list with which I was familiar. I never had heard of any of them. Here were ten men who lived next door to me, each of them having an income that would mean wealth in the country, and none of them was known to me. It is by such sidelights as this that one may get an idea of the wealth of this city."—N. Y. Sun.

TO DRILL HOLES IN GLASS.

In order to drill a hole in glass it is necessary, says the "Pottery Gazette" of London, to have a hard and well-tempered steel drill. This may be prepared by heating to a dull red, and then plunging into mercury so as to become hard. It is, however, necessary to temper the shaft of the drill. Imbed the point of the drill in a piece of lead. The temperature of the shaft of the drill can be raised by means of a blow pipe till there is a blue color nearly to the point. The drill and lead together are now immersed in cold water, when the first will be ready for work. This tool, when mounted in a holder and with the point moistened with turpentine, attacks glass rapidly. Do not press too heavily when working the drill, and if possible work from both sides of the glass successively. To enlarge a hole thus obtained, use a rat-tailed file soaked in turpentine. A steel drill may be hardened when at red heat by dipping into any cool liquid. Another method is to saturate commercial muriatic acid with zinc—do this in the open air. The drill should be ground before hardening. When at red heat dip in the solution to harden; or a spear-shaped drill, heated to a red heat and hardened in mercury, and then sharpened on an oil stone, may be used. The drill is firmly rotated at the desired spot with an alternate motion, and lubricated with a saturated solution of camphor and spirits of turpentine. Diluted sulphuric acid may also be used as a lubricant.

THE PRESIDENT'S HOUSING.

Under the custom and tradition of this beneficent government of ours the eight members of President Roosevelt's family, along with the members of his official household and the servants, must now take up a residence in the White House, the domestic quarters of which have been appropriately described as hardly big enough for an ordinary man to "change his mind" in. To specify, there are only five sleeping rooms, and these for the most part cramped and badly arranged, especially where the adequate accommodation of four or five children is to be considered—and when it comes to the disposition of the remainder of the household the problem becomes a decidedly embarrassing one. Congress should provide at the coming session either for a brand-new official residence for the President of the United States, designed on the most liberal lines in keeping with the dignity, the importance and the wealth of the Nation, or else for enlarging the old White House. Sentimentalists object to the latter, protesting that it would be sacrilege to in any way interfere with the architectural symmetry of that historic structure; let it stand as it is, then. But when our President's official residence has a State dining-room that will seat only fifty-eight guests, while the minimum number of invitations to State dinners must now be more than eighty, we are altogether too ridiculous in the eyes of the world, and should not be allowed to continue so.—N. Y. Commercial.

CONVEYANCES.

Whenever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.

2d—C. a. G. means a deed containing a Covenant against Grantor only in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed can be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no express covenants, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it. The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the Insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to their having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

4th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

5th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482, denote that the property is in section 2 block 482.

6th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers, the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

7th.—The letters R. S. mean Revenue Stamp, as R. S. $8.00 means Revenue Stamp $8.00.

Tax on Conveyances executed prior to July 1st, 1901, on $100 to $500, 50c., and for each additional $500 or fraction thereof, 50c.; on Conveyances executed on and after July 1st, 1901, 25c., where consideration exceeds $2,500 and is not more than $3,000, and 25c. for each additional $500 or fraction thereof.
